FARM BOARD UNDER FIRE AT SENATE INQUIRY

Critics Demand Data on Crop Losses.

[Tribune Telegram Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—The federal farm board, in the person of its chairman James [illegible] and Carl [illegible], chairman, was examined before a part of its [illegible] and its [illegible] today into a [illegible] defense of its policies and a concerted plea for very [illegible] from the [illegible] and the [illegible] heard [illegible] fact [illegible] a deluge of questions shot at them by [illegible] members of the senate committee on agriculture. Crowding the [illegible] chairs at their backs were [illegible] of farm association heads [illegible] of farm marketing organizations.

It was into this critical and even [illegible] atmosphere that Chairman [illegible] dropped down a surprise package [illegible] anxiously awaited annual report with its news that the board, [illegible] the Grain Stabilization corporation, had bought in all 329,641,052 [illegible] at a total purchase [illegible] $270,500,962.72; that it held [illegible] bushels at the close of [illegible] year, June 30, 1931, and [illegible] still held on Nov. 1 139,656,187 [illegible].

Decline to Estimate Losses.

Before an audience, perhaps four-fifths of whom were dissatisfied with [illegible] farm relief had taken, Chairman Stone and after him Mr. [illegible] declined to estimate the [illegible] losses.

"We admit no losses," they declared, "until the wheat and cotton are disposed of."

At the request of Senator Charles [illegible], chairman of the committee, however, Mr. Stone promised to [illegible] an estimate of the losses [illegible] incurred through sales and [illegible] potential losses on the basis of [illegible] prices, of the wheat and the [illegible] bales of stabilization cotton. [illegible] hinted what those losses [illegible] amount to by explaining that [illegible] wheat had cost an average of [illegible] cents a bushel, that it cost between [illegible] and 1¼ cents a bushel [illegible] to carry it, and that the average [illegible] price received for amounts sold [illegible] have been between 53 and 54 cents a bushel. The cotton, they said, cost [illegible] average of 16.33 cents a pound; carrying charges would bring this [illegible] to 18 cents a pound and that it [illegible] now worth about 6.75 cents a pound.

Says Federal Money Vanishes.

Mr. Williams agreed that $70,000,000 represented the approximate potential loss on cotton at the present [illegible] prices.

Those in attendance listened attentively to the tale of this prospective disappearance of federal money. [illegible] many who wish to see [illegible] done away with entirely [illegible] indestructible and now admitted[illegible] entrance of government into [illegible], while nearly all those in favor of maintaining the board in existence wish to include provision for [illegible] equalization fee or the debenture, [illegible] in the farm marketing act.

Formerly Mr. Stone defended the [illegible] of wheat, and Mr. Williams that of cotton. They told how [illegible] had been smashing right and [illegible], how many had loans secured by [illegible] commodities which would have [illegible] dumped on the market had prices [illegible] lower.

Mr. Stone argued that the farmers [illegible] benefited since they had held 250 [illegible] bushels of wheat when stabilization [illegible] was begun. It was pointed out [illegible] that this was less than a third [illegible] total crop, and it was suggested [illegible] that the federal money had done [illegible] for the banks and grain dealers.

Norbeck Wants Bank Relief.

Bank relief should not be taken [illegible] of the farmers' funds," Senator [illegible] Norbeck of South Dakota commented.

Both Mr. Stone and Mr. Williams [illegible] stabilization—though valuable as a temporary measure in a season [illegible] emergency—had proved a failure [illegible] a long time cure.

They were assailed for not having [illegible] corn and live stock in the same fashion. They were caught up [illegible] when they described their ef-

Auto in River; See Woman's Body in Seat

An automobile with the body of a woman in the rear seat was reported partly submerged in the Des Plaines river at Des Plaines early this morning. The car apparently had run through a wooden fence along Miner street on the east side of the river, a short distance from the bridge, and plunged into the stream, reports to the police said.

Desk Sergt. Joseph O'Donnell dispatched a squad from the Des Plaines police station on the west side of the river to get a boat and investigate the reported tragedy. The sergeant said observers had been unable to determine definitely whether there were any other victims in the automobile, but that it was believed there might be bodies in the front seat.

Residents in the neighborhood of the accident said they had not heard the car crash through the fence during the night. The road curves slightly at the point where the automobile broke through the fence and is about 12 feet from the river.

JAPANESE ROUT CHINESE FORCE IN SHARP FIGHT

Drive on Chinchow Under Way.

BULLETIN.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 25. (Wednesday.)—(AP)—Sixty Chinese and three Japanese were killed in a sharp battle late yesterday at Kaotaishan when two Japanese companies routed 350 Chinese troops, according to an official report received here today.

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 25. (Wednesday.)—(AP)—Demanding a declaration of war against Japan, more than 8,000 Chinese students rioted here today, held up all railway traffic and wrecked the stationmaster's office until they were given five trains in which to go to the capital at Nanking.

BULLETIN.

TOKYO, Nov. 25. (Wednesday.)—(AP)—The Japanese government today instructed Kenkichi Yoshizawa, its representative at Paris, to accept the league council's Manchurian peace resolution with the single reservation that the second clause be understood not to preclude "such military measures as may be required for the protection of Japanese lives and property from bandits and other lawless elements."

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 24.—A new battle between Chinese and Japanese troops near the village of Kaotaishan, four miles northwest of Chuliuho and about 20 miles west of Mukden, began at 10 a. m. today and lasted until late this afternoon. The outcome of the engagement, which in neutral circles here is considered to be the beginning of a Japanese drive towards Chinchow, was unknown.

An official report tonight from the office of Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander in chief, said one Japanese infantry company and one company of engineers were on a practice march early this morning from Chuliuho when they were fired on by Chinese troops concealed on a hilltop. The Japanese commander sent a company of infantry as reinforcements from Mukden this afternoon. Japanese officials called the engagement a "minor affair."

Report Bandits in Action.

A Japanese news agency here this afternoon said a force of 400 Chinese mixed bandits and irregulars was operating near Hsinmin, about 30 miles west of Mukden, on the Chinese owned Peiping-Mukden railway.

The news agency also reported that an additional Chinese force of between 700 and 800 men was operating 12 miles south of Hsinmin, while a third Chinese force, carrying flags bearing the inscription, "Salvation Troops," was operating near Tankansu hot springs, about 30 miles south of Mukden.

The supposition in Japanese military circles is that the Chinese forces are preparing to attack in an effort to head off the Japanese drive on Chinchow.

Foreign Army Men Reach Mukden.

Five foreign military attachés from Tokio, including Lieut. Col. James G. McIlroy, American; Col. Thayer Rajchiwan, Polish; Maj. C. Baron, French; Lieut. Col. J. H. Simson, British, and Maj. Joseph M. Parode, Argentine, arrived here this afternoon accompanied by Maj. Isayama of the Japanese general staff at Tokio.

The party is traveling under the auspices of and at the invitation of the Japanese with the object of viewing the scenes of the recent Sino-Japanese conflict in north Manchuria which resulted in the capture of Tsitsihar.

Launch War on Bandits.

TOKIO, Nov. 25 [Wednesday].—(AP)—Japan launched an offensive yesterday against a force of Chinese bandits, estimated to number as high as 12,000, who have been established in the rough country southwest of Mukden, Manchuria.

Dispatches received by the Japanese Rengo News Agency said the operation was entirely successful. According to these dispatches Japanese infantrymen, working with the assistance of airplanes, routed the bandit force and drove them west of the Liao river.

Japanese military authorities here denied that the action was aimed at Chinchow, where Tokio has heard

Texas Elects Wet Democrat to Congress

Clinches House Rule

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—The Democratic victory in the Fourteenth congressional district of Texas tonight virtually assures Democratic organization of the house of representatives and the election of Representative John N. Garner [Dem.], Tex.] as its speaker when congress convenes Dec. 7.

The election of a Democrat to fill the seat vacated by the death of Harry M. Wurzbach, a Republican, brings the count in the house to 218 Democrats, 214 Republicans, one Farmer-Labor, and two vacancies, one in the First New Hampshire district and the other in the Fifth district of New Jersey.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 2[illegible]—(AP)—Richard M. Kleberg of Corpus Christi, a Democrat, was elected to represent the Fourteenth congressional district of Texas in the national house today to succeed the late Harry M. Wurzbach, the state's sole Republican congressman, who was serving his sixth term when death removed him.

How District Voted.

Returns from the 11 counties of the district, the vote being complete in four of them and the others so nearly complete that outstanding votes hardly could change the result, gave him a plurality of 5,000 votes over a field of eight candidates.

Kleberg polled 17,[illegible] votes to 12,463 for Carl Wright Johnson, Democrat, of San Antonio, and 4,924 for C. W. Anderson, Republican, of San Antonio, campaign manager for the late Congressman Wurzbach. Anderson had the backing of all factions of his party in Texas and the Republican national committee sent him financial [illegible].

Anderson took no forthright stand on prohibition, but declared for law enforcement and upholding the constitution. He claimed support of the W. C. T. U. Kleberg urged modification of the 18th amendment, but opposed return of the saloon. Johnson, who ran second, was classed as a "dripping wet." He demanded modification and favored submitting repeal of the 18th amendment to the voters.

Grandson of Ranch Baron.

Congressman Elect Kleberg is a former cowboy, a grandson of the late Richard King, founder of the famous 1,250,000 acre King ranch, and for years the largest in the world. Kleberg's father, manager of the King estate, wanted him to be a lawyer and although he acquired an education and a license to practice law, he never did so, preferring instead the life of a rancher. He formerly was president of the Texas Cattle Raisers association and widely known throughout the seven counties that comprise the district.

MILWAUKEE JURY REFUSES TO CONVICT IN LIQUOR CASES

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Reluctance of Wisconsin jurors to convict defendants on liquor law charges was shown in cases disposed of in the Federal court of Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger, here yesterday.

George Sagemueller of West Allis was acquitted on charges of possession and transportation and possession of articles designed to manufacture liquor. His co-defendant, Emil Tisal, was acquitted on two felony counts, although he had pleaded guilty to possession.

Carl Raatsch, proprietor, and Charles Storm, head waiter of the Old Heidelburg, one of Milwaukee's leading cafés, were acquitted on a charge of maintaining a nuisance, although the place had been padlocked as a nuisance by Judge Geiger. Raatsch was acquitted of a sale charge and Storm of a possession charge, but Storm had pleaded guilty to selling liquor and was sentenced to six months.

Six minor defendants were dismissed on motion of the government because their co-defendants entered pleas of guilty. There were 31 pleas of guilty today, the defendants receiving short sentences or fines.

Tom Mix Near Death; Serum Rushed by Air

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Sudden development of peritonitis rendered critical tonight the condition of Tom Mix, cowpuncher star of the screen and circus, after an operation today for a ruptured appendix.

In response to a call by his physician, Dr. R. Nichol Smith, for a special serum, an airplane from San Francisco arrived tonight at United airport with a supply from the laboratories of Stanford university.

A motorcycle messenger met the plane and rushed the serum to the hospital. Pilot Harry Downes of the Varney Airlines, buffeted by a heavy gale, was forced to make two attempts at landing with the serum and six passengers.

Hope Rests on Serum.

"Mr. Mix's condition is critical and will remain so for at least 48 hours," said Dr. Smith. "The bacteriophage is our best hope for recovery. Mix's mind was clear when he awoke after the operation, but because peritonitis has set in his condition is now dangerous."

Mix, who returned recently after a season with a circus, was stricken at 11 p. m. yesterday. The operation was performed two hours later.

He has been engaged in making a series of western "shorts." His next picture was scheduled to go into production Friday.

Fred Niblo Operated On.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 24—[Special.]—Fred Niblo, well known film director and husband of Enid Bennett, was operated on today for appendicitis. Dr. Philip Ayer, who is attending him, stated that Niblo came through the operation without ill effects.

Policeman's Shots Rout 3 Other Bandits

One policeman stood up and shot it out with four armed robbers last night in a drug store at 1500 West 13th street.

The battle ended with one robber dead, the others fleeing, and the policeman, John Freichel of the Maxwell street station, unharmed.

Policeman Freichel had been detailed to remain in the store each evening from 8:30 until 10:30 o'clock. He was concealed behind a prescription counter when the four men entered. One carried a rifle, the others had pistols.

Bandit Leader Threatens Owner.

The leader walked up to the proprietor, Myron Faier, who had been robbed five times in the last year.

"Stick 'em up," he commanded.

Faier, through long experience with the ways of bandits, was ready for such an emergency. He dropped behind the cigar case just as Policeman Freichel with drawn pistol stepped out from behind his counter. One of the robbers saw the policeman and shouted:

"Shoot the big police bum."

Three of the men turned toward Freichel and discharged their weapons. Freichel fired back at them. The robbers fled for the door.

Policeman Keeps Shooting.

Policeman Freichel kept firing at the men in the doorway and followed them to the open air. As he reached the door three of the robbers had staggered to a car that was waiting, with a confederate at the wheel. Two of them are believed to have been wounded.

The man who was fatally wounded turned west after leaving the store and collapsed in a passageway less than a hundred feet away. He had been shot in the head and the body.

He was identified as Thomas Meagins, 17 years old, 1122 Polk street. He had been held to the grand jury in the Boys' court on Oct. 2 as an automobile thief. Identification was made through finger prints at the bureau of identification.

Wounded Suspect and Pal Held.

Early this morning Sam Gandusa, 23 years old, 827 Cambridge avenue, appeared at the Henrotin hospital with bullet wounds in the foot and side. He was accompanied by Sam Garofolo, 823 Cambridge avenue. Gandusa said he had been shot by a robber at Chicago avenue and Franklin street. No shooting had been reported to the police from that neighborhood and both men were held for questioning in connection with Policeman Freichel's battle. Garofolo has a robbery record, the police said.

In another holdup last night William Conway, colored, owner of a restaurant at 622 West 50th street, was slain. He was shot down in his restaurant by three Negro robbers when he reached for a gun as they entered.

Robberies Increase in Cold.

Cold weather yesterday apparently caused an increase in the number of robberies over the city and in the suburbs.

A band of three robbers, leaving two women confederates at the door as lookouts, swept late last night into Clifford Huston's drug store at 5201 Cottage Grove avenue. Huston and a clerk were compelled to lie down behind a counter and eight customers were ordered to line up against a wall. The robbers left with $70 from the cash register.

Two men entered the Stiel style shop at 25 Madison street, Oak Park, and compelled the owner, Mrs. Agnes Stiel, and a clerk to go into a rear room. They then took dresses and other goods valued at $3,500, stuffed them into sacks, and departed.

William Bergey, 6539 North Mozart avenue, and Miss Margaret Kelly were held up by two men in front of Miss Kelly's home at 6423 North Claremont avenue. Bergey surrendered $53. Another pair of bandits entered the shoe store of Joseph Marik at 3600 West 26th street and after terrorizing the owner, his wife and her brother, Frank Tuma, escaped with $90.

BAIN AND HIS KINSMAN NAMED IN TRUE BILLS

Charge Withdrawal from Trust.

A true bill was reported voted yesterday by the grand jury against John Bain, organizer and head of the twelve Bain banks which closed last June 9 owing 140,000 depositors approximately $13,000,000. Bain is 63 years old.

GEORGE BLY SR. [Manager of Bain real estate.]

W. Merle Fisher, son-in-law of Bain and cashier of the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank, also was named in the true bill with Bain, it was reported. The same charges were made against Bain and Fisher.

The specific charge against them is illegal withdrawal of properties from a trust fund, according to State's Attorney Swanson. The report of the true bill came after the prosecutor had made a personal appearance before the grand jury.

An indictment will not be returned against the banker for several days, it was said, since the exact form of the indictment has not yet been determined. It is possible, according to Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers, that the evidence will eventually require a conspiracy indictment, with a number of others in addition to Bain being named as defendants.

Predicts Felony Charge.

It is certain, however, the prosecutor declared, that Bain will be accused of a felony and that conviction will carry a penitentiary sentence. The duration of such a sentence would depend upon the number of counts listed in the indictment.

With the naming of Bain and Fisher three members of the family have been named in true bills by the grand jury. Bain's eldest son, John H. Bain, has been named in two true bills with cashiers of two Bain banks who are charged with obtaining money under false pretenses and operation of a confidence game upon bank customers.

The head of the banks has been in the German Evangelical Deaconess hospital for three weeks. He has undergone a minor operation and is to submit to a second operation.

Trust Founded in 1922.

In 1922 Bain founded a trust, which was known as trust No. 687 of the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank. In this trust were placed real estate equities and building corporation stock. The value of the trust was placed by the banker at that time at $1,600,000. Bain issued notes on this trust, signed by himself, to the amount of $500,000. These notes were sold to the various Bain banks, which in turn sold them to the public.

At present, it was said, the public holds $409,000 of these notes.

Under the law, it was explained by Prosecutor Ayers, nothing may be taken out of such a trust unless cash equal to the value of the property taken out, or securities or property also equal in value, are substituted in the trust.

Charge Against Banker.

Late in 1930 Bain took out three pieces of property from the trust, it is charged. The total value of the property taken was $600,000. Nothing was put in the trust to replace this property, and it was on this alleged omission that yesterdays' true bills against Bain and Fisher were based, it was reported.

The smallest of the three pieces of property was worth about $40,000. It was taken back by the receiver after the banks closed. Mortgages on the other two pieces of property were pledged by Bain with the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company as security for a $175,000 loan for himself.

Judge Impounds Mortgages.

When this evidence was first uncovered by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg in his inquiry into hidden assets of John Bain, Inc., he ordered the mortgages impounded in his court. Whether the mortgages are the legal property of the Continental Illinois bank or will ultimately be returned for the benefit of investors in the trust is a question which probably will be decided later by the courts.

Just prior to the closing of the banks in June, Bain redeemed about 700,000 of the notes issued on the trust. But there still remains $402,[illegible]00 of the notes outstanding.

state's attorney's office, Arthur Tarman, in charge of the receivership department of the state auditor's office, and Irwin T. Gilruth, receiver for the twelve Bain banks, were witnesses yesterday afternoon before the grand jury. It is expected that more true bills will be returned today in the bank investigation.

Judge Feinberg, continuing his inquiry yesterday, spent most of the day trying to ascertain the whereabouts of two trunks taken from Bain's home at 5844 Pleasant avenue on June 23, two weeks after the banks closed. He was able to trace the trunks to the Grand Central station but could not find to what city the trunks had been sent. He subpoenaed the records of railroads leaving the station and will examine them today.

At the close of yesterday's hearing the judge told John H. Bain, Fisher, Miss Anna Eunson, Bain's personal secretary; James Gammonlay, his bookkeeper, and George M. Bly, manager of the Bains' real estate and a lifelong friend of the banker, that they must appear before him in court on Dec. 1.

Before issuing this order, the judge asked each of those named if they wished to add anything to their previous testimony or change any of their evidence. Each said he would permit his testimony to stand.

The order to return Dec. 1 caused comment in the courtroom. The gossip was that the judge would take some action against those named on that date.

Brothers Are Witnesses.

John C. Bly, president of the Bly Storage and Warehouse company was the first witness questioned by the judge concerning the two trunks. His brother, George W. Bly, treasurer of the company, was also examined.

The two brothers testified that on last June 23 at 5 p. m. they were told to send a truck to the Bain home to pick up two trunks to be taken to the Grand Central station at Harrison and Wells streets. The trunks were to be dispatched on a train leaving before midnight, according to testimony.

"Where were the trunks consigned?" Judge Feinberg asked George Bly.

"I don't know," was the answer.

"Were they to be sent to Wisconsin?" asked the judge.

"I don't recall."

Judge Feinberg said he was informed that the trunks carried special tags and labels with the instructions: "Not to be opened until——" The Bly brothers said they had not noticed these tags.

Banker's Son Questioned.

John H. Bain, called to the stand, said he had heard something of the trunks and thought they belonged to Hazel and John Byrd, grandchildren of John Bain.

He was asked concerning the whereabouts of his sister, Mrs. Jean Baker, wife of Charles H. Baker, former assistant cashier in the Armitage State bank. The judge had received information that Mrs. Baker had gone to the West Englewood bank the day before it was closed and had been given a package which she took with her.

Mrs. Baker now lives in Mount Summit, Ind., the judge was told. A telegram was sent to her asking her to come to Chicago, so that she might be questioned.

George Bly, father of the Bly brothers, and manager of Bain's real estate, was summoned to the stand several times during the session. He was asked concerning a package taken by Miss Teresa Moroney, stenographer, from the office of John Bain, Inc., to her home after the banks closed. He said Miss Moroney, who was questioned later, said the package contained nothing but stationery and pencils.

Tells of Bank Accounts.

Henry Kloese, cashier of the Halsted Street state bank, testified that his bank carries two accounts of the Bain family. One is in the name of the South Side Agency and Loan company, organized since the closing of the Bain banks, by Bain and his sons and has a balance of $1,420. The other is in the name of Bain's wife, Mrs. Jean Larkins Bain, and has a balance of $890.

Victor Munnecke, receiver for the Mount Greenwood Trust and Savings bank, testified that when the bank failed in September, accounts were held in the name of Mr. and Mrs. Bain, John Bain & Co., John H. Bain, and John Bain, agents. All the accounts were small, he said, none being above $800.

John S. Reiner, president of the Reiner Coal company, testified that he bought ninety shares of stock in the coal company back from Bain on Aug. 13, paying $800 for it. All these witnesses were questioned as a part of Judge Feinberg's effort to find present assets of Bain which he might seize for the benefit of depositors.

Delve into Shorthand Notes.

Evidence in the shorthand notes of Miss Nina Rutsay, stenographer to Bain, was withheld until today. Judge Feinberg announced that Miss Rutsay had not finished reading her notes and translating them. The originals of the letters which Bain dictated after the banks closed are missing and the shorthand notes are expected to reveal some more transactions by Bain.

ORDERS DRUGGAN SALE

Judge Feinberg revealed that no machine guns had been found in the apartment of Terry Druggan, gangster, as had been reported. The report was due to an error by an attorney for the receiver for the West Central State bank, to which Druggan owed $17,000. The lawyer mistook the listing of two boxes of cartridges to mean two machine guns.

Judge Feinberg issued an order that all Druggan's furniture found in his apartment at 7054 Greenview avenue be sold at auction. Proceeds of the sale will be used to satisfy Druggan's indebtedness to the West Central state bank.

An inventory of the furniture showed love seats, artificial flowers, mostly draperies and carpets and fancy statues had been purchased by Druggan to adorn his home. A grand piano and bench, music roll cabinet, and other expensive furniture will be sold. The furniture has been valued by the receiver at approximately $30,000.

CLEW TO BANDITS FOUND IN ARSON PLOT

Gang Sets House Afire to Distract Police.

An arson plot which the gang that robbed the Western Springs State bank on Monday executed to distract attention during the robbery yesterday yielded a clew to the identity of the bandits. At the same time the robbers' car, a stolen vehicle, was found abandoned with blood spots on its front seat, evidence that one of the gang had been wounded in the gun fight that followed the holdup.

The car was the one that was stolen on Sunday evening from Attorney Albert Fink, 1430 Lake Shore drive, who was held up at Lake street and Ogden avenue. It was found abandoned in Downers Grove early yesterday. The blood spots were where two members of the gang sat while four companions took $5,000 in the bank holdup.

Chief Tells of Arson Plot.

Police Chief Clarence Berg of Western Springs and a citizen fired on the robbers with revolvers as they fled after the holdup. The chief told yesterday of the arson plot, designed to lure him away from the business district of Western Springs during the holdup.

At noon, the hour of the robbery, Chief Berg is the only member of the police force on duty. The bandits had evidently discovered that, along with the fact that he answers all fire alarms in the village, he said.

Shortly before the bank robbery the Western Springs fire department received an alarm that a house in the outskirts of the village was burning. Chief Berg failed to get the alarm and thus was in the village hall, across the street from the bank, when the robbery took place.

Hat Called Clew to Gang.

After the fire was extinguished, firemen found that a galon can of gasoline had been used to start it. They also found a hat, badly scorched, which apparently had been dropped by the incendiary. Chief Berg said he was convinced that the fire was started to lure him away from the vicinity of the bank during the robbery.

The hat bore the label of a dealer on the west side, in the neighborhood frequented by the "42" gang. Chief Berg notified Chicago police of the discovery and they sought known members of the gang in connection with the robbery.

GUARD WHITE HOUSE WHEN COMMUNISTS TALK DEMONSTRATION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—A cordon of metropolitan and park police was thrown around the White House today following threats of a communist demonstration in protest at the unemployment situation. The officers waited in vain. There was no demonstration.

Police were told this morning that communists were going to picket the White House every day until the convening of congress Dec. 7. A special detail, composed of city policemen, park policemen, plain clothes men and secret service agents, was posted around the grounds.

Capt. Patrick Carroll, who was in charge of the special precautions, said that while no trouble is anticipated, police intend to put a hasty stop to any demonstration such as the recent one in which several so-called communists were arrested after a demonstration at the White House and capitol. President Hoover at that time ordered the release of the persons arrested on the ground that their arrest only served to arouse sympathy.

The extra guard will be available, White House officials say, any time between now and the convening of congress that the communists attempt to picket the executive mansion or demonstrate in any other way.

PICK GOOD MEN FOR OFFICE, IS CERMAK ADVICE

Mayor Cermak met yesterday with elected Democratic public officials of Cook county at the fifth of his round table conferences. The mayor discussed the necessity of obtaining legislative relief for the financial troubles of the local governments and declared that the city in making up the 1932 budget will have to keep within its estimated revenues. He said the Democrats must pick candidates for office who will be able to administer their posts creditably.

SAILOR IS FOUND SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury in the case of Howard Norman, 20 years old, who was found shot to death early in the day beside the Grand Trunk railroad right of way in Harvey. A revolver was lying on the youth's body. Norman, a jobless sailor, formerly lived in Morris.

HUNT MITCHELL JEWEL ROBBERS IN 'VALLEY' RAIDS

Police Seize 10 Suspects in "42" Gang.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frances Daley, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in Pontiac reformatory; Todd Smith, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Four squads of detectives swooped down yesterday on the resorts of the "42" gang in the west side "valley" district and arrested ten alleged members of the gang for questioning in connection with the $150,000 jewel robbery Saturday night in the Lake Forest home of William H. Mitchell.

CHIEF TIFFANY. (Blessing Photo.)

The raids were directed primarily in a search for Frank Tufano, supposed leader of the Mitchell robbers, but the ten prisoners, most of them in their 'teens, will be paraded in a show-up before victims of the robbery. They will also be shown to witnesses in the robbery on Monday of the Western Springs State bank, also believed to have been perpetrated by members of the "42" gang.

Seize Alleged Leader.

Among the prisoners were John Cabotta, 22 years old, 1645 Taylor street, reputed to be the leader of the gang at present, and Anthony Pape, 22 years old, one of Cabotta's lieutenants. The others arrested were Daniel Fanello, 18 years old, 2232 Campbell Park; Carmen Lipuma, 17 years old, 761 South Kenneth avenue; Michael Gilfone, 18 years old, 921 South Marshfield avenue; Alphonse Guerriaro, 17 years old, 1110 South May street; Rocco Gallassi, 18 years old, 1932 Flournoy street; Charles Seno, 19 years old, 902 South Laflin street; Laurence Cozzi, 23 years old, 1430 Flournoy street, and John O'Hara, 26 years old, 4219 West End avenue.

Fanello was driving a stolen car when sighted by the squad of Sergt. Charles Moore at Polk street and Ogden avenue, and led the squad in a two mile chase before he was captured.

A picture of Tufano, sought as the leader of the robbers, was identified yesterday by servants in the Mitchell home. Mrs. Mitchell also said that she thought Tufano was one of the robbers, but was unwilling to make a positive identification from a photograph.

A bullet riddled automobile, believed to have been the one in which Tufano was riding when he was fired on by a police squad on Monday, was found early this morning by Sergt. Frank Reynolds of the detective bureau at Ashland avenue and Congress street where it had been abandoned. The car had been reported stolen by John A. Morvissey, 1230 South 54th avenue, Cicero, on Nov. 17.

Put Gems in Vaults.

Police Chief Frank Tiffany of Lake Forest used the Mitchell robbery as an example yesterday in appealing to wealthy north shore residents to place their jewels in safe deposit boxes for the winter. With the increase in crime bound to come this winter because of the depression, the jewels will be a lure to gunmen if worn to club functions and dinners in the suburbs, and the subsequent robberies may result fatally to some of the victims, he pointed out.

CLUB PRESIDENTS BACK CARD PARTY TO HELP NEEDY

Invitations Sent to Many More Women.

Invitations of dozens of Chicago society clubs yesterday announced their enthusiastic support of the Chicago Golden Card tournament, to be held the evening of Dec. 3 to raise funds for relief work.

Proceeds of the tournament will be used by the Joint Emergency Relief fund, which is striving to raise $5,000,000, and the Hungry School Children fund, whose object is to feed every child whose parents can't buy sufficient food.

The responses of the club women who after the tournament had been formally endorsed by Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, chairman of the women's division of the emergency fund; Mrs. Samuel G. Goodwin, financial director of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, and Mrs. Henry W. Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations. These leaders invited all clubs to participate.

Replies from Presidents.

Following are the responses from some of the club presidents:

MRS. BESSIE BRAGG PIERSON of the Illinois Woman's Athletic club—"We will be glad to cooperate with Mr. Cudahy and THE TRIBUNE to make the Golden Card tournament a success."

MRS. DONALD I. GRAHAM of the Chicago Daughters—"We are all loyal to Chicago and its needs. Many of our members are enthusiastic golf players and will welcome the opportunity to enter and to aid the good cause."

MRS. NELLIE RYAN of the Catholic Woman's club—"The Golden Card tournament is a splendid idea. I do for it. I believe every women's organization should get back of it and put it over in a big way."

MRS. CHARLES P. SCHWARTZ of the Chicago Woman's aid—"Our association is in accord with the Golden Card tournament, and is planning to do a full share in supporting it."

MRS. MARCO ADROGNA of the Italian club—"This is a wonderful plan to aid in the work of relief. I shall be glad to cooperate in every way."

MRS. GUSTAV W. KUNSTMAN of the Woman's Progressive club of Chicago—"We hope the Golden Card tournament will be a big success and will try to make it one."

Hotels to Have Parties.

There are examples of the manner in which Chicagoland is taking this tournament for relief into its heart. There are others. More than twenty large hotels are planning to have large parties in the cardrooms and ballrooms. Some are going to furnish floor superintendents of play as well as the refreshments and extra entertainment. Business organizations, from individual companies to the Chicago Association of Commerce, are already in with orders. Individuals are coming.

There will be fun in this tournament. The hands are interesting, although not too difficult, and either auction or contract may be played. At every table there will be a stern contest between North-South and East-West teams. There is, moreover, a chance for every team to get into the finals and battle with other experts on Dec. 15 for the handsome trophies and the Chicagoland championship.

All prospective players must do now is to send in orders and remittances for cards. Play is in four hands and four prearranged packs of the beautifully specially printed cards are used. The price is $2 a pack, or $8 a table. Every cent above the actual cost of the cards and the printing of score sheets, which is assumed by the sponsors, goes to the relief funds. Approximately $4.40 from each table's $8 or $8 goes to the funds.

Invitations to Clubwomen.

Mrs. Cudahy yesterday issued supplementary invitations to clubwomen whose names were not printed yesterday in these columns, requesting them to back the tournament. Invitations were sent to the following district presidents of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs:

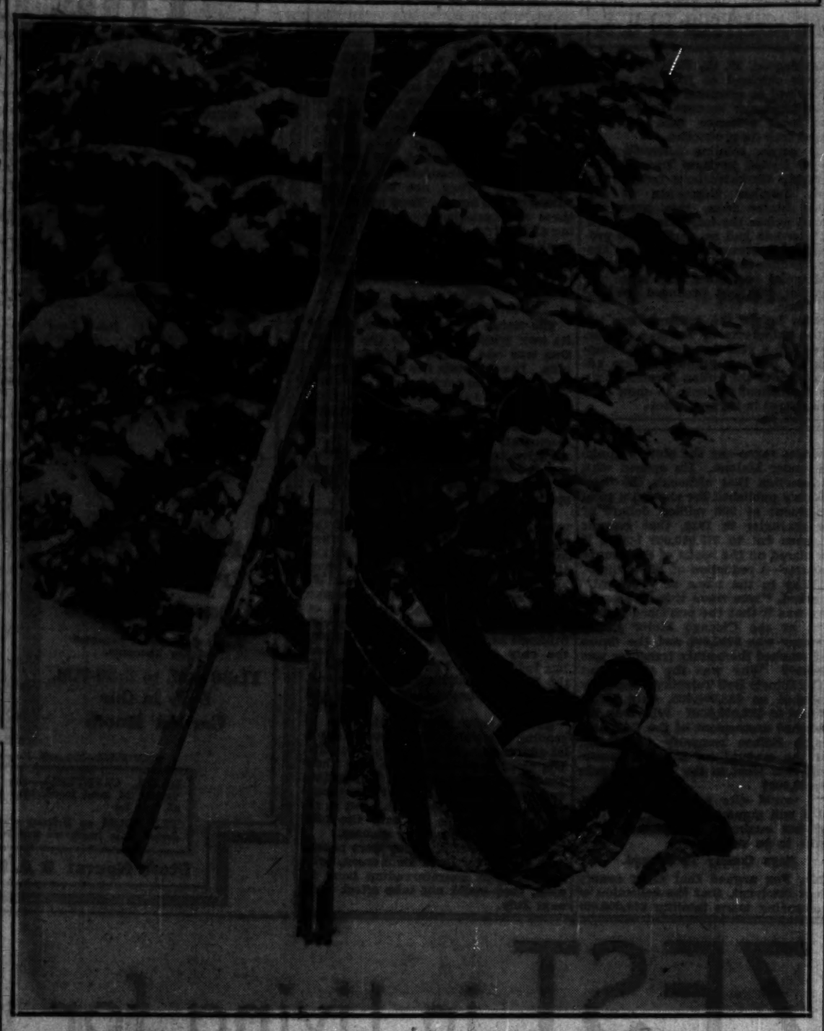
First district, Mrs. Thomas Boughier.
Second district, Mrs. Oliver R. Runyan.
Third district, Mrs. Fred W. Waisenaar.
Fourth district—Mrs. Anthony J. Chaloupka.
Fifth district, Miss Meta C. Meisner.
Sixth district, Mrs. Emma S. Oliver.
Seventh district, Mrs. John T. Bunting.
Eighth district, Mrs. Anna Kerwin.
Ninth district, Mrs. James J. Reynolds.
Tenth district, Mrs. Iver Jeffreys.

The following women also were invited:

Mrs. Wilbur H. Fridley, president, Chicago Executive league.
Mrs. Frank H. Fulton, president, Chicago Real Estate club.
Mrs. Carl I. Boorhaus, president, Friends of Animal Welfare.
Mrs. Winfield Benson, president, Illinois Press club.
Mrs. Joseph Saravia, president, Italian Women's club.
Mrs. Arthur Pisana, president I Will club.
Mrs. Peter J. Fox, president, Lake City club.
Mrs. Myrtle Merryweather, president, Park Manor Woman's club.
Mrs. J. B. Poynton, president, St. Cyril Woman's club.
Mrs. E. A. Lyden, president, South Bryn Mawr Wednesday club.
Mrs. M. J. Chladek, president, Woodlawn Study club.
Mrs. Howard Baurher, president, Auburn Park Thirty club.
Mrs. August S. Poris, president, Brainerd Woman's club.
Mrs. William B. O'Connell, president, Sherman Park Woman's club.
Mrs. Norman Findlay, president, West Lawn Woman's club.
Mrs. C. Sundheimer, president, Friendship Civic Woman's club.
Mrs. John K. Beers, president, Gage Park Woman's club.
Mrs. Elmer J. Stonehouse, president, Marquette Manor Woman's club.
Mrs. James Russell, president, Matheta club.
Mrs. Matthew Wyll, president, Neighborhood Woman's club.
Mrs. Michael R. Riedle, president, Ogden Park Woman's club.
Mrs. Emma M. Marcotte, president, Central Woman's club.

Mrs. Cudahy urged that in cases where there will be no meeting of club directors before the Golden Card tournament the club presidents should take action to put their organization in the affair.

It Won't Be Long Before Chicago Gets Its Turn



Scene at Denver, Colo., after Saturday's ten inch fall of snow. Miss Phyllis Stubble got out her skis immediately and they got the better of her as Miss Esther Maxwell offered her condolences. The mercury in Chicago reached the freezing point yesterday, but it will be clear today, although snow may be expected soon. [Associated Press Photo.]

Chicago in 1874: Memories of a White Thanksgiving

"It snowed that Thanksgiving day in 1874 and the Wabash avenue horse cars were stalled in the drifts, so we all rode to church in a carriage."

Mrs. Addie Hibbard Gregory, a society belle of fifty years ago, glanced out of the drawing room window of her prim, old fashioned home at 1555 Prairie avenue. Her eyes fell on an abandoned brick mansion across the street and the railroad yards beyond. Another Thanksgiving was drawing near and Mrs. Gregory's memory turned back to the holidays of her girlhood.

"We had many Thanksgiving reunions in that old house—my father built it fifty-five years ago," she mused. "I well remember the white Thanksgiving of 1874, the year before we girls went abroad. We were living at 13th street and Wabash avenue then.

An Era of Men in Shawls.

"Father put on his tall hat, his frock coat and his shawl—all men wore shawls in those days. He had one look at the creeping horse cars and decided the weather called for a carriage. We bundled up and drove to Trinity church at 26th and Michigan for an Episcopal union service. I was 15 then."

Mrs. Gregory's father, the late William Gold Hibbard, had plenty to be thankful for that year, with other business men of the community. Chicago was lifting itself from the ruins of the great fire of 1871 and his wholesale hardware house, now Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., was thriving in the reconstruction boom.

"Thanksgiving dinner was a simpler meal in those days, but appetites were heartier," said Mrs. Gregory. "There was oyster soup, a great delicacy, and three turkeys, topped off with mince and pumpkin pies. There were no fresh vegetables and few fruits. Salads were unheard of until some years later when a Mrs. Douthitt of St. Louis introduced the first mayonnaise dressing.

A Big Job for Mother.

"But Thanksgiving meant an enormous task for mother, for it brought all the married sons and daughters, nieces, nephews and grandchildren to the family table. Mother had thirty-two sets of silver and needed them all. On Thanksgiving eve the old servants always came back to help prepare the feast."

The voice of a Pullman porter, chanting a song as he walked to work with his lunch pail under his arm, penetrated the quiet room and interrupted Mrs. Gregory's reverie. Down the street, where Marshall Field, P. D. Armour and George M. Pullman used to promenade, came a battered truck equipped with a portable broadcasting plant which blared jazz music and announcements of a fire sale.

"They were grand days," said Mrs. Gregory softly, then added with spirit, "but I expect to have quite a happy time at Thanksgiving dinner with my niece's family in Lake Forest next Thursday."

WINDS SWEEP COLD WEATHER INTO MIDWEST

Further Drop in Mercury Due Here Today.

Strong winds from the west yesterday brought Chicago and the middle west a little of the real winter that has prevailed in the Rockies and the western plains for nearly a week.

From a reading of 40 degrees at 7 a. m. the mercury slid steadily downward to 31 degrees at 9 p. m. The discomfort was increased by the high winds. The forecast for today was for fair skies but a slight further lowering of the temperature. Tomorrow, it was predicted, will be somewhat warmer with clouded skies.

Snow Falls in Wisconsin.

In northern Wisconsin snow fell last night to a depth of several inches and drifted heavily in front of a northwest wind. Motorists were warned of danger on the roads due to the drifts.

Temperatures rose somewhat in the mountain states during the day. New York and other eastern cities were still basking in the summerlike temperatures of the past week. The high at Boston was 72, at New York 68, and at Washington 72. The cold from the west is expected to reach the east today.

Falls on Los Angeles Ice.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Francis MacDonald, a milkman, slipped on the ice while delivering milk to a Los Angeles home this morning and broke his leg. He was taken to a hospital. Six persons were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes from gas heaters which had been called into use in the coldest spell of November weather in Los Angeles in twelve years. Several suburbs reported frost, with temperatures in the low twenties. A high wind from the north snapped off trees. Orange and lemon growers continued to burn smudge pots to protect the ripening crops from frost. A man was frozen to death near Watsonville.

SHUT SOUTH SIDE BANK; EXPECT TO PAY DEPOSITORS

The Equitable Trust company of Chicago will not open for business today, according to an announcement made by officials of the institution last night. Examiners from the office of State Auditor Oscar Nelson were busy last night going over the books of the bank preparatory to its closing.

William A. Nicol, cashier of the Equitable Trust, which is located at 2218 South Michigan avenue, said that the closing had been ordered at a meeting of the board of directors. He indicated that the assets would be sufficient to pay all depositors in full after a period of liquidation. On Sept. 30 the institution had total resources of $1,285,000, capital of $250,000, a surplus of $50,000, and total deposits of $691,582. Lawrence H. Whiting is president.

The Equitable occupies the site of the defunct Michigan Avenue Trust company, which was wrecked by Warren Spurgin, its president. Capital for the new bank was subscribed, in 1921, mainly by the depositors of the old Spurgin bank.

SEVENTEEN BEGGARS FACE JUDGE, AND 14 AGREE TO QUIT CITY

Confronted with the choice of a fine or of leaving Chicago, seventeen beggars appeared before Judge Francis Borrelli in the Des Plaines street police court yesterday. Fourteen of the prisoners took advantage of the city's expressed desire to run street beggars out of town and were dismissed on their promise to be out of the city limits by nightfall.

Norman Heslip, 43 years old, no address, and Gustave Nelson, 41 years old, 2207 North Oakley avenue, were fined $100 on disorderly conduct charges. They will work off the fine at $3 a day in the Bridewell.

One of the men arraigned, David Anderson, 22 years old, offered a strange contrast to the others. He was neatly dressed and appeared with his wife, Frieda, and his six months old son, David. Court attaches made up a purse of $5 when he told of having lost his job several months ago and of begging to obtain food for the baby. He said he collected 65 cents in half an hour in the loop.

TWO INDICTED IN QUIZ INTO STATE JOB SALE CHARGE

The Kane county grand jury returned indictments at Geneva yesterday against George Bost, 43 years old, and William G. Stone, 50, arrested at Elgin last Saturday on charges of selling jobs at various state hospitals.

Bost, an attendant at the Elgin state hospital, and Stone, the proprietor of a food concession there were each named on four charges of operating a confidence game and obtaining money under false pretenses. Both were arraigned before Judge J. E. Newhall and pleaded not guilty.

Following their arraignment, the pair were taken before the grand jury to testify concerning Springfield phases of the job traffic. At the same time E. F. Throgmorton, fiscal supervisor of the office of Rodney Brandon, state welfare director, issued a statement denying that he had received any part of the $35 to $75 "fees," alleged collected by Bost and Stone on their promises to secure appointments for job hunters.

State's Attorney George D. Carbary produced six witnesses, all of whom told the grand jury they had paid Stone money to get jobs for themselves, for relatives, or others.

TEACHERS ASK TO BE FIRST ON CITY PAY LISTS

In a resolution directed to Mayor Cermak and other city officials, 300 south side school teachers at a mass meeting in the Hyde Park High school yesterday demanded that the salaries of all city employés be withheld until the teachers are paid. As a final resort, the petition urged that the $10,000,000 in the city's aggregate of funds reserved for interest on bonded indebtedness be made available for school salaries. The resolution was introduced by Robert C. Keenan of the Bowen High school.

George O. Fairweather, assistant business manager of the University of Chicago, told the teachers that "the school board should clean its own house forthwith or resign in a body." He charged the board with direct responsibility for failure to pay its employés. "If one-half of what teachers tell me is true, then the school board is not entitled to the confidence of the taxpayers," he said.

GUARD N. SHORE HOME OF CLEANER WHO CUT PRICES

A police guard was detailed yesterday at the home of Frank Murrie, Lake Forest, and at his cleaning and dyeing shop at 197 Scranton avenue, Lake Bluff, after he had received threats because he had lowered his prices. He told the police that he received an anonymous telephone call on Monday warning him that he "would be sorry he cut his prices." Yesterday six men entered his shop while he was away and asked for him. "We are interested in this price cutting affair," they told an employé, "and we'll be back. It will be just too bad."

Murrie had lowered his price for cleaning from $1.25 to $1. Last night as Chief of Police Frank Tiffany rode past the house he noticed a dark sedan moving slowly. The occupants, upon seeing the police guard, speeded up and the sedan was lost in traffic.

SENATE IGNORES HOUSE OVERTURE ON RELIEF BILLS

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Plans for coöperation between the two chambers of the general assembly on the maze of revenue bills before them went awry today, the emery dust being thrown from the high councils of the senate.

SEN. R. J. BARR. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The idea originated in the house with Minority Leader M. L. Igoe of Chicago, who proposed that a joint committee sit down together and find out which bills have a chance of passage. Faced as they are with a welter of programs and individual measures, the assemblymen have made but crawling progress and the special session is already in its fourth week.

This steering committee plan was well received by house leaders, but when it reached the senate this morning cold water was applied in icy floods, the principal opposition, it is understood, coming from Richard J. Barr of Joliet, the Republican president pro tem.

Consider Sales Tax.

As each body went its way alone and the senate engaged in a huddle over a general sales tax proposal which has been tossed in and out of the debate so often. Its stanchest protagonist was Minority Leader Thomas J. Courtney of Chicago, who met opposition but eventually succeeded in having a committee of ten senators appointed which will hold a hearing in the city council chambers in Chicago Saturday and report back next week.

The committee was named by Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield]; who presided most of the day by virtue of the entire senate being convened as the revenue committee, of which he is chairman.

Besides Searcy, these senators were named: Barr, Courtney, Harold C. Kessinger [Rep., Aurora], Roy C. Woods [Rep., Chicago], Francis J. Loughran [Dem., Chicago], James O. Monroe [Dem., Collinsville], Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., Brookfield], James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston], and Joseph Mendel [Dem., Chicago]. This group lines up as six Cook county men and four from downstate; six Republicans and four Democrats. They will hear from anybody, Courtney said, who knows anything about a general sales tax.

All Bills Advanced.

The action followed the one important legislative move made during the day in the upper chamber, that of advancing all the contentious bills of the governor's tax conference and those sponsored by the Chicago Real Estate board to second reading. This does not indicate, however, that the senate approves all these measures, for the advancement was made without recommendations, meaning that it was only a move to get the bills in the open and, as one member remarked, "in better range of the artillery."

All this progress was not accomplished without a tremendous amount of effort being expended. Practically the entire morning meeting passed in review as a succession of motions—first one, then another, from all quarters of the senate and most of them contributing to, rather than clearing, the muddle.

It began with a sentiment for action on the income tax bill apparent, which rolled Courtney.

"I see what you downstaters want," he said. "You want to pass the income tax first so it won't be any use to consider anything else. Let me tell you [waving at the Republican side] that the Democratic party is interested in reducing the taxes of the small home owner. Your income tax won't do that."

"Why, the Democratic party never reduced taxes in its life," scoffed Senator Barr.

"And do you know why?" retorted Courtney. "It's because they were always in the minority. These tax conference bills are called 'Chicago relief bills,' but when the voting begins you'll find downstate voting for and Chicago against them. I believe the nineteen Chicagoans in the senate are against the income tax. If you want to help us, don't vote us additional taxes."

"Didn't your mayor sign this conference report?" asked Kessinger.

"His name is on it," replied Courtney.

"Are you denying that he signed it?"

"I can say this," Courtney told him, "no one can deny that Mayor Cermak is trying to reduce the taxpayer's expenses. That report is a good deal like the Wickersham report—a lot of people signed it and said it was no good. The report was turned over to us to see if we could find a better one."

Amid the turmoil Senator William R. McCauley [Rep., Olney] rose to his feet to issue an ultimatum.

"The best way to kill this program is to continue as we have for three weeks," he said. "I know some downstate members who are getting tired of this haggling and if you're not careful you'll wake up some day and find you don't have a quorum. If Cook county has to have relief let's quit this rag chewing and heckling, and get to work."

Pass Courtney's Motion.

With this ringing in their ears the senators advanced the bills and passed Courtney's motion. Then they adjourned for lunch and returned in the afternoon to hear from Hayden Bell, Cook county attorney, and John M. Pratt of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers.

These men were followed by Mr. Sutherland who was questioned closely by Courtney as to what help the Cook county tax payers would receive if the income tax bill passed and other taxes sponsored by the conference failed. He replied that he believed their tax bills would be reduced about five or six per cent.

At the close of the session two bills were introduced. In one, Senator Mendel asked that the Chicago city council be given permission to pass a city sales tax. He is already the author of a state wide general sales tax bill. The other measure, by Senator Barbour, calls for a $3,000,000 bond issue for Lincoln park, without a referendum. He explained that the park was given authority at the regular session to ask permission of the people for that amount in 1932 but has since found that it must have the money now in order to complete the land reclamation program and other improvements.

BILL FOR A CUT IN STATE SALARIES UP IN MASSACHUSETTS

Boston, Mass., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Reductions of from 5 to 20 per cent in the salaries of state employes, from the governor down, are proposed in a bill filed in the house today by Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware.

Employes receiving less than $2,000 a year would not be cut under the terms of the bill. All reductions would be for 1932 only.

Those getting $8,000 and over would be cut 20 per cent. All receiving from $6,000 to $8,000 would be cut 15 per cent, those receiving $4,000 to $6,000 would sacrifice 10 per cent and employes receiving $2,000 to $4,000 lose 5 per cent.

133 MILLION TAX CUTS IN CHICAGO LAID TO STATE

County Assessors Hit Back at Critics.

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Representatives of the Cook county board of assessors, appearing before the house of representatives today attacked the record of the state tax commission under the chairmanship of William H. Malone, who retired from office last January.

This was the "bomb" which it had been whispered the Chicagoans would explode as a counter attack against those who have criticized the tax situation in Cook county. It was designed to support charges that the real responsibility for that situation rested on the reassessment of real estate ordered by the state body.

The assault was put into words in a public hearing by Charles E. Fox, chief appraiser for the assessors. He is believed to have acted with the full knowledge and approval of Chairman John E. Conroy and Assessor Walter L. W. Meyer, who have been with Mr. Fox continuously here, and who sat on the sidelines today.

Charges Huge Reduction.

Mr. Fox demanded an explanation of large reductions in assessments of corporations—their capital stock and franchise taxes—by the state commission under Malone. He opened with an assertion that although the commission's published list showed a total assessment of 308 million dollars of this character in 1929, that amount had been cut to $75,000,000 before it was placed on the books of the county treasurer—a reduction of 133 millions.

"Why in the name of the Lord," he asked, "was there this difference? Why was it that the published assessment of the Chicago Motor Coach company was $737,000 and the figure that reached the county treasurer was $250,000? Why was the assessment of the Illinois Bell Telephone company published as $22,000,000, only to be reduced to $12,000,000? Why was the published assessment of the Commonwealth Edison company $32,000,000, and the amount on the tax assessment that went to the treasurer only $16,000,000?

"I could cite other illustrations, but I will summarize by saying that this tax ought to be enforced or it ought to be repealed."

Says County Is Solvent.

Mr. Fox argued that Cook county is not insolvent, that the collection of outstanding taxes totaling $69,000,000 of an arrangement for advancing that sum until the taxes are collected would "come close" to putting the county back on its feet.

He opposed the bill providing for the replacement of the present taxing boards with an appointive board consisting of one appraiser and two reviewers, saying that any such a change would not provide any appreciable relief. He said that if the present assessors had not made 6,200 corrections in assessments there would have been 6,200 cases of fraud alleged.

For the first time in the special session seven bills went through the final stage of enactment and now are ready for the consideration of Gov. Emmerson. They are senate bills passed by the house. They include the three appropriation measures providing $161,000 for the costs of the special session, the hen pheasant bill, the two bills permitting downstate townships to make special levies of taxes for the care of paupers.

Crane School Bill Passes.

The house also passed two bills of its own which now go to the senate. One was one of the Roderick school bills. It authorizes the Chicago board of education to continue the operation of the Crane Junior High school. Condemnation of "frills and fancies" came from James T. Burns, Kankakee Democrat, but there were only three negative votes. The other bill passed was the correction of a technical error in a road damage law enacted last spring.

The entire evening session was taken up by speakers in behalf of the $125,000,000 nonreferendum bills urged by the Savage-Myers majority of the Chicago school board. They were Trustee Joseph P. Savage, Albert W. Luce, manager of the Chicago bureau of the Illinois-Indiana Association of Face Brick Manufacturers; Charles Stillman of the Men Teachers' union, the only teachers' organization that has indorsed the bill; P. F. Sullivan of the Chicago Building Trades council, and Oscar Rosenthal, a builder and contractor.

Savage gave most of his time to reading the widely distributed pamphlet advocating the passage of the bills. His chief arguments were that their enactment would provide "immediate and permanent relief" for the teachers and for unemployment. But in reply to a question he said the bills do not carry emergency clauses.

That means that if they were passed and signed by Gov. Emmerson, who is hostile to nonreferendum bond issues, they could not take effect until next July.

ANOTHER SHIPLOAD OF RUSSIAN LUMBER TO BE ADMITTED TO U. S.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Another shipload of Russian spruce lumber will be admitted to the United States tomorrow because the government lacks evidence that convicts entered into its production.

The cargo, totaling 3,000,000 feet, will be landed in New York by the steamship Christiansborg from Archangel. Lumber shipments to the United States from this area are banned unless the importer can show that convicts had no part in the production. Representatives of the Amtorg Trading corporation, the Russian commercial organization, said the shipment was not produced by convict labor.

Twice before the treasury has admitted shipments of Russian timber. More than a year ago nearly 100 shiploads of Russian pulpwood were admitted under the ruling because there was insufficient evidence to show convicts shared in its production.

There's ZEST in Living for people who are really WELL!

BEAUTY
Dull skin—dull eyes come from poisons in your system. Bright eyes, a clear, fresh skin, come naturally when you are internally clean! You have sparkle, life, charm—you are no longer a person half-awake. Start Sal Hepatica now! Note: Sal Hepatica is a great help in the reducing diet.
HEALTH
Life's no fun when you're only half-awake. If you really want to feel fine, sweep away the poisons and wastes—and your clean, poison-free blood will go coursing through your veins and give you a new pep and brightness. Keep internally clean with Sal Hepatica; you'll get a new pleasure out of life.

Clear the poisons from your body . . . Get back your sparkle . . . Start in today with SAL HEPATICA!

Nobody can get what they should out of life as long as they drag around "not feeling very well". If life has lost its joy for you—if you envy people who feel top-notch—start in today with Sal Hepatica—and find out what it is to have fun again.

Clear your system of the wastes and poisons that are clogging it, and you'll get as much fun out of life as anybody! But you'll never really feel well until you keep internally clean.

Instead of seeing everything through dark glasses take the Saline Treatment, with Sal Hepatica. Everything will look different—and you'll look different, too! Because you feel different.

Today—go to the druggist's and get a bottle of Sal Hepatica. First thing when you get up tomorrow morning, stir a teaspoon or so of sparkling Sal Hepatica salts into a glass of fresh water—and drink the bubbling mixture!

You aren't taking "just another laxative". Sal Hepatica is far more than a simple laxative—it's a saline. It is a saline like the salines contained in the famous health springs of Europe, where doctors send wealthy patients who need to renew their vitality.

Sal Hepatica not only acts upon the digestive tract, but, like European salines, it clears away the poisons from the bloodstream. It banishes constipation. It tones you up. It combats colds, headaches, rheumatism, digestive disorders, complexion blemishes. It never has a tendency to make its users stout. Get a bottle today.

THE TRUTH ABOUT SALTS IN THE REDUCING DIET!

Salines are valuable to women seeking to reduce. But, of course, correct diet is the first essential. See your doctor, get the right program for you. The best medical opinion here and abroad highly recommends a dependable saline like Sal Hepatica as an aid in the reducing diet.

CONSTIPATION
Whenever you wake up in the morning with any of the symptoms of constipation—take 2 teaspoonfuls of Sal Hepatica in a glass of water. Promptly, gently the wastes that are clogging your system will be flushed away. You'll feel fine!

HEADACHE
To relieve the intestinal congestion which causes so many headaches, take a teaspoonful of Sal Hepatica in a large glassful of warm water and repeat this saline treatment in 15 minutes if not relieved. Sal Hepatica helps a lot.

COLDS
The very first step in clearing a cold is to flush out the system with 2 to 4 teaspoonfuls of Sal Hepatica in a large glassful of water. Then continue the use of Sal Hepatica each morning before breakfast to keep your system free of congestion.

BAD COMPLEXION
To keep the bloodstream clear of those impurities that so often cause blemishes and skin eruptions, take 1 teaspoonful of Sal Hepatica in a large glass of water upon arising—for a week, or as long as you may find it necessary.

RHEUMATISM
As an eliminant in rheumatism, flush out the system with 2 to 4 teaspoonfuls of Sal Hepatica in a glass of water. Keep free of poisons and acidity by taking 1 to 2 teaspoonfuls in a glass of water before each meal and retiring. It's a real aid.

SAVE INDUSTRY FROM CONGRESS, SPEAKER WARNS

John Spargo Assails U. S. Meddling.

...dings that the coming congress ...ould be allowed to harm the busi... and industry of the country ...ough further regulations were ...ged at a mass meeting held in the ...mon hotel last night. The meet... was sponsored by the Federation ...f American Business. John Spargo ...f Bennington, Vt., editor, writer, and ...former member of the executive com... of the Socialist party, and D. N. ...Lightfoot of Springfield, Mo., were the ...principal speakers.

"In a few days the congress of the United States will meet for a new ses...," Mr. Spargo said. "Never be... in the history of the nation was ...re so much apprehension and dread ...of the possible results of congressional ...ction. In common with all the rest ...of the civilized world, we have been ...experiencing the evils and difficulties ...of a cycle of economic depression and ...collapse of extraordinary duration ...and severity.

Discerns Hopeful Signs.

"The social problems resulting from ...economic cataclysm save strained ...our material resources and our ...spiritual resourcefulness. There are ...signs of encouragement and cheer. ...Amid the black clouds of pessimism ...we can discern the rose glow of hope and ...faith is apparent; faint as yet, but ...unmistakable.

"To meeting of congress could ...have been postponed for six months ...or a year, there would have remained ...a substantial fear. We could have ...greeted this Thanksgiving with ...unmixed joy and confidence."

In his opening remarks Mr. Spargo said he had long been advocating that business must resist the constantly increasing invasion by government of the sphere of private liberty and initiative, and particularly the increasing competition of government with its citizens in business and industry. The Federation of American Business was created for this purpose, the audience was told. Mr. Spargo forsook the socialist movement more than a decade ago.

The speaker dwelt on bureaucracy and paternalism in government. Communism and its variants must be driven out, he said.

Rips Senate "Progressives."

"We have at hand the opportunity to rally the nation's patriotism and influence to crush the ugly treason of using political capital out of a national disaster," Mr. Spargo said. "The most reactionary of all reactionaries in the land, and the most dangerous, are the self-styled Progressives in the United States senate and their followers. They have learned nothing from history.

"Government in business means bad business and bad government. Yet these reactionaries, masquerading as Progressives, continue urging large extensions of government ownership and management of one industry after another.

"Congress could not successfully manage the business of running a coffee stand. But we are asked to intrust it with the management of the nation's industries.

"There are organizations which will ask congress to vote bond issues amounting to billions of dollars for relief purposes. Agriculture, which already has suffered so much from misguided government interference with economic laws, is to be the subject of additional experimentation. The farm board, which has meddled with a bad condition only to make it vastly worse, is to be continued and given expanded powers to waste the money of the people."

Fears New Restrictions.

Mr. Spargo mentioned new restrictive laws pertaining to railroads as one of the dangers facing the country, and the possibility that an effort will be made to put the electric light and power industry under government ownership or control as another.

"Drive government back to its natural and proper bounds," he urged in closing. "Social efficiency, the continued growth of economic well being by a free people, can come only as we are successful in deflating the effort to make the nation subservient to bureaucracy."

Mr. Lightfoot dwelt on the mounting tax bills. The average family now pays $525 each year in direct or indirect taxes, the audience was told, compared with $150 in 1913. Taxation has increased out of all proportion to government income, Mr. Lightfoot declared.

"In 1913 with the gross national income approximating thirty-five billions of dollars, the total taxes collected for the nation, state and municipalities approximated $3,000,000,000." Mr. Lightfoot said. "In 1931 with the national income about forty billions of dollars, taxes for all purposes have increased to the enormous amount of $14,000,000,000 or almost 35 per cent of the yearly national income. In the last 13 years the national income has increased 20 per cent and taxation for all purposes has increased by 470 per cent.

"In private business, when readjustments come and profits decrease, the immediate reaction is curtailment and economy with the intention of making the earnings, if possible, meet the overhead cost of doing business. The method in which politicians handle our governmental activities is diametrically opposed to such a method.

"Politicians everywhere are constantly demanding new sources of revenue, issuance of more and more bonds and increases in all forms of taxation, constantly searching for new lines to tax, until actual confiscation begins to stalk as a specter through the land. This while the the entire business world is crying for drastic reduction in all tax expenditures, and the return to the sanity of a strictly private business endeavor."

President Pats Oxen That Brought Him Potatoes

STORE OWNER CHASES ROBBERS.

After William Sheering had been robbed of $60 in his delicatessen store at 1007 Post 71st street yesterday, he unleashed his dog, seized his revolver, and started in pursuit of the two bandits. He fired several shots, but the robbers outdistanced him.

HOLD UP INSURANCE OFFICE.

Seven bandits held up a branch office of the Prudential Life Insurance company at 2205 Marshall boulevard yesterday, and got $500. They herded five girl employes into a corner of the room.

DAHLBERG FIRM GIVES TO BOTH PARTIES' FUNDS

U. S. Investigation Finds Celotex Records.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—How Brer G. Dahlberg of Chicago, head of the Celotex company and several sugar companies, who helped Senators Watson of Indiana and Davis of Pennsylvania make large paper profits in sugar stock, contributed to both Republican and Democratic national campaign funds in 1928 was told to the senate lobby committee today by John Holland, special investigator.

Holland testified further that he had found in the books of the Dahlberg companies proof that these contributions by Dahlberg, $5,000 to the Republican national committee and $1,000 to the Alfred E. Smith campaign committee had been charged off against three business organizations.

Asked by Senator Thomas J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], acting chairman of the lobby committee since the death of Senator T. H. Caraway of Arkansas, if this did not violate the federal law, Holland replied:

"A penalty of fine and imprisonment is provided for the contribution of money by corporations to presidential campaigns."

Buy Dahlberg Sugar Stock.

Today's testimony represented a continuance of Holland's testimony yesterday, during which he revealed that both Senator Davis, then secretary of labor, and Senator Watson had purchased Dahlberg company sugar stock on notes which carried liability beyond the value of the stock so purchased and made substantial paper profits on the transactions.

Senator Watson explained informally today a memorandum by Dahlberg, introduced in evidence yesterday, indicating that the senator also had been assigned 500 shares of Dahlberg of America corporation stock as a legal fee.

Senator Watson said this was in payment of his expenses while representing the Dahlberg companies in 1927 between congressional sessions in an effort to compromise alleged overcharges by a group of railroads.

Plan Appeal to Congress for Action.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—The Mississippi Valley association, representing 24 states, went on record today for speeding up the completion of the Illinois waterway, the 60 mile missing link between the great lakes and the Gulf of Mexico.

By unanimous vote resolutions were adopted commending the work of the federal government in the last year on the project and urging that the finish be expedited. The U. S. army engineers set May, 1933, as the time for opening the waterway, and a movement has been gathering momentum to finish the job next year, six months or more ahead of the schedule, with a view of aiding employment and business.

"We urge that further efforts be made to advance completion to as early a date as possible," declared the association.

Will Appeal to Congress.

The delegates voted to bring the items in its resolutions, which include the speeding up proposal, to the attention of congress and "by all proper means and through all power channels to press for their favorable consideration at the next ensuing session." President Hoover and Secretary of War Hurley have said they favor putting on more speed.

To get things in readiness for the opening of the waterway, the Illinois legislature was urged to take all steps necessary to insure the usability of the waterways as soon as it is completed. This portion of the resolutions was directed at the bridges and the terminal at Chicago. Col. W. S. Weeks, division engineer, has pointed out that about 18 sanitary district bridges need operating machinery to be installed. The sanitary district estimates the cost at $5,000,000. The resolutions are broad enough to include the idea of a bond issue measure to install the machinery for working the bascules and swings, which now have an average 16 foot clearance.

Want Terminals Ready.

The second phase concerns the $200,000 available from the Santa Fe and Illinois Central railroads, due the state for the building of a loading stage and warehouse at the 21 acre terminal site owned by the state at old Bridgeport, where the sanitary ship canal joins the Chicago river. Here the state already owns a million bushel elevator.

In 1929 the legislature passed a bill for construction of the terminal, but it was vetoed by Gov. Emmerson on the ground it was too broad. Bills have been prepared specifically limited to the $300,000 of railroad money due the state, but word from Springfield is that they do not fall within the scope of the special session. Gov. Emmerson is to be urged to issue a supplemental call under which bills may be considered dealing with the sanitary district bridges and the spending of the $200,000 of railroad money on the terminal.

The resolutions, which were in general terms, radiated the idea which was pounded home by Senator Otis F. Glenn at the banquet last night, that the Illinois waterway is on the verge of reality after thirty years and more, and that the job should be polished up and the channel thrown open to barges at the earliest date possible, regardless of the red rings on the almanac denoting the set schedule.

Ask Speed on All Projects.

Not alone the Illinois waterway but the entire inland water transportation system should be speeded towards completion, the association affirms. The resolutions say the most extensive of the projects should be finished up within five years and all others in the "shortest time consistent with sound engineering practice."

If the force of the army engineers is too small the association urged that it be increased. The engineers were complimented on the work they have done.

"Hurry up" is the keynote of the resolutions.

The idea of a bond issue to finance inland waterways was endorsed in the utterances. No sum was set. Speakers have been talking of half billion dollars. The bonds are to supplement appropriations.

For Private Barge Lines.

Interference by government with the barge lines once the waterway is opened was frowned on by the association.

The resolutions adhere to the principle of private ownership and operation of transportation agencies, and applauds the operation of the inland waterways corporation by the government until common carriers are made secure. An adequate merchant marine is declared essential to marketing abroad.

The association calls for removal of the recapture clause in the transportation act, and urges that congress likewise considers a requirement that the railroads pay their outstanding obligations when able instead of merely issuing refunding bonds.

"We view with disfavor," it says, "the imposition upon any form of transportation, including railroads, of unnecessary restrictions and regulations which impede the maintenance of efficient and economically functioning plants and organizations, able to render the maximum of cost saving service to industry."

Against U. S. Regulation.

The association declared for freedom for water carriers from regulation by the interstate commerce commission of port to port rates.

An enlivening "interlude was furnished by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of United States engineers, who threw away his set speech at the luncheon and in a breezy impromptu came back at speakers who had "sort of riled me up" with criticisms of the army engineers. He said his original speech lacked the "tempo and crescendo," of some addresses he had heard.

New Officials Named.

New officials of the association were elected as follows:

President—Robert I. Randolph, Chicago.

Vice president at large—Thomas F. Cunningham, New Orleans, La.

District vice presidents—W. E. Brock, Chattanooga, Tenn.; J. S. Cullinan, Houston, Tex.; Alex W. Dann, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Col. C. B. Douglas, Tulsa, Okla.; E. T. Harris, Chicago; W. E. Kavanaugh, St. Louis, Mo.; John H. Kelly, Sioux City, Ia.; W. P. Lay, Gadsen, Ala.; George B. Longan, Kansas City, Mo.; Walter Parker, New Orleans, La.; C. F. Richardson, Sturgis, Ky.; J. A. Sunderland, Omaha, Neb.; R. F. Warner, St. Paul, Minn.

Regulation of water rates by the government was opposed by Theodore Brent, traffic counsellor, New Orleans.

NEWBERRY WITNESS FINDS PROHIBITION A BOON TO CAN INDUSTRY

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Alky cans and the tremendous growth of the can business since the inception of prohibition today headlined the trial of Edward M. "Ted" Newberry and the 28 other defendants for conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition laws.

T. E. Schaefer, Des Plaines, Ill., head of the Olive Can company, was on the witness stand for several hours relating his business dealings with Nick Coin, Davenport, Ia., head of the Tri-City Packing company, the Home Loan and Brokerage company, and several other establishments to which large shipments of one gallon cans were shipped in the Tri-Cities during a span of three years' time.

Schaefer testified that Coin not only was the purchaser of several large shipments, but that he also acted as their broker and was given a commission of 2 cents on every can sold in Illinois and Iowa.

Rushed here by airplane from the People's Trust and Savings bank, Moline, records of additional drafts and cashiers' checks were introduced by the government.

DRY LAW DRAWN FOR WEAK, TIES ALL—MRS. SABIN

Mrs. Sabin Tells Why Women Oppose It.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—"Prohibition primarily was enacted for the weak, those who could not control their personal appetites. While we agree that such persons must be an especial care and charge upon the community, we protest that the community must not and cannot be organized on the basis of their limitations."

This was the statement of Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, New York, national chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, who is here to aid the Indiana branch of the organization.

"The word prohibition signifies total abstinence from alcoholic beverages through the force of government interference, not through the free will of an individual," Mrs. Sabin proceeded. "Voluntary abstinence and voluntary temperance arising from free will are highly commendable, but there is no merit whatsoever to abstaining through prohibition.

Revenue Gone to Waste.

"In 1930 the federal prohibition department seized over 29,000,000 gallons of liquor. Think how many millions of gallons they did not seize, and yet the prohibitionists promised that the supply of liquor would be completely cut off.

"I firmly believe that the repeal of an important factor in restoring the eighteenth amendment would be prosperity to the country. Annually $862,000,000 is lost in federal and state revenue and finds its way into the pockets of bootleggers, racketeers, and eventually to corrupt officials. Think what could be done with this money if it were diverted to the channels of health, education, and social welfare!

"The Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform will urge congress to permit the people to vote, state by state, on the question of retention or repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

Mrs. Sabin addressed a mass meeting here attended by 500 persons, of which Mrs. J. S. Holliday was chairman and Meredith Nicholson presided.

State control of alcoholic beverages was offered as a substitute for national control by Mrs. Amasa S. Mather of Cleveland, national vice chairman, another speaker at the meeting.

"National interest in prohibition will guarantee that decent, self-respecting citizens will take charge of the regulation of the sale of liquors," Mrs. Mather said.

Warns Autoists Against Blockading Fire Plugs

Mayor Cermak yesterday ordered a police campaign against citizens who park their automobiles at night in front of fire plugs, after he had received a report of a night parking survey conducted by the fire department. The survey disclosed that night violations of the ordinance forbidding parking in front of fire plugs was interfering with fire fighting. The report also said that in the Maxwell street market a number of stands had been built over fire plugs. The mayor ordered that condition remedied.

MOTHER OF FOUR KILLS A MAN IN DRUNKEN BRAWL

New York, Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Liquor was at the root of the crimes for which a man and a woman were sentenced to prison for manslaughter and another man, with a record of 112 arrests in thirty-six years, was sentenced to the workhouse in the court of general sessions today.

The woman is Mrs. Margaret Lowther, the mother of four children, who was convicted of manslaughter in the second degree. She is the first white woman to be convicted in New York county in a decade. Judge Joseph E. Corrigan sent her to prison for a term of from five to ten years.

Mrs. Lowther, during an evening of serious drinking, got into an argument with a news vendor named Jose Aguilar over $4.06. She stabbed him with a bread knife.

The man was sentenced by Judge Corrigan to Sing Sing prison for a term of from eight to sixteen years for manslaughter in the first degree. He is Andrew J. Burns, 55 years old, a cigar maker. He did not work much after he had met a few years ago Mrs. Mary Gannon, the widow of a Canadian soldier who died in the world war, and took her to live with him. Mrs. Gannon had a pension of $60 a month.

Burns knew she had drawn her pension money and had at least $40 of it left on June 12, last, in their rooms. In the course of a drinking bout he demanded the money. Mrs. Gannon refused to give it up, and in a drunken rage he kicked and choked her to death. There were 195 marks on her body.

The man who was arrested 112 times is Thomas F. Quinn, 49 years old, who has lived most of his life in Bowery lodging houses.

His last known offense against the law was about a month ago, when he threw a stick through a store window while on a "high lonesome."

Plan to Increase Workers on Federal Dam Project

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Announcement was made today that the force of workmen on the federal locks and dam project on the Mississippi river here will be increased to 1,800 by June 1.

Deafened Ears Hear Through New Aid

10-DAY FREE TRIAL OFFER

CHICAGO, ILL.—After years of effort devoted to the manufacture of a hearing aid, the Dictograph Products Inc., 180 North Michigan avenue, Chicago, Ill., has just announced the perfection of several appliances for the hearing. One of these, a tiny instrument that fits unseen in the ear, is said by hundreds who have purchased it to restore hearing as nearly normal as science has yet been able to do. This instrument, no larger than a dime, the new invention brings to the deafened the Golden Tones of hearing. Those who have noticed tones that are close, or those who have only partially lost hearing, are urged to write for the 10-day free trial offer. Ask the makers for a demonstration. There are no obligations. They will be glad to tell you all about the invention and the many letters giving name, address and telephone number will be sent to you by return mail. Those within reasonable distance are invited to call at the Dictograph Products Audition Rooms at 180 North Michigan boulevard, Chicago, to make a test for a free test of the new invention.

Now I have better Parties

I ALWAYS make it a point to serve coffee when guests come in for the evening—or after a bridge game. It's so nice and cheery—and every one likes my coffee.

You see, it isn't just ordinary coffee—it's Kellogg's Kaffee Hag Coffee, the kind you've seen advertised as "the coffee that lets you sleep."

Kaffee Hag Coffee has the caffeine removed—but you could never tell it from the taste. It's simply delicious. And you've no idea how many people I've had compliment my thoughtfulness as a hostess for serving coffee that they can enjoy without regret.

Kellogg's Kaffee Hag Coffee is nothing but the purest, finest coffee—97% free of the drug caffeine and with the indigestible wax removed. You can drink it at any hour and sleep.

Your grocer sells it in vacuum-sealed cans. And it's surprisingly economical—just this past September the price was again reduced. Guaranteed pure coffee, free of caffeine effect! If you aren't entirely satisfied, return the empty can to us and we will refund your money. Roasted by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Aviation Notes

Flying the Chicago-Atlanta night air mail for American Airways, Pilot M. D. Ator has saved the lives of villagers three times during the last six months by sighting fires and warning residents by diving his plane. Ator did not report the incidents, but letters of thanks have been received by the airline's officials from citizens of Central, Ill., and Wallace and Lowell, Ind. Last May 9 Ator roused a mother and her two children in a burning house at Centralia. On Aug. 1 he awoke the people of Wallace to the danger of an approaching brush fire that burned several houses, and on Oct. 29 he aroused neighbors who rescued three children from their blazing home at Lowell. Ator is 23 years old and a resident of Jacksonville, Ill.

An air-rail connection has been completed by the Chicago, Milwaukee and North Shore railroad between north shore cities and New York, over Transcontinental and Western Air Line. The trip from Milwaukee to New York requires 11 hours 23 minutes. The limited train, affording connection with the 9 a. m. plane, stops at Racine, Kenosha, and Waukegan.

Ralph Johnson and J. C. Schram, piloting a Boeing passenger and mail airliner, Hornet powered, on United Air Lines, yesterday approached transport speed records by traveling from Omaha to Chicago in 2 hours 45 minutes. The distance is 433 miles and the average speed was 156 miles an hour.

SALT LAKE FLYER STORM VICTIM NEAR AIRPORT

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The body of Norman W. Potter, Oakland-Salt Lake air mail flyer, was found today in his wrecked plane where he had crashed more than 24 hours before, within ten miles of his home airport. He was flying a Boeing 40-B single motor biplane.

The pilot apparently had died instantly, as his back was broken. The mail cargo was scattered about, but all was recovered.

GRANDI TALKS TO LABORERS AS LAMONT WAITS

Greets Italians on a Construction Job.

With members of his police bodyguard trailing closely behind him, Sig. Grandi and Italian Consul General Grazzie walked up 70th street toward the Lamont home. As he was passing the apartment house under construction several laborers recognized him and gave the Fascist salute, which he smilingly returned. The laborers removed their caps and cheered.

Grandi Goes Democratic.

Suddenly Signor Grandi bounded over a pile of gravel, entered the skeleton building and began shaking hands with the laborers. One of the men withdrew a grimy hand, explaining that it was too dirty for a handshake with Italy's foreign minister. Signor Grandi smiled and insisted on shaking the man's hand, and this pleased the crowd immensely. After chatting a few minutes Signor Grandi left the building, joined his party, and walked on to the Lamont home, where he was the guest of honor.

Among the others at the luncheon were J. P. Morgan, John D. Rockefeller Jr., Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Owen D. Young, Myron C. Taylor, George L. Harrison, governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York; John W. Garrett, American ambassador to Italy; Signor Grazzi and Ambassador De Martini of Italy.

He "Steals" a Stroll.

Before the luncheon the Italian foreign minister enjoyed a stroll along Park avenue. He eluded a detail of policemen and detectives at the Ritz-Carlton, where he and Signora Grandi are staying, and drove away with Capt. Leroy Mullen of the secret service and Dr. Leonardo Vitetti, first secretary to the Italian embassy in Washington, in an open automobile. They drove to Park avenue and ninety-first street, where Signor Grandi and his companions got out and walked several blocks.

Then they were picked up by the car again and driven to the Italian consul general's.

"I just wanted to see what it felt like to walk again as a free man," Grandi explained later.

TRACTION MANAGER DIES, PISTOL BY SIDE; IS THOUGHT SUICIDE

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—With a bullet wound through the head, the body of Herbert B. Flowers, one time vice president and general manager of the United Railways company here and later manager of the New Orleans Rapid Transit system, was found in the washroom of an undertaking establishment here today. A pistol was found on the floor a few inches from the man's hand.

Flowers had been talking shortly before the tragedy with Henry C. Wiedefeld, an old time friend. Wiedefeld told the police that he heard the pistol shot a few seconds after leaving the traction man and hurried into the washroom to find the body. He was unable to shed any light on a motive for the supposed suicide.

Flowers returned north from New Orleans last fall. He had been living recently at a club in New York City.

HUNT MISSING SKY PILOTS ON ALASKAN FLIGHT

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Two airplanes were dispatched today from McGrath, in western Alaska, to search for Brothers George J. Feltes and Marshal Lapeyre, Catholic "flying missionaries," long overdue on a flight from McGrath to Holy Cross mission, on the lower Yukon.

A year ago another missionary ship, flown north by Brother Feltes crashed at Kotzebue, Alaska, killing two priests and a civilian pilot.

Brother Feltes, who was not in the wrecked ship, flew another across the continent from New York to Seattle last summer and shipped it north.

JAPANESE ROUT CHINESE FORCE IN SHARP FIGHT

Clash on Railway Near City of Mukden.

50,000 Chinese troops have been concentrated. The Japanese explained the offensive was "a local affair to stamp out banditry."

Baron Shidehara, Japanese foreign minister, decided today not to request the league of nations to use its good offices to persuade the Chinese troops to evacuate Chinchow.

The foreign minister made his decision at the last moment on the ground that such a suggestion might embarrass the league in event Marshal Chang refused to move his forces out of Chinchow.

"The Chinchow menace eventually will have to be disposed of in some other manner," said authoritative circles as a consequence of the decision.

The war office has under consideration plans for reinforcing the army detachments at Tientsin, Peiping, and Shanhaikwan, and the navy also is preparing for possible activity in the region of Shanhaikwan, where the great wall reaches the sea.

New Troops Reach China.

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 24.—(AP)—A Chinese dispatch from Tientsin today said a Japanese cruiser had arrived at Chinwangtao with munitions and additional troops. It was believed, the dispatch said, that the Japanese were planning to sever communications between the Peiping area and Manchuria. Chinwangtao is below the Manchurian border on the Gulf of Liaotung, just across from Port Arthur. It is south of the great wall and in China proper.

CHINA THREATENS WAR

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 24.—Nanking's answer to the league of nations council's five point resolution, which fuses together Geneva's and Tokio's ideas for a solution of the Manchurian crisis, was received tonight by the Chinese delegation here. Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese representative, will communicate it to Aristide Briand, French foreign minister and chairman of the council, tomorrow.

The Chinese answer, which really is a counter proposal to the league's resolution, strongly backs up Dr. Sze's ultimatum to the league yesterday, in which he declared that China could not discuss the Japanese proposal for an investigating committee until concrete assurance for immediate and progressive evacuation of Japanese troops from Manchuria had been given.

The Chinese reply also demands that the Japanese agree to cease hostilities. It is understood that Dr. Sze will also demand that all Japanese forces be withdrawn to within the Japanese railroad zone within 15 days after adoption of the Chinese proposal. China demands that a neutral commission shall supervise the evacuation.

It is also understood that Dr. Sze is authorized by his government to tell the council that China must take up arms unless the Japanese aggressions are stopped.

Anticipating the hardening of the Chinese attitude, the council today made a last desperate attempt to prevent an explosion. It drew from Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate, a specific promise that Japan would not occupy Chinchow. It was recalled that Yoshizawa also promised some time ago that Japan would not occupy Tsitsihar.

Yoshizawa also received new instructions from Tokio tonight. It is understood that Tokio instructed him that article 4 in the league's resolution, which laid a possible basis for a neutral committee to supervise the evacuation which the Chinese are demanding, is unacceptable. The Japanese insist on full freedom of military activities, insisting that the presence of Chinese troops at Chinchow constitutes a menace.

Japan also objects to the second clause of the league proposal, which provides that instructions be issued to the Chinese and Japanese army commanders to refrain from acts which might aggravate the situation.

Even the League Wrangles.

Further difficulties arose at the council meeting today over the wording of yesterday's resolution. Salvador de Madariaga, one of the Spanish representatives, is said to have pointed out the absurdity of the Japanese restrictions on the work of the proposed investigating committee—namely, that the committee cannot intervene in direct negotiations which might be opened between Nanking and Tokio, nor supervise troop movements of either side.

Then the Poles and Jugo-Slavs threw in a monkey wrench by insisting that the resolution should carry a footnote to the effect that the council's failure to drive the aggressor forces from the victim's territory before the opening of negotiations was not a precedent for settling incidents that might arise in the Polish corridor or elsewhere in Europe.

Altogether, this probably has been the darkest of many dark days the council has passed through since the Manchurian crisis flamed up. Already around the secretariat people are talking freely as to what will happen when the council "gives up."

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Thomas D. Taggart of French Lick, whose father once was national chairman of the Democratic party, was unanimously elected Democratic national committeeman from Indiana at a meeting of the Democratic state committee here today. L. G. Ellingham, Fort Wayne publisher, who had been Taggart's only opponent for the post, withdrew before the meeting began.

JUDGES TO RULE TODAY ON CANAL GRAFT CHARGES

Indictment Counts to Be Quashed or Upheld.

Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary district board during the whoopee era of 1927-'28, and his eight co-defendants will know today how many counts in the graft conspiracy indictment against them they will have to face when they go to trial early next month. Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court announced yesterday that the decision on the defense motion to quash the counts of the indictment will be given this morning.

There are ten counts in the indictment. The first one, charging general conspiracy to obtain $5,000,000 from the sanitary district by false pretenses, was sustained in court two weeks ago.

Chief Justice Fisher and Judges John Prystalski and James J. Kelly, who sat with Judge Fisher during the legal arguments on the motion to quash, refused to give any idea yesterday as to what their decision will be on the nine remaining counts. It was rumored in the Criminal court building, however, that the judges will sustain a majority of them.

Battle Over Two Counts.

Two of the counts, the fifth and sixth, were the subject of much debate during the legal arguments. The defense appeared anxious to quash these counts and First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup was fought hard to uphold them.

The fifth and sixth counts deal with the $1,000,000 cinder bridle path adjoining the north shore channel road and the $750,000 ornamental lighting system on the channel road. The prosecution in its bill of particulars charges that the trustees squandered more than $700,000 in excess payments alone on the cinder path.

It is also charged that about the time that these two projects were under construction the bank accounts of Crowe and John T. Miller, then superintendent of permanent plants and structures, showed large cash deposits.

It is around these two counts that the prosecution, it is said, has built most of the graft conspiracy case.

Defense Theory Explained.

The defense argued that the two counts in question are what is known in law as ultravires; that is, that the trustees committed no crime in constructing the bridle path and lighting system, but may have exceeded the authority given to them under the law. It was reported in the criminal court building that the judges may accept the ultravires theory on these two counts and sustain practically all the others.

The remainder of the counts are based on pay roll padding and contracts of some of the large projects of the district. The contract counts, if they go to trial, are expected to develop a battle of experts as to whether the trustees paid more than the projects are worth.

BELCASTRO IS GIVEN HEARING ON MOVE FOR HIS DEPORTATION

A formal hearing on deportation charges against James Belcastro, public enemy and alleged bomber, was held yesterday before Murry W. Garsson, special assistant secretary of labor. The hearing was held behind closed doors and lasted an hour and a half.

After the hearing Garsson announced that Belcastro's deportation hinged on whether he had left the United States after his conviction on an assault charge and then reentered Belcastro is free on a $2,500 bond.

The conviction and reentry weapon was used by the government against Tony "Mops" Volpe, Capone lieutenant, whose deportation case is still pending.

CIVIL LIBERTIES BODY HITS REDS IN RIOT DEATHS

A report on the investigation by the Chicago Civil Liberties committee into the deaths of Abe Gray, Thomas Paige and John O'Neal, Negroes slain by police during the eviction riot on Aug. 3, was issued yesterday. The men were killed in front of 5016 South Dearborn street.

In the report the incidents surrounding the eviction of a Negro woman tenant and the subsequent riot were outlined. Among the conclusions advanced by the committee, of which Arthur Fisher is president were:

1. That the communist leaders are to be severely condemned for inciting violence and forceful resistance to legal processes.

2. That the police should have formulated a policy in advance to cope with the situation.

3. That the basic cause for the tragedy lies in inadequate provision for relief of the suffering members of the Negro community.

4. That the state's attorney investigate to determine whether the coroner's jury's verdict of justifiable homicide is in keeping with the evidence.

5. That a new police policy be announced and carried out in the Negro community.

H. F. M'CORMICK SILENT ON RUMOR OF PLAN TO REWED

Neither Harold F. McCormick nor Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick would comment yesterday on rumors that they are contemplating marriage.

Mrs. McCormick's secretary, at her home at 1000 Lake Shore drive, said: "Mrs. McCormick has nothing to say."

Mr. McCormick's secretary, at his home at 675 Rush street, said: "Mr. McCormick has instructed me to advise inquirers that he has nothing to say."

The marriage of Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the executive committee of the International Harvester company, and Edith Rockefeller, took place in 1895. They were divorced in 1921. The next year Mr. McCormick married Ganna Walska, whom he divorced six weeks ago.

The rumors of a proposed remarriage were based on a purported visit to Mrs. McCormick's home by Mr. McCormick, visits to her box at the opera and gifts of a single rose on birthdays.

STATE SENATE CONTROL IS LOST BY LA FOLLETTE

Demand for Radical Laws Arouses Storm.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—A general wage slash for all persons receiving more than a subsistence income was Gov. Philip F. La Follette's plan of emergency relief offered to the special session of the legislature convening here today.

The lengthy message was by far the most radical pronouncement of principles yet announced by the youthful pillar of La Follettism. It advocates the so-called wage slash and an emergency tax on 1931 incomes ranging from 1 per cent on the first thousand to 30 per cent on $100,000 and over. It also calls for a tax on chain stores, a 1 per cent tax on corporation earnings, and a boost in inheritance taxes. In all, it would raise $17,000,000.

Storm Clouds Gather.

By the time the governor finished reading his message definite storm clouds had gathered for him in the senate, with conservatives capturing the senate organization. Senator Herman Severson, Iola, Progressive, was displaced with Senator Oscar Morris, Milwaukee, conservative, as president pro tem on a vote of 17 to 16. Conservatives then battled until this afternoon and won two of the three members of the committee on committees, Senators I. P. Mehigan, Milwaukee, and Otto Mueller, Wausau. The Progressive member is Senator Glenn Roberts, Madison.

The full meaning of conservative control of the senate is not yet certain. The regulars picked up the votes of Senators Bernard Gettelman, Milwaukee; Philip Nelson, Maple, and J. H. Carroll, Glidden, to change the complexion of the upper house from the time it was organized at the last regular session.

Perry Elected Speaker.

Charles B. Perry, Wauwatosa, won the speakership of the assembly on the first ballot by a wide margin, and the La Follette control of the lower house is certain.

The governor's program would give $6,000,000 for relief to localities, $5,000,000 more to be used on a forestry program to give employment to 25,000 unmarried and young men, $1,500,000 more to be used where the relief need is found particularly pressing, and $1,750,000 to be used for a reduction in property taxes, an estimated reduction of $1 per thousand of assessed valuation.

TOBACCO PRODUCTS STOCKHOLDERS SHARE $45,000,000 MELON

New York, Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Directors of Tobacco Products, Inc., approved today a plan for the distribution to stockholders of assets valued by the company at approximately $45,000,000. The plan, it was said, provides for the issuance of assets equivalent to $10 a share for each share of class A stock and for the distribution of the equivalent of $7 a share for each share of common stock.

The nature of the assets to be distributed was not disclosed. The company's chief assets are its holdings of 3,964,810 shares, or 70.9 per cent, of the common stock of the United Cigar Stores Company of America and the 99 year lease of all its brands of cigarets and smoking tobaccos to the American Tobacco company, for which it receives $3,500,000 annually.

U. S. DRYS RAID NIGHT CLUB OF WIDOW ESPOSITO

Twenty-five men and twenty-five women were dancing to the strains of a five piece orchestra in the Club Teodora at 710 Rush street late last night when fifteen federal prohibition agents, the first one waving a search warrant, invaded the place.

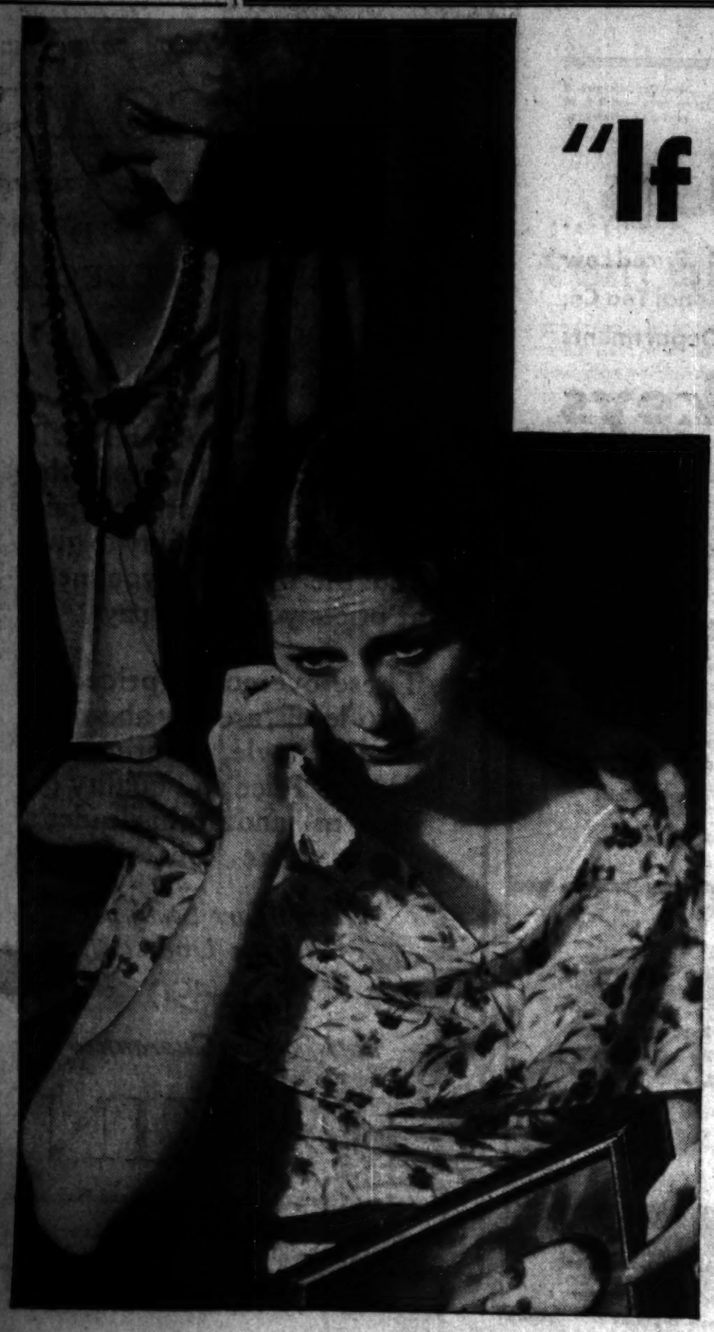
The music died away and the dancers made a concerted rush for their tables. All around the club there were the tinkling sounds of bottles—the personal bottles of the guests—being smashed on the floor.

Informed by the agents that those who were just spenders of money and dancers could go on home, the guests put on their wraps and departed.

Meanwhile the agents, led by Assistant Prohibition Administrator Al Aman, arrested the manager, William Banks, and two waiters. They went to the second floor of the club and took possession of fancy drinking stuff labeled creme de menthe, vermouth, creme de coca, and champagne. They also seized whisky, gin, and beer.

According to an estimate made by the agents, the club must have cost, with its furnishings, at least $100,000. The real owners of the place, it was said, are the widow of Diamond Joe Esposito and Morris Quirk, referred to as an ally of Al Capone.

"If men only knew"



"DON'T worry, my dear, only too many men are careless about shaving. I know it's a real cross for you to bear and I must admit I'm a bit ashamed of my son. All the other boys in the family are particular and I can't see why Jim should neglect his appearance. It's one of those things women find it hard to forgive. But I hope you'll be tolerant about it for a little while, anyway. After all he does love you dearly, and wouldn't willingly do anything to hurt you. I'll speak to Jim and see what I can do about it. I'm sure he'll shave more carefully and often when he learns how much a growth of stubble distresses you."

ROBS A TAXICAB DRIVER, REPENTS AND SURRENDERS

Anthony Marecki, 25 years old, unemployed tinsmith of 3249 North Lawndale avenue, hailed a Checker cab at State and Madison streets last night and told the driver, Gust Lenell, 4916 North Hamlin avenue, to drive south.

At 75th street and Stony Island avenue Marecki ordered a halt, pressed his index finger between the driver's shoulders, and demanded his money under a threat to shoot.

With the driver's $1.70 in his pocket Marecki made his escape on foot. Five blocks away, beyond pursuit, Marecki stepped in front of a police flivver, threw up his hands, and asked to be arrested.

"It was my first job," he said. "I'm sorry now. Lock me up."

HARRY R. GRAY, CREDIT MAN, IS SUICIDE IN HOTEL

Harry R. Gray, 64 years old, credit manager for Swift & Co., shot and killed himself last night in the bathroom of his apartment at the Flamingo hotel, 5520 South Shore drive. His son, C. Mr. Gray had been connected with Swift & Co. for thirty-two years. Members of the family and physicians said that he had been a constant sufferer with migraine and attributed his act to this.

LEWIS ASSAILS HOOVER'S PLAN TO AID REALTY

Opposes Federal Liens on Private Property.

BY AL CHASE.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, addressing the twenty-fourth annual banquet of the Cook County Real Estate board last night at the Congress hotel, criticized the recent plan of President Hoover to melt frozen real estate securities through the establishment of twelve federal banks where mortgages could be rediscounted.

The senator declared that what is needed is the enlargement of the scope of the present federal reserve banks to loan money upon the securities of bonds and leases in connection with real estate construction.

At the same time Senator Lewis painted a rosy picture of real estate coming back in a gigantic revival of construction which ultimately will make Chicago supreme of all cities.

The Need of Real Estate.

"What is needed as the first aid to real estate is a policy of the federal government, united with local government, in the advancement of loans on the property of each locality," the senator said.

"Here we regret we must express the feeling that President Hoover has been advised into error in projecting a home financing plan for cities, counties, and states that gives to the federal govenment liens on the homes of the citizens and the land of the people as security for credit lent by the nation.

"We must recall that with every lien of the government on the home of any citizen will come the end of any aid of home finance with state or city support. Each of these will decline to enter where its all would be devoured by the national first lien under which the United States can control by federal action the property and would possess itself of the house after the sale of the property for failure of the citizen to pay the installment due the nation.

Points to Past Safeguards.

"Let us advise the well meaning President that it was to avoid just such feared results that the fathers of the republic prohibited the federal government from controlling the real estate of the cities and states. Because of these dangers our government prohibited the national banks from lending on real estate—that these federal agencies should not possess the titles of the homes of the citizens.

"What is needed is that our system of federal reserve banks be enlarged, with power to loan money upon the securities of bonds and leases that issue out of real estate construction, and put real estate and its different securities upon the same equality of notes and bonds which issue from enterprises of other stock and bonded concerns—such as railroads, banks and constructions of commerce."

City Hunts Buyer for Bonds to Refund Issues Due Jan. 1

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

City Controller M. S. Szymczak said yesterday that he had failed so far to find a buyer for the city's refunding bonds and that the failure is causing him concern.

M. S. SZYMCZAK.
[Moffett Photo.]

The municipality has $9,000,000 in bonds due Jan. 1 and in addition has $2,000,000 in interest to pay. The city has the legal authority to issue refunding bonds both for the principal and interest. For three weeks the controller has been searching for a buyer.

Can't Find Prospective Bidder.

"So far I have been unable to find even a prospective bidder," said the controller yesterday, "and as each day goes by the situation becomes more serious. I have canvassed all of the banks and investment houses in Chicago and have tried to find an outlet in New York. They have given me little encouragement.

"There appears to be no market for municipal bonds, even from other cities. In addition, our local situation is unfavorable. Our financial difficulties are a serious handicap."

"Do you anticipate a default on the city's bonds?" he was asked.

Keeps on Trying.

"I am going to keep on trying," replied Mr. Szymczak. "Possibly the bond market will get better next month, and we all hope that the state legislature will relieve the pressure some."

A default by the city will penalize the city's bonds for years to come. In such an event they would be barred from five to 25 years as investments for savings accounts and trusts in various states. This would probably force the city to increase its interest rate in order to make the bonds salable.

The predicament of the city is regarded by bankers as the result of ordinary politics. It is said that the bankers' advisory committee, which has been helping the controller since last June, called attention to the city's liability on these $9,000,000 in bonds, plus interest, early in those conferences with the controller.

Use Cash to Pay Teachers.

The bankers then advised the city to reserve in its surplus cash funds sufficient to pay these bonds and interest. The controller pointed out yesterday that he followed that advice until City Treasurer Kearns suggested that about $3,000,000 of the city's surplus funds be used to pay the school teachers. Most of the aldermen thought they saw a political advantage in following that suggestion and it was adopted by the city council with a whoop.

"What can the legislature do which will find you a buyer for the refunding bonds," Mr. Szymczak was asked.

"Certain legislation would help," was the reply. "Investors are waiting to see what the assembly will do."

Point to Unpaid Taxes.

Two investment houses in La Salle street said that they would hesitate to recommend city bonds so long as the tax levies are not paid. One emphasized the attacks on the 1929 tax levy. A representative of this house said:

"How can any one be expected to buy bonds when strenuous efforts are being made to have the tax levy declared void? There is a possibility that might happen."

It was reported along La Salle street that Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, who has been invited to appear before the council finance committee next Friday, will tell the aldermen the situation as viewed by the investors.

Bonds of local governments due within six months—not the city's—were quoted yesterday below par. To this was attached considerable significance by bankers.

ALDERMEN AID RENOVATION OF POLICE FORCE

The police committee of the city council yesterday named a subcommittee of its members to work with Bruce Smith, police expert, Police Commissioner Allman and Elmer T. Stevens, chairman of the police advisory committee, in effecting the reorganization of the Chicago department. Members of the subcommittee are Aldermen John A. Massen [48th], Frank J. Corr [17th], and Frank Landmesser [38th].

Mr. Stevens told the committee that as many of the changes as possible will be accomplished through executive orders. The subcommittee will draft amendments to the police ordinance to effect such changes as cannot be made by the other method.

The reorganization plan contemplates the reduction of the number of agencies in the department reporting direct to the commissioner from nineteen to eight.

It is also proposed to concentrate all traffic supervision under a single head. At present the traffic detail has supervision in the downtown area, and district stations provide patrolmen for traffic duty at busy intersections elsewhere.

Wife Is Granted Divorce from Alexander Jerrems

Mrs. Lillian E. Jerrems, 24 years old, was granted a divorce yesterday by Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude from Alexander N. Jerrems, 5459 Cornell avenue, an official of the tailoring company founded by his father. She charged cruelty, stating that Jerrems had struck or kicked her on several occasions. A property settlement was arranged out of court. The couple were married on Dec. 20, 1930.

GERMANY PAYS FAT PENSIONS TO PRINCELY CLIQUE

Bruening Pledges to Cut Allowances.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—The German republic, scarcely able to make both ends meet in these days of the world crisis and unemployment, still pays tribute—vast sums of money to the descendants of Junker landowners, who were placed on the national pension list last century. They are bitter enemies of the republic which supports them.

The pennies of the war cripples were curtailed—almost 5,000,000 jobless and their families live on pittances. But the republican authorities, it is charged, haven't the courage to reduce the extravagant pensions of the former princelings.

Pledge to Cut Pension.

The Bruening government recently pledged it would cut down the exorbitant pensions of the one time "big wigs" of the former kaiser's army and navy. But no actual move was taken. At the same time the bemonocled aristocrats continue to be supported by the republic.

Technically these persons are of the landed nobility, who, by virtue of kin and possessions, were entitled to places in the representative body of their state, a right which was partly abolished in the last century because of absorption of the state into larger units of the German empire.

A list of their annual state given incomes irks the average German. For example, the Landgraf Alexander Friederich of Hessen draws down $150,000 every 12 months. Besides, there is another Hessian princeling, Friederich Karl, who receives $28,000, or enough to keep 130 jobless at the same rate the government is supporting them now. Landgraf Chlodwig von Hessen-Philippstahl receives $2,000 a month.

Receives $43,000 a Year.

From Schleswig-Holstein hails Albert, duke of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg, an obscure little burg in spite of its name. He is supplied with $43,443.27.

Another is Friederich Ferdinand, also a duke of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg. He is paid $46,000. Then there is the prince of Hohenzollern Sigmaringen. He gets a sum of $18,000 per year. Princes of Salm-Salm and Salm-Horstman receive $14,500.

Motorists, will you help me?

"I am a member of the school boys' patrol. I help your children to cross streets safely. You have seen me at my post on blistering hot days, in the biting cold, and in downpours of rain. But I love my work. I am helping to cut down injuries and deaths to children. You know me by my white Sam Browne belt and my badge.

"It may not mean much to you that I saved the life of a little boy yesterday. It did mean a lot to his mother. You can help me by driving carefully. I ask your help."

That is the message any of the 18,000 members of the school boys' patrol in the territory of the Chicago Motor Club would give you. The club has a vital interest in these boys. In the sixty-two counties in Illinois and Indiana in which we operate we supply these boys of the public, parochial and Lutheran schools with belts and badges and help to organize and to instruct the patrol units in some 9,000 schools.

Your membership makes this work possible. You also receive free emergency road service, touring information, bail bond, home district and insurance service. It costs only $15 to join. Mail the coupon for further information.

180 MILE BARBED WALL ENDS LONG WAR IN DESERT

Italy Protects Cyrenaica from Tribesmen.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Nov. 24.—The erection of a wall of barbed wire over 180 miles long, running through the desert from Porto Bardia on the Mediterranean coast and extending along the frontier of Egypt and Cyrenaica to the oasis of Djerabub, has ended 20 years of warfare, consolidated Italy's hold on her north African colony and prevented a clash with Egypt, according to Gen. Graziani, commanding Italian troops in Lybia.

The general has just commended his troops for their accomplishment. The wall of wire was built in six months under a blazing desert sun of 115 degrees Fahrenheit. Twenty-five hundred workmen, 1,500 soldiers, 200 automobiles, and 19 steamships were instrumental in its construction. It is considered a victory of the engineering and quartermaster corps over the Senussi rebels when regular military operations proved ineffective.

Blocks Caravans to Rebels.

The purpose of the wall is to keep out caravans bringing supplies of food, ammunition, and arms from posts in Egypt to the rebels in the southern part of the colony of Cyrenaica. These rebels have been repeatedly defeated, and many, with their wives and families, have been confined along the Mediterranean stretch.

But remnants escaped and carried on guerrilla warfare for years, raiding posts and civilized centers and then escaping into the desert when pursued. The troops could make no contact with the rebels to wipe them out. They could not be starved out because of their supply sources from sympathetic Arabs in Egypt through Islamic solidarity. Supplies were sent from Alexander to Solum, a port on the Mediterranean on the Lybian-Egyptian frontier line. From here caravans crossed into Cyrenaica at night. Egypt, despite Italian representations, was powerless to stop the desert maneuvers. It was mere commercial traffic, according to the Egyptians, who felt unable to prevent Senussi tribesmen, escaped from Lybia and living in Egyptian territory, from carrying on trade with their kin. In fact Egypt was the base of their operations.

As there could be no question of declaring war on Egypt the wire wall was hit upon as the solution. It is patroled by troops and airplanes. At intervals there are gates, enabling Italians to control caravan traffic.

Tribesmen Are Captured.

Cut off from their supplies in Egypt, the tribesmen in the desert have been compelled to make raids northward and have been falling into Italian hands.

As the result of the "Chinese wall" old Omar El Mukhtar, ancient foe of Italy, and one of the last rebel chiefs to hold out, was recently captured and executed. He had been compelled to surrender because the wall had cut off his provisions.

According to Italian colonial authorities, his capture and execution make the pacification of Tripolitania complete in every zone, twenty years after the colony was taken from Turkey in the Tripolitanian war. Italy is spending large sums now to make it productive.

BURGLARS CART AWAY SAFE.

NEW COUNTESS

COUNTESS CORDELLI.

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Jacqueline Stewart, debutante of New York and Paris, has become the bride of Count Giovanni Cordelli of Italy.

They were married yesterday at the Little Church Around the Corner. The ceremony was witnessed by a few relatives and friends.

Miss Stewart is the daughter of Cecil Parker Stewart. Her mother now is the Countess de Rousay de Sales.

The bridegroom is the son of the Countess Cordelli, the former Ruth Lamson of Chicago.

EIGHT REPORTED NAMED IN BUCKET SHOP TRUE BILLS

Broker Office Promoters Charged with Fraud.

True bills naming three promoters and five employes of William J. Baker & Co., an alleged bucket shop at 10 South La Salle street, were reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday.

The eight named are said to be accused of conspiracy to operate a confidence game, conspiracy to obtain money under false pretenses, and conspiracy to operate a brokerage house in violation of the blue sky law.

Alleged promoters of the enterprise, according to Assistant State's Attorney Charles A. Bellows, were E. S. Fedor, Edward Schwartz, and J. S. Wacker. The employes accused with them are Harold Cates, Reginald Franco, Harry Franklin, A. L. Randolph, and one Klein, whose first name is unknown to the prosecutor.

Tells of Profit Plan.

Early last winter, Mr. Bellows said, Fedor, Schwartz, and Wacker approached William J. Baker, proprietor of a filling station, with a plan to reap thousands of dollars for him and themselves in the stock market.

Baker gave the trio his $4,000 savings, according to Mr. Bellows. The La Salle street office was opened in February under Baker's name.

In the ensuing four months until the office was raided and closed by state's attorney's detectives the concern took approximately $100,000 from clients, Mr. Bellows said.

Baker, according to the prosecutor, was one of the victims. His $4,000 investment disappeared, Mr. Bellows said, and when he complained the three promoters banned him from the offices.

75 Prosecuting Witnesses.

Baker will be one of the 75 prosecuting witnesses at the trial, Mr. Bellows announced. The others are individuals of moderate means, most of whom lost everything, according to the prosecutor.

The method of the office followed the regular bucket shop formula, according to Mr. Bellows. The promoters would interest a client in some high grade stock, take his money and pretend to purchase a block of the stock on margin, the prosecutor said.

It is charged that the client would receive a spurious certificate, purporting to acknowledge his ownership of the stock. If the stock went down the client would be told that he had been sold out. If it advanced and the client demanded his profits he would be told that through a "mistake" his money had been invested in another stock, which in every case turned out to be wildcat stock worth a few cents a share, according to Mr. Bellows.

TWO HOODLUMS FREED.

Fred Zanger and Patsy Clementi, west side hoodlums, were discharged by Judge Donald S. McKinlay in the South State street court yesterday because of a lack of evidence.

ROADHOUSE SHOOTING NEAR U. S. CAPITAL IS LAID TO A VICE WAR

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—A vice ring war, involving underworld characters from Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Washington, was today held as the motive behind yesterday's shooting affray in the Old Colonial teahouse in Bladensburg, Md., just outside the capital.

One man was killed and five other persons, including a young woman, were seriously wounded by six gunmen who invaded the so-called teahouse.

Nineteen persons, including two men in Philadelphia, are being held by authorities for questioning in connection with the case. Police yesterday were of the opinion that robbery was the motive behind the attack on the roadhouse. Subsequent developments, however, have led them to believe that a feud between rival vice rings trafficking in young girls was responsible for the shooting.

Charles Levitt, proprietor of the roadhouse, it was disclosed today, recently came to Bladensburg from Philadelphia to take over the management of the teahouse. He is in a critical condition in a Washington hospital with a bullet through both lungs.

Lieutenant of Slain Labor Chief Elected to His Post

James Farmer, former lieutenant of Timothy J. Lynch, slain union labor leader of Maywood, yesterday was elected to post left vacant by Lynch's assassination. At a meeting in union headquarters, 5 North 5th avenue, Maywood, Farmer was elected secretary and treasurer of the Cook County Chauffeurs' and Teamsters' union. It is understood that the territory between Crawford and Austin avenues, control of which was said to be a motive for the killing of Lynch, has been ceded by the suburban union to the Chicago local, one time union of George [Red] Barker.

YELLOWLEY BANS LIQUOR PERMITS TO FOOD MAKERS

Acts on Decision They Are Illegal.

Official notice of the decision of Federal Judge Louis FitzHenry holding that government permits which authorized the use of alcohol in foods were not issued legally reached E. C. Yellowley, supervisor of permits in this district, yesterday. Mr. Yellowley said that no more such permits would be issued or renewed and that those already holding permits may be refused further withdrawals of alcohol.

Mr. Yellowley's action on the decision affects all companies in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana making foodstuffs flavored with wine, whisky, and other distilled spirits. Judge FitzHenry's decision was given in the District court at Springfield on Saturday in upholding Mr. Yellowley's refusal of a permit to a bakery.

More than 100 bakeries in Chicago have been withdrawing approximately 10,000 gallons of distilled spirits annually, Mr. Yellowley said. Their permits expire on Dec. 31 and will not be renewed, he said. The practice of allowing manufacturers alcohol for the purpose of flavoring foods has been in effect since the 18th amendment was enacted.

Mr. Yellowley said that he was awaiting word from Commissioner James M. Doran of the bureau of industrial alcohol at Washington before stopping further withdrawals of alcohol by companies holding permits.

BURGLARS LOOT FUR SHOP.

Burglars stole a $375 fur coat and small furs valued at $125 early yesterday from the fur shop of Oscar M. Jensen at 5308 West North avenue. Jensen, who lives above the shop, heard the thieves drive away.

DELAY LIQUOR TRIAL OF HOOVER KIN UNTIL AFTER CITY ELECTION

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Everybody except the defendant turned up in Police Judge Charles Spencer's court this morning for the postponed trial on liquor charges of Cornelius Van Ness Leavitt, President Hoover's brother-in-law. Forrest Macomber, attorney, introduced himself as Leavitt's spokesman, announced Leavitt's absence, and said that he had nothing to say except to request further postponement of the trial.

Macomber obtained an agreement with Cornelius McInerny, deputy city attorney of Santa Monica, who appeared to prosecute Leavitt, to defer the case until Thursday, Dec. 3.

This will be two days following the Santa Monica city elections, which have disturbed all parties concerned with the arrest and successive court appearances of Leavitt since his arraignment under $350 bonds on charges of violating the state prohibition enforcement act on Nov. 9.

When arrested, Leavitt was carrying a burlap bag containing 19 pints of liquor. He told arresting officers the bag had been handed to him by Clif R. Daily, a local grocer, in the rear of Daily's shop, a few moments before. Daily denied handing the bag of liquor to Leavitt.

ERNEST TRUEX, ACTOR, WEDS JANE BARRETT

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Ernest Truex the actor and Jane Barrett, dancer, were married here late today. The couple obtained their license in Norristown yesterday. Truex gave his age as 41 and said he was a widower. Miss Barrett confessed to 21 years. She was divorced in Chicago on Nov. 24.

Both are in the show "The Third Little Show" now holding the boards at a local theater.

COAL • HEAT • COSTS • LESS

Open your eyes ... before you open your pocketbook to all the costs of burning a fuel other than coal ...

If you are thinking of burning the new fuel that has been piped into Chicago, be sure your eyes are open to every cost. If they're not, you may have to open your pocketbook to an extent you never dreamed of.

The first thing to consider is: extra charges involved in burning the new fuel often total more than a whole season's heating with coal.

By extra charges are meant expenses over and above the cost of the fuel itself.

The house illustrated here is a case in point. To burn the new fuel, its owner would first have to install a converter whose rental would amount to $60.00 a year.

Next, he would have to pay a radiator tax of $10.80 annually on every 100 square feet of radiation. Since the house has 800 square feet this would total $86.40 annually.

Accordingly the owner would have to pay about $146.40 a year in extra charges to burn the new fuel when the total charges for a season's coal heat would amount to no more than $128.00.

But remember, the $146.40 charged against the new fuel is only extra expense; when the cost of the fuel itself is added in, the cost of heating with the new fuel can be estimated at $350.99.

This average example well illustrates the wisdom of having complete and accurate information before changing to a fuel other than coal.

A Statement by the Pure Milk Association to the People of Metropolitan Chicago

THE 19,081 members of the Pure Milk Association are farmers producing most of the milk consumed in metropolitan Chicago. It is due them, their industry and their cooperative association that the public be informed as to the charges made in connection with a recent barn fire near Aurora, Illinois.

Through its officers and members, the Pure Milk Association is doing everything in its power, along with the various authorities, to bring forth the facts. We want to find out who, if anyone, set fire to the Lantz barn, and we ask the public not to base judgment upon mere sensational rumors.

The Pure Milk Association is governed by the cooperative law of the state of Illinois. Its record has always been upon the constructive side of business. No unfair practices or unjust dealings have been resorted to. Our association is a member of the Chicago Association of Commerce, its members are law-abiding and reputable citizens, and its record justifies the continued confidence of the public.

The reduction in the price of milk paid to our members made it possible to reduce the retail price to consumers one cent per quart on January 1, 1931

We ask all fair-minded readers to accept our assurance that we shall be just as zealous in helping to get at the facts concerning the Lantz fire as we are in helping to make Chicago the healthiest city in the world by supplying the purest milk that can be produced.

W. C. McQueen
PRESIDENT

The Pure Milk Association came into existence during Dr. Herman N. Bundesen's first administration as Health Commissioner. Its officials and members have at all times given that department every assistance and co-operation in furnishing Chicago what is believed to be the purest milk in the world, and in maintaining the department's standards.

BROADCAST PLEA OF ALIEN BORN IN HOME BREW CASE

Peril to Citizens Seen in Prosecution.

Telegrams appeals for assistance were made to the foreign language press of the country yesterday by the Waldemar Lidikiewicz pardon committee. The committee was formed of men who signed a petition to President Hoover last week asking executive clemency for Lidikiewicz, the "home brew janitor" who is serving a sentence of 60 days in the county jail.

The signers were Louis Pinderski, general counsel of the Polish National Alliance; Joseph M. Asukas, chairman of the Bridgeport Lithuanian club; Frank Klepal, chairman of the executive committee of the Czecho-Slovak Legion post, and commander of an American Legion post, and George W. Cerny, secretary of the American National Alliance of Czecho-Slovaks. Yesterday the committee was enlarged by two members, A. S. Szczerbowski, general secretary of the Polish National Alliance, and E. P. Gugis, attorney for the Lithuanian Daily News.

Plight of Foreign Born.

They appealed to 1,000 foreign language newspapers to join in the fight, not so much for the release of Lidikiewicz, as for the general welfare of foreign born citizens who have been the victims of prohibition enforcement outrages.

"Lack of knowledge of American laws and customs and lack of a fluent command of the language make our naturalized citizens easily amenable to unscrupulous employés of the enforcement departments, federal and local," read the committee's appeal. "Our people are inherently good and law abiding citizens, but they are victimized by public officers seeking to make a statistical record of prohibition enforcement.

"This condition is becoming more pronounced each day, and we feel that it is time that a united effort be undertaken by our foreign language press in combating the abuse of law enforcement officers, directed principally, it seems, against our citizens of foreign birth.

"We all agree in principle that the Volstead act is impossible of enforcement by reason of its attempt to curtail the personal habits of the individual. It is just as abhorrent as would be an attempt to dictate our religious practices.

Home Brew Held Legal.

"In our petition to the President we believe that unfair advantage was taken of Lidikiewicz, who, though honest and law abiding, was punished for his lack of knowledge of the law and because, and not so much for a violation of the Volstead act. The courts and public officers have repeatedly held that the making of intoxicating beverages for home consumption is not violation of the law.

"The entry of his home without a search warrant was a violation of the constitution of the United States, yet he was convicted because he was too poor to hire counsel to defend his rights properly. The same thing may happen to others unless we strike together in protest against the abuse of our people.

"The prohibition law has put a premium on perjury and general disrespect of law. Realizing that much can be accomplished by the united effort of our foreign language press, we request your whole hearted support of our action.

U. S. SIFTS DRY KILLER'S RECORD

Denver, Colo., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—The government's investigation into the activities of Henry Dierks, suspended federal prohibition agent, who has been charged with murder, may next shift to Cheyenne, Wyo., where Dierks staged many raids.

Federal District court records in that city show that Dierks was accused in open court of drinking much of the liquor he seized and with participating in liquor parties. He also was accused of using two young girls as decoys in trying to obtain evidence.

Testimony in almost every case in which Dierks was a witness, shows that he admitted on the stand that he drank liquor which he had confiscated.

The William Setzer case was one of the most sensational of the trials in which Dierks figured. Dierks admitted that he and a man named Salsman, an undercover agent, two soldiers from Fort Francis F. Warren, and two girls staged a party in an apartment.

Setzer was acquitted of the charges brought against him on evidence gathered by Dierks, as were a majority of the other persons arrested. Setzer was accused by Dierks of selling him the liquor used at the party.

District Attorney Joel E. Stone, who will prosecute Dierks on the charge of murdering Milford G. Smith, defenseless 20 year old youth, in a fight over possession of three ounces of wine, said today that if the federal District court here refuses to remand the case to the state District court he will carry the battle to the United States Supreme court.

Hearing on the petition to remand will be heard before Federal District Judge J. Foster Symes this Friday.

POLICE RETAKE MACHINE GUNS FREED ON WRIT

Dealer Von Frantzius Is in Trouble Again.

Three sub-machine guns taken away from Peter Von Frantzius, sport goods dealer, following the St. Valentine's day massacre in 1929 were recovered by Von Frantzius yesterday through a writ of replevin. Within a few hours, however, the guns were back in police hands as the basis of a charge of possessing weapons with obliterated serial numbers which was placed against Edwin C. Priester, manager of Von Frantzius' store at 601 Diversey parkway.

Von Frantzius himself, often questioned by police as a suspected armorer for gangsters, was ill in bed. His attorney, Benedict J. Short, promised to surrender him at the detective bureau as soon as he is able to leave his home.

Guns Regained on Writ.

Ballistics authorities examined the machine guns after they were seized in 1929 in Von Frantzius' shop, but were never able to connect them with the massacre. Von Frantzius recovered custody of them yesterday by replevin proceedings, stating that they were new guns and had never been fired.

Coroner Frank J. Walsh reported to Chief of Detectives Schoemaker that the coroner's office had been served with the writ of replevin and feared to surrender the guns. Chief Schoemaker asked the coroner to have the men to whom the guns were delivered trailed.

G. F. Mulvaney, an employé of the Northwestern university crime detection laboratory, where the guns had been kept, took up the trail and found that it led to the sport goods store.

Police Take Back Weapons.

The police then obtained a search warrant from Municipal Judge Donald S. McKinlay. Lieut. Ollie Hoffman and a squad of detectives served the warrant, searched the shop, found the guns, and arrested Priester when he admitted that he was in charge in Von Frantzius' absence.

The statute prescribing a year in jail for possessing weapons from which identifying numbers have been removed was passed after the machine guns were first seized in 1929, and thus they could not be made the basis for action under the law until they were returned to the owner.

HAND SUITS IN RUINS.

A new police still, 5,000 gallons of mash and 75 gallons of alcohol were found by prohibition agents yesterday in a raid on a house at 5213 South Keating avenue. Rocco Pompeleria was arrested as owner.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Action Without Harm Whenever Constipated

Here's a way to be rid of constipation and its ills—a way that works quickly, effectively, but gently.

A candy Cascaret at night—the next morning you're feeling fine. Breath is sweetened; tongue cleared; biliousness, headaches, dizziness, gas vanish. Repeat the treatment two or three nights to get the souring waste out of your system. See how appetite and energy return; how digestion improves.

The action of Cascarets is sure, complete, helpful to everyone. They are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have the 10c boxes.

FRESHNESS —that's the thing!

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

HAVE you noticed the new trend in cigarettes?—freshness is the popular thing.

That's because a fresh cigarette, as demonstrated by Camels, is something smokers have discovered as better than anything they ever tried before.

Camels are fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack because they're made fresh to start with—blended of choice, delicately mild, sun-ripened tobaccos in which the natural moisture and fragrant flavors are vigilantly safeguarded.

The tobaccos in Camels are never parched or toasted—the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why we say with so much assurance that Camels are truly fresh. They're made fresh—not parched or toasted—and then they're kept fresh in the Camel Humidor Pack.

Try Camels' freshness for a change. Switch over for just one day, then change back—if you can.

CAUTION AT SPRINGFIELD.

The legislature is being subjected to a certain amount of criticism for failing to get going on the revenue relief it was called upon to enact. Far from deserving abuse for its cautious approach, the legislature is to be commended.

The importance of looking before the leap increases in direct proportion to the depth of the chasm over which the leap is taken. A mere glance may suffice if only a mud puddle has to be crossed. If it is a crevasse half a mile deep, that is something else again. A certain amount of prospecting is indicated. It will pay to find the narrowest crossing and to examine the footing on both sides in advance of the jump.

The legislature of Illinois is confronted by no mud puddle. It has been called upon to decide how to avoid the bankruptcy of the local governments of Cook county which do an annual business of $350,000,000. The finances of these governments are in an almost hopeless muddle, their short term credit is for the most part exhausted and their long term credit is in little if any better condition. The usual method of meeting these crises by borrowing is virtually closed and the other method of increasing the taxes is out of the question because the taxpayers cannot pay the amounts they are now called upon to produce.

If the legislature, then, takes its time about the business of passing new revenue laws no one can blame the members. No doubt certain political interests would be delighted if the assembly went blithely ahead passing new funding laws and tax levies regardless of the consequences, but no one

Illinois who regards the welfare of the citizens as more important than the face saving of the politicians will share that view.

The problem today in Springfield is much the same problem which has been faced in recent years by other governments in this and foreign countries. When England, for example, was confronted by budget deficits it sought to meet them by higher taxes with the result which is now familiar. An impossibly heavy tax burden was enacted which has resulted already in great hardship and loss, and the end of the road has not yet been reached. Only the other day the pound broke to a new low. No one can say with any certainty what lies ahead.

Ill considered revenue legislation is the outstanding threat today to democratic government. Crushing taxes are preventing the recovery of business, shaking confidence in governments, and causing the flight and concealment of wealth. The members of the general assembly in Springfield know the seriousness of the situation. Whatever steps they take will involve great risks. If they did not move slowly, examining each proposed project as carefully as may be, they will be guilty of a degree of recklessness and irresponsibility without parallel in the history of the state.

The slower and more carefully the legislature proceeds, the better for the people of Illinois.

THE IRRIGATION FOLLY.

The land utilization conference held recently in Chicago was called by the land grant colleges and brought together more than 350 delegates interested in forming a national policy for more effective use of our agricultural resources. Many of the delegates were government officials. Whatever other purposes the conference may have served, it was particularly useful in driving home the absurdity of spending more tax money upon reclamation schemes and of opening up new areas for homesteading.

Upon this point there has been growing discord within the federal government for a number of years. The department of the interior, which does the reclaiming, wishes to continue in the business of making more farm land whether the land is needed or not. The department of agriculture, which is concerned with the prosperity of farmers, sees the efforts of farmers to improve their position negatived by the efforts of another branch of the government to create new competition in the form of new lands.

It is difficult to believe that a government which could risk $500,000,000 on a dubious experiment in agricultural marketing could at the same time fail to protect the investment as far as possible by reducing competition to the minimum. Nevertheless that is precisely what has happened. The farm board and Boulder dam were born at about the same moment. It is as if the government had deliberately sought to help farmers by putting new obstacles in their path.

There is ample farm land of good quality now under cultivation in this country. It will grow all the food and all the fibers needed without bringing new lands into use. Indeed, there can be no farm prosperity until the lands now in use which will not earn a fair return are abandoned. The farmers trying to squeeze a living from the marginal lands are engaged in a hopeless task so far as their own welfare is concerned and by contributing to the surpluses are adding to the hardships of farmers who might otherwise make a fair living. Whenever the government builds another irrigation dam or opens a new section for homesteading it is complicating the problem of the surpluses.

The sound utilization of the land and its counterpart, the abandonment of the marginal lands, must be at the bottom of any successful plan of farm relief. For many years to come sound utilization of agricultural resources cannot include the creation of any additional farms. It is time that fact were recognized not by one department of the government but by all of them.

SENATOR GLENN'S FIGHT FOR THE WATERWAY.

Senator Glenn deserves the gratitude and support not merely of Illinois but of all the people of the midwest for his vigorous effort to get the lakes to the gulf waterway in operation half a year ahead of schedule. In private enterprise, as Senator Glenn remarks, this would not be a remarkable feat, but speeding up the machinery of federal officialdom is another story. But Senator Glenn's initiative and persistence will produce results if given the backing they deserve. His appeal at the 15th annual convention of the Mississippi Valley association was forceful and persuasive, and it is hoped that influential body will see that the interest of the valley in accelerated action is impressed upon Washington. The President and Secretary of War Hurley, Senator Glenn assured the convention, are strongly in favor of hurrying the work to completion, and it would seem the routine official pace could be speeded with such backing.

SPANISH DEMOCRACY IN DANGER.

Largo Caballero, minister of labor in the Spanish government and leader of the Socialist union, says that when the constitution has been finished the revolution will only have begun. Spain must be a Socialist nation or face the prospects of civil war, and Caballero says that a dissolution of the cortes after the adoption of the organic law and the election of a president without the enactment of legislation to make Socialist doctrines effective would be a betrayal of pledges releasing the Socialists to start another revolution.

This threat will be regarded as a favorable omen by royalists and as a discouraging one by optimistic republicans who hoped that Spain was safely on its way to representative democracy, recognizing and protecting individual liberty and private property. A representative democracy cannot exist on Caballero's terms, as the experience of Europe since the war has proved. Spain has before it the examples of failure of the parliamentary system with democratic constitutional government when communistic doctrines are grafted on it. That means the destruction of the principles of democracy and of the rights of the individual.

Spain has escaped from dictatorship founded on the monarchical doctrine, but it cannot be dominated by Caballero without finding itself back in dictatorship which will not be different in degree even if it is to be regarded as different in kind. The fire will be quite as hot as the frying pan and the tragedy to the new Spanish liberties complete.

POLICE AND LAWLESS LAW ENFORCEMENT.

Detroit is to be congratulated on the order of Mayor Murphy forbidding Detroit police to assist federal officers in lawless raids in dry law enforcement. The order was elicited by a call on Detroit police to break up furniture in an alleged speakeasy. It is an extraordinary state of affairs when the agencies of the federal government subject themselves to just rebuke by a local official for abuse of authority and lawless violence. The gist of the matter is that, in Detroit as elsewhere, the rights of the individual find their only vigorous defense in local authority. Thus we have in this conspicuous aspect of the prohibition era a verification of the truth repeatedly emphasized by statesmen and students of the American political order that it is in the local community the protection of the liberties of the citizen inheres. Communities can be tyrannous and under local excitement brutally regardless of the individual's rights, but local explosions quickly pass and local tyranny of opinion is an expression of the mores of the community and not the imposition of the mores of another community. In the long run civil rights are threatened by central authority and must be defended by the individual and his community. The founders of American liberty understood this. That is why they reserved the police power to the states or to the people, a rule which the prohibitionists are trying to abolish.

Editorial of the Day

[Rock Island Argus.]

In a vigorous address before the national conference on government held at Buffalo, N. Y., Prof. Charles E. Merriam, head of the political science department of the University of Chicago, advocated the establishment of city-states by such metropolitan centers as New York, Chicago, and Detroit, claiming that such communities are held in a state of virtual servitude to the rural sections, and that the system of representative government has broken down, so far as the great cities are concerned, in relation to state affairs.

As for a state of Chicago the plan is worthy of analysis. Sometimes downstate would welcome a divorce from Chicago and no doubt Chicago sometimes wishes it was withdrawn from downstate altogether. But there are several things to be considered. It would be hard, we think, to make such a separation and do justice to both Chicago and downstate. Could Chicago, if erected into a state, be depended upon to adhere to the best American ideals with its heterogeneous population? Would not the expenses of such a state be prohibitive? They might be greater for Chicago than under the present plan. Does not Chicago need downstate and downstate need Chicago to maintain a proper balance? If a state of Chicago ever comes into existence both Chicago and downstate might not like the arrangement as much as both are tempted to think they would in moments of exasperation. The division may be brought about some time, but we are inclined to think it will not be for a long time. Perhaps never.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the gods fall where they may. Pope.

WHAT THE WELL DRESSED Gentleman Will Wear During the Bandit Season. Evening dress remains de rigueur, but the elbows and knees are well padded so that the wearer can flop gracefully to the floor at the command of the bandits without getting bumps and bruises. Lovely cuff buttons and shirt studs of rolled tin have come into vogue and are gaining much popularity. There are no pockets in the new style evening clothes, as such things make it entirely too easy for the invaders. Patent leather shoes are now made with cunning little compartments arranged in the soles in which a wrist watch, cab fare home, postage stamps, and small change may be carried. But, of course, these shoes will only be useful until the bandits find out the new styles. And, speaking of parties during the coming season, many thoughtful hostesses are having the floors in their dining room and drawing room upholstered or padded with felt or soft, downy feathers so that the guests can flop off their chairs and lie face down on the floor when the bandits come in without even waiting for the harsh command. As several social leaders have said, it isn't so much being compelled to lie down on the floor and being robbed that hurts, it's the words used by the invaders, "Hit de floor, youse guys, an' make it snappy!" Any person accustomed at all to polite society dreads to be called "youse guys." It is much more horrible than losing a diamond tiara.

TONY PASSES.

There's a new note in the west wind
Now that harvest time is done,
Like a distant blowing bugle
With the setting of the sun;
For the west wind's call is stronger
As it takes one by the hand,
Leads one on the great adventure
In a valley borderland.

There's an evening star at evening,
See how bright it seems to gleam:
Does it mark a new beginning
Or the ending of a dream?
Down the droway road to somewhere
One may hear the silver chime,
Guiding one who journeys bravely
In an early harvest time.

DEAR, DEAR! Congress not yet even assembled and two of our good old friends in the senate, Puddler Jim Davis and Jim Watson, both named in a quite large scanda. And both Republicans. And the election next year. No, the peculiar noise you hear on your radio is not static. That is the sound made by the unterrified Democracy laughing in its sleeve.

"EARLY IN 1928 I gave my note for some stock in one of Dahlberg's companies," explains Senator Watson. "The stock is of no account and worth nothing and neither is my note. Therefore the score is nothing to nothing in this game." We do wish Sen. Watson would explain some more; he is so funny when he explains.

"ALL IS VANITY and vexation of spirit," as Ecclesiastes has so well said. We took the old bus down to the testing ground the Chicago Motor club is running in order that it should be declared without fault and blemish and that we should receive the lovely sticker proclaiming to all the world that our family hack was O. K. The bus had sand in the gear box or winter itch in the carburetor or something the first time, and we had to take it up to Scotty and tell him to do a little doctoring. Then we went back the second time and we got the coveted O. K., but as we drove away in triumph we read what it said on the sticker: "By passing this test you have proven your interest in the safety of your fellow citizens today." "Proven!" There it was on the sticker staring us in the face. Anyhow, we have proved that to us the English language is worth more than an O. K. in a safety test; for with a knife blade we hurriedly scratched the sticker from the windshield.

THINGS OF THE SPIRIT, we used to call them, but now in our great, throbbing machine age we know them to be the hooey. The war department, after elaborate investigations, has discovered it costs the government $250,000 a year to fire the salute to Old Glory at reveille in the morning and retreat in the evening. One gun, roaring its greeting to the flag in the morning, costs the country $1.21, distributed as follows, to wit, namely: Primer, cap, felt wad, 3 cents' worth of rubbering paint to seal the charge, 1 pound black powder. When the flag has been saluted, and the last echoes of the discharge die away in the distance, there's nothing left; all we got for that $1.21 was some smoke and a boom. And $1.21 gone to hell. We've got to stop wasting that money. The government is taking steps, but doesn't know just what to do. We've got it. Every morning have the colonel of each army post go over to the flagpole, and after Old Glory is drawn up let the colonel bang with his sword on the flagpole and yell, "BOOM!" The only expense attached to this would be wear and tear on the colonel's uniform, shoes, and sword; but, as colonels have to buy these things for themselves, we should worry.

AND THE FARM BOARD told the congressional committee in Washington yesterday that it cost $270,204,502 to bolster wheat. And that's what the farm board was doing with all that money, they were bolstering wheat. Why, one look at poor old wheat and, instead of being bolstered up, you would think a lot of people had been pounding him over the head with clubs.

THE EYES AND MOVING PICTURES.

"WITHIN these reservations there is no more harm to the eyes in viewing the moving pictures with modern improved methods than there is in any other normal use of the eyes." This is an opinion which comes from the league of nations, and it is based upon an inquiry made of leading eye specialists all over the civilized world.

But what are the reservations? One is that the illumination must be good. That needs no special arguing. Good vision of any kind requires good illumination—enough light, but no glare. The next two reservations relate to the projection apparatus. Projection must not be faulty, and the machine must be properly operated. The next relates to the films. Old films that are specked, hazy, or badly worn are hard on the eyes and can cause eyestrain.

Another reservation relates to the position of the seat from which the picture is viewed. Hughes, a British medical health officer, will not permit children to sit in the front seats, since, from a close position, the picture is blurred and dazzling. Dr. Pirke Lewis says children should not be allowed to sit in any but the best seats, and those are near the center of the hall and directly in front of the picture. If the seat is to one side the angle of vision is too sharp and the eyes are strained.

The last reservation is that the person concerned must have good vision. People who see poorly are likely to suffer eyestrain from looking at a moving picture, just as they do when they read, look out of a railroad train, visit an art gallery, or look at a landscape.

The general conclusion is that the movies present no insurmountable problem from the standpoint of eyestrain and fatigue. We are living in the midst of moving things. The constant adjustment of vision required when we see things moving around us is something of a strain on the eyes and nerves. Yet we do not consider it necessary to move into a still world as a matter of eye protection. We strain the eyes when we read for several hours daily, yet no one proposes that we stop reading to spare ourselves strain.

The movie is to be accepted as an institution—one that is somewhat on a plane with books and motion of people and things. As an institution it contributes somewhat to the wear and tear of life, but, within reservations, not disproportionately.

CURBING REPAIRS.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—[Friend of the People.]—I have lived at my present address for nearly three years. Across the street is the city filtration plant from which we and others get our drinking water free by calling for it with our own containers. The street gutter on both sides is always covered with broken glass, caused by dropping bottles, etc., and to my knowledge, unless one of the property owners cleans it up, it is never taken off the street. Also, the curbing is broken directly in front of my house. Can't the city make an effort to clean up the broken glass? A. S. T.

The district superintendent of the 7th ward reports that the street was cleaned a few days ago, and that the curb will be repaired when we have a curb and gutter gang working in that vicinity.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If we should move from an apartment owing $120 and had no lease, can the owner stop my husband's pay? I lived there for three years, paying all except a month and a half rent which I was unable to pay. 2. Can a girl 16 years old be compelled to return to Illinois to attend school? She is married and living in Boston. A. H.

1. Yes, after taking judgment.
2. No.

1. Depends on the nature of the expenses. A's own attorney fee in defending the claim would not be a proper charge against the estate.
2. In general, yes.

LONDON.—Confidence is felt in London that the danger of a break with Greece is about over. Negotiations have reached such a favorable stage that all the Greek steamers that have been held at the island of Malta have been released. These steamers were stopped when Great Britain decided to bring pressure on King Constantine by shutting off trade with Greece by water. The transmission of commercial cables to Greece also will be resumed at once.

PITTSBURGH.—Predicting that the United States is to be the industrial and financial leader of the world, Charles M. Schwab, head of the Bethlehem Steel company, before an audience of 1,000 business men, pleaded for the construction of American ships to carry American commerce. Mr. Schwab also argued for the free transportation of American commerce through the Panama canal.

BALKAN WAR NEWS.—Serbia's northern army is in great peril. Austro-German and Bulgarian troops, operating in three columns, have entered Kossova plain, where the Serbians were expected to make their last stand. The Serbians on the Katchanik front and also in the southwest corner of their country continue to hold back the invaders, as do the Anglo-French forces to the southeast. These reports indicate that the Serbians have been driven out of their own country, with the exception of two small strips. The northern army might take a stand between the Sitnica river and the Albanian and Montenegrin frontiers, but they will be at great handicaps. The capital has been moved to Scutari, Albania.

PARIS.—The army committee of the chamber of deputies decided upon a call to the colors on Dec. 15 of the young conscripts of the class of 1917. They will be sent to garrisons to be trained and then incorporated in various regiments and services. The class of 1917 comprises a contingent of 400,000 young men who in peace times would begin military service in 1917. The members of this contingent are 18 years of age.

COLON, Colombia.—The commander of the Colombian gunboat Gen. Pinzon has notified the American, British, and French warships now in the harbor here that he will begin the bombardment of Colon at noon tomorrow. Lieutenant Commander McCrae of the United States gunboat Machias is waiting for instructions from Washington, and the various consuls are notifying their respective fellow citizens that refuge may be had on board the warships. The Gen. Pinzon arrived from Cartagena with 600 soldiers prepared to recapture Colon from the Liberals, but McCrae would not permit the disembarkation of the soldiers in the town, stating that he was bound to protect the railway terminal property.

GREENPORT, N. Y.—The Holland submarine torpedo boat Fulton came to the surface at 10:30 o'clock this morning after having remained under water fifteen hours. All on board were alive and well and as fresh as if they had been sealed up in the boat only a few minutes instead of many hours. All the time the boat was submerged the fiercest gale known on the coast in twenty-three years howled overhead.

GALESBURG, Ill.—Alson J. Streeter, Illinois farmer-statesman and once a candidate for the presidency, died at his home at New Windsor at the age of 78. Six weeks ago when on a business trip to Chicago he was taken ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Nellie Crane. Mr. Streeter came from the east as a boy and amassed a fortune in farming and stock raising, after which he entered politics as a Democrat. Later he became a Greenbacker. He was the Greenback candidate for congress and for governor in 1880 and when the National Labor party in 1888 was seeking a candidate for President they called on the "Sage of New Windsor," who accepted.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The draft of a bill for a postal savings bank system which Postmaster General James will cause to be presented to congress will embrace the following features: First, the postoffice department should be authorized to establish postal savings banks at its discretion; and second, that the system should be self-sustaining, no appropriations being required. The rate of interest to depositors shall be 2 per cent per annum.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Mrs. Dunmore, Guiteau's divorced wife, has arrived from Colorado to testify at his trial for the murder of President Garfield. She has expressed her disbelief in the insanity of the assassin. Judge Cox is reported to be very much outraged at the manner in which the assassin conducts himself at the trial, but he has not as yet discovered any way by which the culprit's insolence and blasphemy can be prevented, except to remove him from the courtroom.

PANAMA.—The steamer Albion foundered in a gale off Point Burbacoas and thirty-two of forty-two persons on board were drowned.

SFAX.—French troops report a brilliant victory over the insurgents near Djerid, capturing a chief and many others.

NEW YORK.—John Anderson, the well known merchant and tobacco manufacturer of this city, died in Paris of pneumonia in his 70th year.

NEW YORK.—The late Stephen Whitney Phoenix has left a half million dollars to Columbia college as well as his large library. He expressed a wish that the money be applied in part to perfecting a laboratory in the department of physics.

CHICAGO.—Miss Nellie M. Martin, daughter of Hudson Martin, Esq., of Hannibal, Mo., and Frank M. Hovey of the firm of J. H. Huyck & Co., Chicago, were married at the home of B. F. Baker, 836 West Adams street, by the Rev. Mr. Peeke. Another wedding of the day was that of Miss Laura A. Ormsby, daughter of J. B. Ormsby, who was married to John C. Goodrich of New York at the home of her parents, 415 Fulton street, the Rev. Dr. Thomas officiating.

POLICE ON THE NORTH SHORE.

Highland Park, Ill., Nov. 23.—I read in The Tribune that Mayor Farwell and other officials are pleased with the efficiency of the Lake Forest police in the Mitchell robbery. The facts show that results were got only because the robbers were dumber than the police. It was the telephone girl who explained the whispered message of the chauffeur to the copper on the phone and the circumstances should have warned him to take precautions at once against a gang. But two policemen were sent and they walked into trouble through boneheadedness which ought to get them a leather medal. After the gang got away, a great sweep up began. That is routine police tactics, requiring nothing above the collar. It would have got nothing except that this gang were so soft boiled and inexpert that they left the swag on the place. It was a case of amateur crime with all the breaks in favor of the police. The Lake Forest police have a formidable equipment of machine guns and motor cars, but it was Highland Park policemen that caught the three suspects now in charge, while one of the Lake Forest guardians let another probable member of the gang talk himself out of investigation.

HIGHLAND PARK.

TAKING THE BULL BY THE HORNS.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Thousands of financial writers have filled countless thousands of pages in our leading newspapers and periodicals on the subject of how to bring back prosperity. Premiers of foreign countries have journeyed to our shores for consultations with our financial and governmental heads. A farm board has wasted millions of dollars without results in attempts to aid in the return of prosperity of our commodity producers.

Pages and pages may continue to be written, other premiers may again come to our land, farm boards may waste more millions, presidents may again muddle in foreign affairs, but there is only one way for our land to again prosper and that is to put the men back to work.

This can only be accomplished by concerted action, by such concerns as the great United States Steel corporation placing signs over their doors, "Come Back to Work." Such concerns have huge surpluses of cash. Let them make up their products with the aid of the re-employed multitudes and unemployed dollars. Let them cease payments of cash dividends, should unemployment continue and work be stifled. Payments of cash dividends to stockholders will cease eventually because of necessity.

After men are started to work and articles are manufactured let these great companies store the finished products until a demand again returns. Demand is certain to return, as men again employed will again begin to buy necessities and luxuries. Homes will be built, factories will again open and railways will again function at increased velocity. Banks will have money to lend, business men may again enjoy credits for the conduct of their businesses and a general reemployment of labor of every form will result.

There is no other way.

O. S. STUTSMAN.

VEGETATION IN THE NORTHWEST.

Bismarck, N. D., Nov. 20.—I have read with much interest the letters printed of late in your paper where people picked various sorts of flowers in their yards and gardens this late in the season. But what do you think of my going into my garden last Sunday and picking a big bunch of pansies, and this in the terrible blizzard swept state of North Dakota? FRANK EDWARDS.

TAXING THE MORTGAGE HOLDER.

Chicago, Nov. 13.—All proposals to cut the property owner's taxes so far would not help him in any way as it merely shifts payments from one period to the next. Why not put the burden of the 1930 taxes on the mortgage owners? They, in spite of the large host [illegible] raised about being mistreated, are still in most cases getting 6 to 7 per cent interest on their money and it is no more than fair that those people should contribute at least months' interest to pay the 1930 taxes. It would still give them from 3 to 4 per cent on their money for this year which is more than they can get anywhere else at the present time. This would help not only the property owner but would help the bondholders themselves as it would save many buildings from being foreclosed.

Another thing. It is up to all taxpayers to see to it that their tax money is not shamelessly wasted as it has been up to now. Get after the grafting politicians and get after them hard.

A STRUGGLING PROPERTY OWNER.

VANDALISM.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—For the last three months street lights have been broken by boys on an average of three times a week, surrounding the city playground known as Maurice Moore playground, located at Adams, Quincy and Lexington avenue. No attempt has been made to apprehend the boys breaking the globes, either by the attendants, of whom there are three, or by the police. Regularly the city electrical department replaces the globes, only to have them broken within a day or two. I have been informed that the globes cost approximately $2 each, so, figuring this out, the cost runs very high, considering the labor.

The streets surrounding the park are in total darkness during the time the globes are broken. There are no lights on any of the streets in the immediate vicinity of the park, which makes it a good place for a holdup or a murder.

MRS. J. H. MURRAY.

WHY THEY'RE TARDY.

River Grove, Ill., Nov. 17.—Will some one please explain to a few people why it must be necessary to wait from five to ten minutes during the busiest part of the morning for a freight train or a few empty cars to pass? This occurs on Grand avenue, just past the river. There have been quite a few mornings when the street cars have been lined up over the bridge and on the other side of the river. This slows up traffic terribly, and causes more than a few people a late arrival for work. C. B.

COLLECTION BOXES.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Would it be possible to put boxes at the main entrances of the large department stores for the Emergency Relief fund for the unemployed?

There are many people who are willing to give, but are unable to give a sum large enough to send to the committee.

If there were boxes where people could put small amounts each week I believe it would mount up to quite a bit and would give many people an opportunity to help who otherwise would be denied that privilege. J. B. DAVIS.

HE WANTS A WAR.

Joliet, Ill., Nov. 20.—Here are several young men [including the writer] who would welcome a first rate war. Oh, we know it would be horrible—but it would be positive action at least, and perhaps adventure. Our precious heritage in this age of wonders has made us like fish out of water when there is no work. To top it off most of us lack imagination and ability to loaf without worrying. W. J. P.

10,000 ATTEND FINAL CLASS OF COOKING SCHOOL

The Whole Thanksgiving Dinner Prepared.

By KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Ten thousand Chicagoans flocked to the Coliseum last night to help wind up The Tribune's school of cookery, and they did depart they took with them more than a healthy appetite for the browned and succulent Thanksgiving turkey that had been sizzling merrily in his own juices in Mrs. Ida E. Chitwood's oven upstage. They took a deal of culinary wisdom gleaned from the course of instructive lectures by Mrs. Chitwood, who is a nationally known cooking authority. They took a fund of kitchen lore and helpful hints, both old and prized, from the visiting authority and Miss Mary Meade, Tribune home economics editor, who cooperated in producing and operating the school.

Promise of Another School.

More than that, they took a whole collection of grand prizes such as were awarded at the close of each session of the school held during the last two weeks and the assurance of Wilbur Deahen, advertising manager of this newspaper, that popular demand probably will bring a repetition of the school next year.

A tumultuous applause in response to a query put to the throng that nearly filled the big hall was Mr. Deahen's confirmation that the persons who attended this first school were unanimous in favor of a second. Lucky enough on the eve of the national holiday tomorrow, Mrs. Chitwood planned, prepared and displayed a full, typically American Thanksgiving dinner for her farewell program. It was unquestionably her most popular and appreciated lesson, so expertly handled as to carry the conviction that such cooking was really a recreation instead of an occupation.

Preparing the Turkey.

Few of the women who will be in their own tomorrow on their own culinary tasks failed to take notes on the preparation of the turkey. First, he was rubbed with lard, the chief cook using her hands energetically for the purpose, rather than a pastry brush. Each fowl should be salted to taste, the audience learned, but this particular one, large and firm, got about four teaspoonfuls, rubbed over the surface with inside and out.

The chestnut dressing, already prepared, was crushed in the hands into a ball, using just sufficient water to make the ingredients stick together. Then the bird was stuffed tightly, the bottom sewed up, and the turkey put on the roaster, his legs crossed and tied and his wings tied together. The pan was then put into a hot oven until the turkey was thoroughly heated. Then the temperature was set at 350 degrees and at least three and a half hours was required to complete the process of making the gobbler ready for the table.

Depends on Bird's Size.

"Of course," explained Mrs. Chitwood, "the time for baking each turkey depends upon the size and the age of each bird."

From the appetising drink called suba ginger cream, designed to stimulate the eye as well as the palate, preliminary to the trip to the dining table, each course was named and brought into being for the Thanksgiving meal, right down to the pumpkin pie. There was the melon cocktail, cream of corn soup, croutons to accompany it, the lobster and egg timbale, which brought a special round of applause; the cranberry sauce, buttered beets, Brussels sprouts Hollandaise, creamed potato cups, squash fritters and the pie.

There was, also, the salad named "Bewitching," a quirk of comedy as well as ingenuity. It started out as a ripe and juicy pear, and under the deft fingers of Mrs. Chitwood, turned into a modern flapper's head, even to the cigaret. Cloves speared in to make the eyes, a silver of pimento for her red lips, blond bobbed curls of yellow cheese put through a grater, a spur of celery for her cigaret, and a flaming fragment of pimento for its flaring up—and there she stood, simply atop a slice of pineapple, which was her yellow collar.

Phil Maxwell, master of ceremonies, had seen to it that the quality of the entertainment for this final session was more than sufficient to spur the throng to about "No! No!" when he asked at the microphone, "Does anybody here want to go home?" at the intermission.

There was Carl Craven, leading the Illinois Central prize winning male chorus in a group of ballads, to storms of applause. There was Arthur Jarrett of the Music Corporation

Approximately 80,000 persons, it is estimated, attended the various sessions of the school, held on the south, north and west sides of the city and at the Coliseum to accommodate those who could not gain entrance at previous divisions. About 150 recipes were included in Mrs. Chitwood's talks, and many more were listed in literature distributed.

U. of C. Students Fight Ban on Women Dormitory Visitors

One hundred and fifty young men of the University of Chicago, residents of Judson and Burton courts, the new campus dormitories, launched a rebellion last night against present restrictions against women visitors.

Alive to the possibilities of concerted action, the students signed a petition containing three demands, to be presented to Prof. Fred B. Millett, faculty resident of the dormitories. The demands are the following:

1. That women students be invited to dine in the dormitory refectories once or twice every two weeks, preferably twice.
2. That dormitory residents be permitted to entertain co-eds in the downstairs lounges every night until 10:30 p. m.
3. That co-eds be allowed to visit dormitory rooms without special permission up to 6:30 p. m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

An Economic Issue, Claim.

"It's an economic issue," averred Harry T. Moore, contributor to the campus humor magazine and leader of the movement. "It's going to be cheaper to use the room dad pays for than to spend money for rented cars. There's a depression on and we've got to curtail expenses."

Carter Johnston, president of the chapel council, principal religious group on the campus, approved the first two demands but demurred at the third. He declared it was fraught with possibilities of "great embarrassment."

Leaders among the women students concurred with Mr. Johnston. Margaret Egan, senior editor of the Daily Maroon, and Ruth Abells, president of the federation of university women, doubted that any co-ed would care to visit a dormitory room unchaperoned.

Opposes Third Demand.

"I'm sure the women would be happy to dine at the dormitories once a week, or even to visit the lounges in the evening," said Miss Egan. "But I doubt their willingness to risk going to a man's room alone. None of the girls I know would think of it."

Ralph Erlandson, captain of the swimming team, endorsed all three demands and recommended that the program be extended to include the fraternity houses and the women's dormitories, "so there'll be three places to get in out of the cold."

Mr. Moore asserted the residents of Judson and Burton courts were supporting the resolution almost to a man.

WHAT BRITANNICA OWNERS SAY:

General J. G. Harbord, Radio Corporation of America
"Its usefulness goes beyond the requirements of business and commercial life. It seems to me that no modern American home can afford to be without this valuable reference work in interpreting the day's news and keeping abreast of modern ideas and world affairs."

R. E. Cabell, Richmond, Va.
"We are delighted with the books. They are enjoyed by the whole family from 6 years up."

William Lyon Phelps
"Every household containing these volumes is in contact with the life of today more intimately than by the radio. To those who own it, it will not be a luxury; it will be a necessity."

Col. Edward M. House
"The Encyclopaedia Britannica has for so long been a necessary part of my library and office equipment that I should feel at a loss without it. To speak of its value seems superfluous, for it should be a part of every English-speaking home."

Henry Noble MacCracken, President, Vassar College
"Probably the most valuable single enterprise in existence for general adult education . . . An indispensable household aid . . . A great clearing house of civilized intercourse."

Mrs. E. D. Skinner, Glen Cove, N. Y.
"I wish it were possible to put the Britannica in every home, especially where there are children. We are simply devouring our set."

PUT FARM BOARD UNDER FIRE AT SENATE INQUIRY

Critics Demand Data on Grain, Cotton Buying.

forts to limit the production of wheat and cotton. "If the 40 million acres in cotton in the south could be cut 10 million acres by raising food and stock feed crops, as Mr. Williams said it could, would not that hurt the farmers who now supplied the south with feed and stock feed?" inquired Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska.

"I'm afraid there is no crop on which the farm board can lend assistance," said Mr. Williams, "which does not come into competition with some other."

And again to a question by Senator Norris he admitted that the cotton held by cooperatives on which the board has loaned more millions than the cotton now is worth might legally be sold, the cooperatives confessing bankruptcy and the federal treasury taking the loss.

Big Loss Unless Cotton Soars.

"Yes," Senator Norris agreed, "it comes back to this after all, that unless cotton goes up this immense loss is going to be borne by the United States. Why go to all the trouble of setting up so much machinery? You might as well have the government buy the cotton at what it believes the producer should receive and then sell it for whatever it can get."

"Which method of stabilization—that used with wheat or that used with cotton—do you think was better?" Mr. Williams was asked.

Revolving Fund Loans.

The board's report dealt largely in generalities, concealing the amount of loans made to each of more than 100 cooperatives. Its figures, however, bore out the predictions contained in THE TRIBUNE'S recent survey of huge losses, actual and prospective.

Under general headings, the board, in its report, accounts for the use of 490 millions of the revolving fund up to June 30, last, the remaining 100 millions of the 500 million dollar fund not having become available until the beginning of this fiscal year.

On June 30, the board had used $343,812,035, which, by virtue of the revolving character of the fund, had enabled it to make loans aggregating $662,299,100, of which $317,697,202 had been repaid, leaving outstanding loans totaling $344,601,898. THE TRIBUNE showed that since July 1 the outstanding loans from the revolving fund have amounted to 436 millions.

On June 30, the board had $160,148,762 invested in wheat stabilization and $74,953,881 invested in cotton stabilization.

List of Amounts Loaned.

In accounting for its use of the revolving fund, the board confines itself to the amounts loaned on 17 classes of commodities. The amounts loaned and the amounts that were outstanding after repayments on June 30, were:

Commodity.	Amounts advanced.	Amounts outstanding.
Beans and peas
beans	$ 685,048	$ 613,189
Cotton	140,525,037	44,850,930

Total	$255,866,858	$109,490,254
Cotton stabilization	$133,490,038	$ 74,953,881
Grand total	$662,299,100	$344,801,895

Vast Losses Involved.

The only actual loss up to date to which the board confesses is that of $789,865 incurred in the sale of feed grains to farmers in drought areas. The vast losses involved in the wheat and cotton stabilization operations the board does not attempt to estimate, saying that the results cannot be appraised until the present holdings of these staples are marketed.

"Prices cannot be kept artificially high over long periods by such methods," says the report. "The experience of the last two years shows it is futile to engage in stabilization purchases of any product over a period of years in the face of a constantly accumulating surplus of that product.

"Stabilization involves selling as well as buying; producers must face this fact. Many people have thought 'stabilization' means to hold the price permanently higher than it would otherwise be. This cannot be done without control of production. The experience of the board shows that with the existing organizations and legislation it is not yet possible to control agricultural production. Farmers decide individually what to grow on their farms; only a minority have been able to follow the board's suggestions. So long as farmers do not make the necessary readjustments emergency stabilization measures can give only temporary relief."

GREAT BRITAIN PLANS TO TURN CYPRUS INTO A NEW GIBRALTAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Great Britain's imperial defense committee has decided to convert Cyprus island into a first class fortress similar to Gibraltar. Earthworks will be erected immediately on the Mediterranean possession and long range guns will be placed to guard the harbors, which will be mined. A destroyer flotilla will make its permanent base there, and the garrison will be increased from the 100 infantrymen now stationed there for ceremonial purposes to contain the largest part of the British military forces at present stationed in Egypt. The purpose is to strengthen fortifications between Suez and Haifa.

FLAWS PICKED BY MAJ. GEN. DRUM IN ARMY SYSTEM

Too Much Red Tape and Paper Efficiency.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Radical changes in the distribution and training of the American army were recommended today by Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, inspector general, in his annual report to the secretary of war. They included moves to concentrate the regular army into fewer posts, so that combat forces could be adequately trained and a modification of the army's school system which would produce practical officers rather than trained "theorists."

MAJ. GEN. HUGH DRUM. (TRIBUNE Photo.)

The inspector general charged that the present training system does not train junior officers adequately for responsibilities which would be thrown upon them in time of war. He asserted that the present wide dispersion of the army throughout the continental United States had produced a condition which makes it impracticable to have immediately available "an adequate, properly balanced, and efficient force of regular troops to meet an emergency."

Maj. Gen. Drum scored the war department for not eliminating red tape and excessive paper work, criticized the army's administrative system as too centralized and making for "false economy," and ridiculed the antiquated cooking utensils still in use in army kitchens. The army officer also termed the army ration inadequate and much inferior to that of the navy enlisted personnel. He said that since 1928 the ration had decreased practicrlly 24 per cent while the general food index had dropped but 10 per cent.

Maj. Gen. Drum urged a modification of the army's school system, asserting officers today were getting too much theoretical and not enough practical instruction. About one-third of the army's officers and one-fifth of its regular army personnel are involved in the school system each year, he said.

BRITISH HOUSE UPSETS MOVE TO "SHACKLE" IRISH

Cosgrave Letter Helps Beat Amendment.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 24.—An amendment to the statute of Westminster bill was defeated in the house of commons tonight by a vote of 350 to 54.

The proposed statute is designed to implement in law the complete independence of the British dominions from domination by the British parliament.

The amendment, aimed at the Irish Free State, was offered by Col. John Gretton, die-hard Conservative, who sought to insert a clause stating that the Irish government had no authority to repeal the Irish treaty of 1922 which defined the Free State's position within the British empire.

Cosgrave Protests Amendment.

The amendment's chief supporter was Winston Churchill, fiery Conservative. The chief opposing argument was a letter from President William T. Cosgrave of the Free State.

President Cosgrave's protest against the Gretton amendment was addressed to Prime Minister MacDonald and was read to the house by J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions. It was reported tonight that the Cosgrave letter had been brought from Dublin to London last night in a dramatic dash by J. W. Dulanty, Free State high commissioner in London.

"The maintenance of happy relations which now exist between our two countries is absolutely dependent upon the continued acceptance of the good faith between us," President Cosgrave said in his letter. "Any attempt to erect a statute of the British parliament into a safeguard of the Irish treaty I fear would have an opposite effect in Ireland and would give rise in the minds of the people to doubts as to the treaty's sanctity."

Churchill Backs Proposal.

Mr. Churchill supported the proposed amendment by saying:

"Should a change of government occur in Ireland we would be immediately confronted with a grave crisis and upon this country will fall the whole responsibility if our government weakens in any way our moral and legal rights."

Mr. Thomas, in speaking for the government, said:

"If this amendment is inserted in the bill you would mersly brand to the world the proclamation that there is one dominion you cannot trust and that is Ireland. I believe it is better to trust the Irish government and I ask the house to reject it."

Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader, also resisted the amendment, which, he declared, would give offense not only to the Irish Free State, but to South Africa as well. He also maintained that as a strict question of law the statute of Westminster bill did not weaken the treaty.

BRITAIN SWAMPED BY IMPORTS AS HER 50% TARIFF GOES IN EFFECT

LONDON, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The customs sheds of British ports hummed with activity today as officers wrestled with mountains of manufactured goods sent to Great Britain in the last two days to beat the new 50 per cent tariff duties on manufactured and partially manufactured goods, which go into effect at midnight. Foodstuffs are not affected by the new measure.

The crucial hour was 4 o'clock tomorrow morning, inasmuch as all goods not cleared by the customs at that time will have to pay duty. Inquiries at many ports showed that the number of ships arriving from abroad with imports maintained the high average set since the beginning of the month.

The last minute efforts of continental manufacturers to get their goods in before the ax fell were made by air rather than by sea. The Croydon airdrome was one of the busiest spots in the country as typewriters, gloves, glassware, cutlery, and scores of other articles were unloaded from planes arriving from France, Germany, and elsewhere.

As sponsored by Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, the "abnormal importations act" will affect numerous articles ordinarily imported from the United States. It takes its authority from the anti-dumping measure adopted by parliament last week to equalize the nation's balance of trade.

The board of trade has fixed 25 per cent as the empire content for goods entering Great Britain from the dominions to qualify on the duty free list. The order would prevent the use of any dominion as an assembly ground for parts manufactured in other countries and shipped to Great Britain as empire products.

BOSTON EDITOR NAMED BY HOOVER TO TARIFF BODY

O'Brien Was Cleveland's Stenographer.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Robert Lincoln O'Brien of Dedham, Mass., former Boston editor and a personal stenographer of President Grover Cleveland from 1892 to 1895, has been appointed chairman of the United States tariff commission by President Hoover. He will succeed Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, recently resigned, and his nomination will be among the first to come before the senate for confirmation.

President Hoover personally announced the appointment at his regular Tuesday conference with the newspaper correspondents today.

For years Mr. O'Brien has been a newspaper man in New England. He is well known in Washington, where from 1895 to 1906 he was the correspondent of the Boston Evening Transcript.

Editor of Boston Papers.

When he left Washington it was to assume the editorship of the Transcript, which he resigned in 1910 to become the president and director of the Boston Publishing company, which publishes the Morning and Sunday Herald and The Boston Evening Traveler.

For eighteen years Mr. O'Brien was the editor of The Herald, which position he relinquished Dec. 31, 1928. Since that time he has lived in partial retirement in Dedham, Mass., where he is a director of the Dedham National bank and also of the Dedham Mutual Fire Insurance company.

Mr. O'Brien has been an active Republican for more than thirty years and since 1923 has been the president of the Middlesex club, one of the leading Republican organizations of New England.

No Protest at British Rate.

White House officials said today that no protest is to be made by the United States against the new British tariff. In case any dumping of British goods in this country should materialize as a result of cheaper production costs abroad, due to British recession from the gold standard, the matter of protecting American interests will be left in the hands of the tariff commission, officials said.

The White House said today that there had been no material increase in British imports to the United States since Great Britain went off the gold standard on Sept. 21. The commerce department reported that the British had been able to compete better with American coal in some foreign ports.

French Author Makes Picture of Washington

Bernard Fay Calls Him an Aristocrat.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

BERNARD FAY.

WHAT a distinguished French scholar thinks of the father of our country you may find in the newest biography of George Washington. M. Fay, whose book, the Apostle of Modern Times," created an international stir, sees our first First Citizen primarily as a "republican aristocrat."

The last page of the book explains the author's premise. "He was buried," writes M. Fay, "in the ground of Virginia, which he loved dearly. And the American people now make pilgrimages to his tomb on the Potomac. They know that he was a great soldier, a great President, a great sage. They know that he was good, generous, exacting, disinterested, sublime. And I think it is all true.

"But the children are not told that he was the last of the great land owners, because of his love of liberty, he loosened the United States to the west; that he made great efforts to keep Americans from dispersing their strength in discussing theories; that with all his energy he had worked to give them a strong central government in order to destroy their tendency to quarrel among themselves; that he had instructed them to love their country above everything else.

"The children are not told that he was the first of the great modern politicians who had an infallible instinct for public opinion and that this made him create a practical aristocracy which the United States needed, while Adams and Hamilton completely failed in realizing their vain dreams of monarchy and nobility, and Jefferson, in his democratic philosophy, was eclipsed by a sterile triumph.

"They are not told that had he lived a year longer he would have seen the American people disavow him and all his work by a solemn vote, and that without doubt he would have entered into a tragic conflict with Jefferson. The snow, wind, and rain of Virginia and the doctors at Mount Vernon, in their cruel wisdom, had done well by George Washington."

The last paragraphs not only sum up M. Fay's biographical attitude toward his subject, but they give an excellent idea of the style in which the author has set down his biographical findings. It is a human attitude as opposed to the purely scientific-biographical.

With swift strokes M. Fay pictures the social and physical aspect of Washington in such sentences as this one descriptive of the young man: "His spelling was barbarous, his style unformed, his manners clumsy. He had a heavy face, a heavy body, a heavy mind."

Washington was still a young man, 27 years of age to be exact, when, according to M. Fay, "The astonished universe had its eyes fastened upon Virginia, where this new war had been conceived. Everybody talked about Col. Washington, who had been the first to pull the trigger. Every newspaper in the universe quoted his name." M. Fay refers to the so-called French and Indian war.

Many pages later M. Fay says "He made his presence felt by being silent and this in turn made him much talked about."

Washington was the inevitable leader of his country in its military attempts and as inevitably its leader politically. His two great loves, according to M. Fay, were his love for Sally Fairfax and his love for politics. "If in the one he was doomed to a silent acceptance of fate, in the other he had full sway for his emotional nature.

Sally Fairfax, M. Fay writes, "was the queen of his thoughts and ruled over them as if he had been one of the faithful, chivalrous knights of the middle age whom he so closely resembled. . . . But fate had irremediably separated them, for they had not met each other until after Sally had married George Fairfax." Washington's closest friend. On the other hand, nothing stood between him and his unfilled desires in politics, and he became in a very real sense the dictator of America.

"He was a great lord, the richest in America, it was said," declared M. Fay. All through the book he proclaims again and again that Washington was an aristocrat. He was a gentleman. There was nothing of the revolutionary about him. He wished to command only to serve. "He dreamed of his country night and day," says the author. "He worked for America body and soul. He all but killed himself."

"Is it not a curious fact," asks M. Fay, about the times of Washington, "that this epoch—perhaps the most democratic and scoffing that mankind has ever witnessed—should have felt no scruples in kneeling before a heavy-booted gentleman of the new world who bore neither title nor decoration? To his contemporaries he gives the impression of being superhuman."

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Apparently some experiments are lost causes from birth. To wit: "Don Keyote's" fencing with windmills and my endeavors to convince contract players that every hand that may be played a slam (large or small) cannot be bid a slam.

In spite of constant harping on this subject letters come in each day asking how a slam can be bid on hands that play a slam due to an extraordinarily lucky arrangement of cards or equally extraordinary stupidity of opponents. Yesterday's play-a-problem was another example of this type of hand.

NORTH
♠—Q,7,6,5,3
♥—A,7,3,2
♣—7,5

WEST (Dealer)
♠—A,K,8,2

EAST
♠—J,9
♥—K,8,6
♦—K,9,8,7,6
♣—8,7,6

SOUTH
♠—10,4
♥—J,9,4
♦—J,5,3
♣—K,10,9,4,2

West dealt and bid three no-trumps. His hold a no-trump count of 21 and all four suits stopped; three of the four stopped twice. All passed.

Now there is certainly nothing in East's hand to warrant him in raising his partner's three no-trumps. If partner had bid two no-trumps (and some tables playing this hand did bid two no-trump) East could raise to three.

Further, the six odd could not have been made if the ♣ K had been in North's hand and not in South's hand. Nor could it have been made if North's and South's cards had been shifted in other ways. This, however, will develop in the play.

North's opening lead was the ♠ 5, dummy played the J, South the 4 and West the 2. Dummy then led the ♦ 6, on which South played the 3, West the Q and North the 2. West then proceeded to establish his long suit by leading the ♦ A from his hand and playing the ♦ 7 from his dummy. Then he led the ♥ 5, North held up his A and played the 2 instead (he probably would not have done this if West had bid a little slam) and dummy took the trick with the K. Dummy now led the ♣ 8, South played the 9, West finessing the Q, which held. West now cashed in his club A and then led the ♦ 10 to dummy's K. Dummy then led the ♦ 9 and 8. On the next trick dummy led the ♠ 9, which West took with the A, leading the ♥ Q [South's J having been discarded on dummy's ♦ 8]. North stepped in with the ♥ A, taking the trick. North then led the ♠ 7 which West captured with the 8. North was helpless on this lead since he held merely the ♠ Q and 7. If the Q had been led it would have been taken with West's K and then West's 8 would have been good. As the play was made West took with the 8 and then played his K, making six odd; i. e., his game and three extra tricks.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 5, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Survey Shows College Girls Lag in Trade

Outsiders Called Leaders in Business, Marriage.

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Whether love or business, the college girl lags. So says Dr. Roy N. Anderson, personnel investigator of the Teachers college at Columbia university.

Dr. Anderson observed that the college girls have about 20 per cent less chance to get married than have the noncampus girls, and that girls with degrees get salaries ranging from $950 to $1,600, as compared with $905 to $2,275 earned by business and professional women.

Dr. Anderson concluded from his survey of 891 college girls in 225 schools that they ought to learn a business or profession in addition to their college education, both to make up for their reduced chances in the marriage mart and to compete in business with less learned women.

"After four years of mental stimulation in the classrooms and libraries of our institutions of higher learning; after four years of social life on the campus; after four years of specialized study and contact with keen-minded individuals," Dr. Anderson asks, "what may a college woman expect by way of a job?"

"It is a known fact that approximately 80 out of 100 women marry and follow the vocation of homemaker. Among the college women the percentage who marry is somewhat lower. It has been variously reported as 40 to 60 per cent.

"It is evident that the range of occupations upon which these college women have entered is very restricted," Dr. Anderson comments. "More than half have followed the beaten path and aligned themselves with the clerical occupations. What are the reasons for this? It is generally assumed that all walks of life are open to college graduates, but we must add that all are not acceptable. Jobs in manufacturing and mechanical industries and in domestic and personal service would not be considered by college graduates."

Chicago Relief Fund Passes 7 Million Mark

Workers Near Goal Set at $8,800,000.

The Joint Emergency Relief fund passed the seven million dollar mark last night when contributions totaling $56,300 were reported by Samuel Insull Jr., chairman of the campaign for $8,800,000. These contributions, with $107,400 reported during the day, raised the total pledged thus far to $7,035,177.

Among the gifts received yesterday was a $17,706.13 check from THE TRIBUNE, representing total gross receipts collected at the charity ice show in Grant park Nov. 9. THE TRIBUNE defrayed all expenses incidental to the show.

Other new pledges were the following:

Reebie Advertising Co.	$ 1,000.00
Employés of Chicago Bank of Commerce	1,850.00
Employés of Republic Corp.	1,250.00
Employés of Medinac-Hill Pub. Co.	1,193.00

THE STAGE

THE play that will follow "Mrs. Moonlight" on the schedule of the Dramatic league at the Harris theater next Monday night is "Payment Deferred," a London success which was staged in New York last fall by Gilbert Miller. It is a thriller, dealing with a strange murder case, and was adapted from the novel by C. S. Forester. Charles Laughton, hailed in New York as a remarkable character actor, heads the cast of English players, which also includes Elsa Lanchester, Cicely Oates, Dorice Fordred, John Cherry, Paul Longuet, and Lionel Pape.

The arrival of "Payment Deferred" will give Gilbert Miller representation, as a producing manager, before both of the subscription drama audiences of the town. His staging of "Tomorrow and Tomorrow" is now at the Blackstone under the auspices of the Theater Guild.

The Chicago Civic Shakespeare company will terminate its New York engagement next Saturday night, a week earlier than planned. Broadway is saying that the projected tour will probably be abandoned . . . Norman Bel Geddes's staging of "Hamlet," which has aroused much comment pro and con, will also be withdrawn from Broadway Saturday. Six other plays, including the recently staged "Lady with a Lamp," will close their New York careers at the approaching week-end.

When "Marching By" comes to the Great Northern theater next Monday night, Mady Christians, the prima donna who was brought from Europe for this production, will not be a member of the cast. She sang the leading rôle in Boston—but the best laid plans of managers and actresses gang aft agley, as Robert Burns once said.

The question of Miss Christians' successor is in doubt for the moment, but Natalie Hall, so easily remembered from "Three Little Girls," will probably be chosen. The company will contain Leonard Ceeley, who played the battling gaucho in "Nina Rosa"—and this announcement will probably throw many matinée girls into a fever of expectation.

Matinée performances by current attractions will be given as benefits for the Actors' Fund of America this winter. The series will be started by Earl Carroll's "Vanities," at the Erlanger theater, Friday, Dec. 4. Incidentally, the "Vanities" will end its Chicago engagement Dec. 12.

Al Jolson in "The Wonder Bar" will begin an engagement at the Apollo theater on Christmas night. "Broken Dishes," the play by Martin Flavin, is announced for the Adelphi theater as a Yuletide offering.

"Blossom Time" decided yesterday that prosperity has returned to Chicago and instead of departing on Saturday night it will remain at the Grand Opera house for another week. A booking in Detroit was canceled to permit this extension of the engagement.

The date of the première of "Mr. Whistler" at the Blackstone has been changed from Dec. 27 to Dec. 21. This play, to be offered by the producer of "The Green Pastures," will have its first-time-on-any-stage in Baltimore next Monday night. Richard Hale will appear as the painter-etcher. C. C.

Help for Poor Is Keynote for Thanksgiving

More Plans Are Made by Chicagoans.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

With raw high winds slapping the city, Chicago began preparing yesterday for a Thanksgiving holiday attended by traditional winter weather. There were no indications, however, that a white holiday would follow the abrupt jump from Indian summer.

The cold wave, accentuating the acute need among the unemployed, spurred on with renewed vigor Thanksgiving charity. Boy Scouts were filling baskets with food for needy families. So were many religious, charitable, and political groups. Others were completing plans for Thanksgiving dinners to serve in shelters and cheer for children and old people in institutions.

The spirit of Thanksgiving has taken hold of the suburbs and will be manifest tomorrow in religious services and gifts of food and clothing for the needy. The Maywood central relief committee will distribute 90 baskets of substantial food and at Proviso Township High school the table needs of 83 families will be supplied.

In Bellwood the school children will provide food for the family of the most needy student in each room. A welfare committee of the Riverside-Brookfield High school has selected families in the community who will receive generous baskets of food. In Oak Park there were increased activities yesterday in schoolrooms as food, clothing, and gifts were collected for the Family Welfare association.

Along the north shore religious services will form the nucleus for Thanksgiving activities preceded today with contributions to charities and holiday entertainment in all the schools.

Union services will be held in four sections of Evanston, following a custom of many years. These will be at the First Congregational, Second Presbyterian, Covenant Methodist, and Calvary Baptist church. In many other churches individual services will be held, including St. Luke's Episcopal, St. Mark's Episcopal, First and Second Churches of Christ, Scientist, St. Anthanasius and St. Nicholas churches.

Community services will be held in Wilmette, Kenilworth, Winnetka, and Glencoe, and at many of the north shore churches offerings for charity will be received. Schools in these suburbs also will collect fresh and canned foods and money gifts today.

As they have the last four Thanksgivings, troop No. 353 of the Boy Scouts will fill 300 baskets for needy families and give them out personally. The troop is making its headquarters in an empty store at 3811 Lawrence avenue.

In addition to the regular distribution of food by the relief committee of the 38th ward regular Democratic organization this week, more than 100 baskets will be given to needy families today. The baskets will include food to last the rest of the week. Mrs. M. S. Szymczak, wife of the city controller, is in charge.

The Salvation Army staff band of forty pieces under the direction of Adjt. William Broughton will give a concert on Thanksgiving evening in the auditorium of the Moody Bible institute.

Several hundred young men without families in Chicago, most of them students at colleges or trade schools, will enjoy Thanksgiving dinners as guests of a dozen branches of the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow.

The Field Museum of Natural History will remain open Thanksgiving day during the usual hours, 9 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., to accommodate holiday crowds, Stephen C. Simms, director, announced yesterday. Admission will be free.

At the Cathedral Shelter, Washington and Peoria streets, the Rev. David E. Gibson, pastor, anndunced that he has ordered a hundred dozen rolls, together with the other fixings of a dinner. He expects to feed more than 1,000 at the lunch counter Thanksgiving. More than 200 family baskets will also be distributed.

At Chase house, 211 South Ashland boulevard, more than seventy-five families will receive large baskets with ample supplies.

At the House of Happiness, 3052 Gratten avenue, 300 children will be guests today at a cocoa splash.

One thousand persons, unemployed men and their families, will be Thanksgiving guests of the North Inn cafeteria, 436 North Clark street, Thursday, and will be treated to a real New England dinner. Peter G. Demet, proprietor, said that several firms helped to contribute the food.

A thank offering of almost $100,000, collected in the schools from teachers, pupils, parents, and public spirited citizens, is expected to be presented to Supt. Bogan today. This fund is to be used for the purchase of new shoes and new clothes for the many children whose parents cannot afford to buy them. The clothing is distributed by the School Children's Aid society, of which Mrs. Alice McCorkle is president.

Edmund Goulding to Wed Marjorie V. Moss, Dancer

Hollywood, a generous portion of it, descended on Chicago yesterday for a few hours. There was Janet Gaynor, who was greeted by twenty-three old schoolmates of Lake View High school. She was accompanied by her husband, Lydell Peck, and her mother, and was on her way to Europe for a vacation.

Then there was Conrad Nagel. He gave out the news that he had bought a grocery store. His wife, the former Ruth Helms of Northwestern university, was left at home to run it. Joan Marsh, one of Hollywood's platinum blondes who has just finished "The Maker of Men," arrived as Nagel's partner in a personal appearance tour.

There also was Adolphe Menjou.

Constance Bennett and Her Marquis to Stay with Movies

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 24.—(AP)—The old question of marriage or a career was put up to Constance Bennett today and she said if her husband asked her to she would become a housewife. But the Marquis Henri De La Falaise et De Le Coudray has no intention of doing that.

Asked about leaving R. K. O.-Pathe, she said:

"Oh, there's nothing to that if my husband were to ask me to decide between marriage and my career I would choose marriage.

"But there will be nothing like that. He is interested in pictures as well as I and we will be happiest continuing our work together."

Miss Bennett's present contract has a year and a half to run.

The marquis is at work as a film director and writer.

NEW MICROSCOPE DISCLOSES GERMS HERETOFORE UNSEEN

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Fourteen years of application by one man to the development of a new and powerful microscope has resulted in what was hailed today by medical men and scientists as a discovery that may mean much toward checking the spread of contagious disease.

Before a group of medical men, astronomers, and other scientists, last night a demonstration of the instrument was given by its inventor, Dr. Royal Raymond Rife of San Diego, Cal.

The new microscope was credited with a magnifying power of 17,000 diameters, compared with 2,000 diameters, said to be the limit of commercial instruments.

Physicians said it made visible forms of bacteria never before beheld by man. Dr. Rife's microscope, it was announced, has confirmed the belief of Dr. Arthur I. Kendall of Northwestern university that certain communicable disease germs change their forms and become invisible with ordinary microscopes when their environment changes.

RESIGNS JOB AFTER 35 YEARS IN PRESS GALLERY OF SENATE

Jim, known the country over by politicians and newspaper men, is only 55, but he feels he's had enough of the limelight.

On Dec. 1 he will become librarian of the senate, a position vacated not long ago by the death of the veteran Edward C. Goodwin, protégé of the late Senator Lodge of Massachusetts.

"Due to my age," Preston said reluctantly today, "I have felt for some time that sooner or later I'd have to quit. I go out of the press gallery, where I would have served 35 years next March 25, with a feeling for the pleasant associations of great men who have come and gone."

Leyden Astronomer Talks Next Week in Evanston

Dr. William de Sitter, professor of astronomy at the University of Leyden, will deliver two lectures at Harris hall on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university next Tuesday and Wednesday nights on the origin of the solar system and the size of the universe. In 1929, in collaboration with Lemaitre, Dr. de Sitter wrote a book establishing the theory that the universe is expanding and being blown up like a soap bubble.

U. of Illinois Students to Be Home Thanksgiving

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Hundreds of University of Illinois students having no Wednesday morning classes, started home this evening for the Thanksgiving recess. When classes will cease at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, to resume at 1 o'clock next Monday afternoon, practically all of the 2,500 students from Chicago and suburbs will leave the campus for the recess.

Movie Gossip as It's Heard in Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 24.—Just so he can compare the real things with the film version, the movie guides of Dr. Rodolfo Freyre, Argentina's new minister to China, took the South American diplomat to visit Marlene Dietrich's set for "Shanghai Express" when he stopped off in Hollywood yesterday. Senors Freyre and the couple's two children accompanied the new minister, who is a South American authority on international law.

It was a big surprise to Georgie Stone, the comedian told a Los Angeles judge, that a paper he had "signed for a friend" turned out to be a bond guaranty for the friend's presence in court. The friend didn't turn up for trial on a liquor charge, and a surety bond company now is demanding that Stone make good the $1,000 bond.

A humble, inexpensive program picture called "Racing Youth" which Vin Moore was directing for Universal, with Louise Fazenda, Slim Summerville and Frank Albertson in main roles, has turned out to be so good that the studio is doing a large part of it over, more expensively, in expectation of turning out a big box office hit. Several new sequences have been added in the remaking. This is the way that "Big Parade" was fished out of the heap of mine run ordinary studio pictures when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer filmed it in the old silent days.

Evidently some of the brickbats which some of the newspapers hurled in the direction of that exciting "Five Star Final," landed with a thud that was heard at Columbia studios, for that movie plant sends out a notice of a new production, to be called "Final Edition," and announces: "The picture shows the newspaper fraternity as a hard working group, and there is no atmosphere of insobriety which is often attributed to the reporter and his kind."

Grace, Flexibility True Accompaniment of Feminine Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

They were talking about a certain woman with a reputation as a beauty, claim to which obviously was not given unanimous approval. One supporter, however, advanced this: "If you can show me a woman who can enter a room and take a seat with more grace, I'll grant her a higher place in the beauty hall of fame, but not till then."

That switched the conversation to exits and entrances and seating of the specie known as femme. Incidentally, it provoked a lesson on the spot from a guest with considerable stage experience. One gathered that certain women can enter any gathering without any hesitation on the threshold because they are naturally graceful, unself-conscious people. Others have to go through a bit of self-training at the door, the principle of which lies chiefly in not tightening the muscles for the plunge, but loosening them; thinking them loose, untying every tightened nerve with an imaginary flop.

Exits seemed not to provoke so much interest.

But how to take the chair with ease inspired some questioning. The same relaxed sense was advised for this procedure, and sitting not on the spine, but on the back of the thighs, also reasonably far back in the chair, letting the lower back press against the back of the chair. In this position you can maintain a better line from shoulder to toe. The abdomen, meanwhile, must be held in.

It was advanced, and rightly, that the actual business of getting down into the chair must be done, to be done gracefully, without the help of the hands. A flexibility of body muscle is required in an ensemble movement, if you know what I mean. That is, in an altogether movement, not fast going one way, hands another, and so on. All of which requires control of muscle and poise of mind. Maybe it is enough to you that you land in a comfortable seat, but obviously, it is one of those things that, done gracefully, earns its own tribute.

English Artist's Work on Show in Local Gallery

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

PORTRAITS and flower paintings make an instriguing exhibition, and particularly so when they introduce a new painter to us. An Englishman, E. Barnard Lintott, is the artist in question, and his exhibit is one which has just opened in the Chester H. Johnson galleries, Fine Arts building.

Like many other English painters—and England is not alone in this—Mr. Lintott studied in paris. During the war ill health kept him out of the army, but allowed him to enter the diplomatic arena, and he enjoyed various exciting adventures in Russia. His paintings are well known abroad and a number are owned by various museums and private collections.

It is as well to approach his exhibit with a little knowledge of him. To hear him say that in his opinion Chicago is far more awake to art than is New York, that Chicago is more intelligent than New York, is to view his exhibit with a more than friendly eye. Not that we need much in the way of appreciative comment to unloose our own compliments, and sincere compliments, too, honest praise for the honest painting Mr. Lintott's exhibit holds.

Of the portraits possibly three stand out: The brilliant canvas of Mr. Chester Dale, the intriguing little black eyed "Daughter of Lotus Robb Smith," and the vigorous and spirited "Miss Katherine Mayer," who, by the way, is a descendant of the great Pitt. For a dramatic picture we turn to "Leonie," a typical English girl in riding habit against a characteristic English landscape, a large canvas related in some degree to the romantic pages of Reynolds and Gainsborough.

The flower paintings give us greater pause. We must examine them more closely to realise their exquisite perfection. Look, for example, at "Anemones," and then at "Violets." A lovely extravaganza is the purple "Orchids." Brilliant in its sober red is "Cocks Comb." Not one of the paintings but should have its meed of attention. Mr. Lintott will paint a number of portraits while he is here. Just now he is engaged upon the portrait of Mrs. Howard Linn.

The exhibit will continue for two weeks.

New Designer Makes This Clever Suit

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Paris is all excited about Vera Borea, a new designer of clothes, who has half the haut monde of Paris sitting on her doorstep because she makes things that are both practical and smart.

The suit in the accompanying sketch, one of her most successful, is being worn by Princesse de Rohan, among other fashionable Parisiennes. It is made of black corded wool with a surface as soft as duvetyne, and the skirt, which is quite straight and narrow, is made of this material out on the bias, while the jacket makes use of it in its horizontal and vertical senses.

The jacket is quite short—just to the hipline, and the vertically placed corded fabric makes its shoulder yoke, the two bands down the front and the one around the hips, which button with four white bone buttons. The sides of the jacket are cut from the material horizontally placed and so are the sleeves.

The blouse of this suit is made of white georgette with a piqué rib in it, and is shown in the upper right hand corner. The shoulder yoke of this blouse ends in a little knot at the point of the asymetrical neckline, and this knot may be passed through tiny slits in the jacket and knotted outside, to make a small flash of white, as shown on the standing figure with the jacket on. The blouse is placed over the top of the skirt, and its belt is knotted at the right side. It is tucked on to the yoke and to the belt, and the sleeves are tucked above the knotted cuffs.

San Francisco Boy Plays Violin for New York Audience

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Grisha Goluboff, a curly haired 9 year old, played his Stradivarius violin tonight before an audience of music critics and music lovers in Carnegie hall.

He said he thought "New York a great wonderful city," but liked San Francisco, his home city and wanted to "go back."

He was 3 when he started his musical career and 7 when he played Mendelssohn's Concerto before a San Francisco audience.

Try Treating Your Child with Courtesy You Give to Adults

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

I can't resist every once in a while recommending the transfer system to parents. This system is one of the best I know and carried on for a long time it just about always gets parents to their destination.

The transfer system can be described in a few words. It consists of transferring the virtues you practice on adults to your children. You're courteous to the other grown up members of the family. Transfer some of that courtesy to the children. You treat each friend and relative differently, because they are so different. Transfer that skill to the children. Handle them differently, because they are different, too.

When your husband is tired or irritable you don't bring up worrying things or important issues. When your children are tired transfer that tact to them. Smooth things down and overlook unpleasantness.

When you want some grownup in the family to do something, even if he should do it, you don't order him to. When you want your children to do something, don't command but ask them.

If it makes your husband sullen or antagonistic to approach him in a certain way you avoid it. Grant as much individuality to your child.

When your own mother talks you listen and answer. When your children tell you things about school or their play, listen and answer them. Be really interested in them!

When your best friend or even an acquaintance tells you a tale of woe or one of happiness you commiserate or comfort or rejoice. Do the same with your children, even though their sorrows and joys seem like trifles to you.

THREE MEALS A DAY

From the Tribune Cook Book

BY MARY MEADE.

Food Talk.

How the world is changing was borne in upon me the other day when I went into a small grocery store in the neighborhood. While I was waiting at the counter a small boy, grubby of face and even grubbier of hand, dashed in, planked his nickel down, grabbed a pomegranate from a crate near the door and slammed the door behind him. My clerk shouted to the manager, "We'll have to order six crates of them tomorrow. Every kid in the neighborhood's been in for a pomegranate today!"

So have pomegranates become part of the everyday life of middle western children, those fruits our teacher had to explain to us when we came to them in Greek mythology.

Prickly pears have been appearing on the market quite a bit lately. To use them in salad, skin them first. Hold them in a cloth, and be careful not to touch the spines, because minute bits will work their way into your skin and prove most irritating. The fruit is mealy, apricot colored, and delicate in flavor. Split the fruit, lay it on lettuce leaves, and serve it with a sharp dressing.

Ripe figs make a pleasant change for a breakfast fruit. As you probably know, the fig is the enlarged end of the branch of the tree. The seeds inside are the fruit, really. The pollen is carried from one to another by insects, which crawl in through the opening at the end of the fig and walk around inside, distributing the pollen as they do so. Sometimes they forget to walk out again, and we find them in our figs, which is one of those minor tragedies of life.

Calavos are also becoming popular. These are, as I've said before, probably best served split in half with the cavity in the center filled with French dressing, but they may be diced and used in salad. Or they are good sliced and alternated with orange or grapefruit.

Japanese persimmons are a beautiful color. They can be used to advantage as a fruit cup. Cut off the top, remove the top and the stone and enough of the meat to leave a shell. Combine the meat with other fruits and fill the persimmon cup with it.

SWEET POTATOES AND PINEAPPLE.

6 large sweet potatoes, ¼ cup shredded pineapple, 1 cup pineapple juice, 1 tbsp. grated orange rind, 1 cup marshmallows, 1 tbsp. minced pimiento, 8 pecan crushed macaroons, ½ tsp. salt, ½ cup whip'd cream. Paprika. 2 tbsp. butter. Marshmallows.

Boil the sweet potatoes, peel, and mash. Add the butter and seasoning. Add the pineapple and juice gradually, stirring well. Place in buttered baking dish, cover with marshmallows, and bake till the marshmallows are puffy and brown.

FROZEN CHEESE SALAD.

2 pkgs. cream cheese, 12 ripe olives, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1 tbsp. minced pimiento, 8 pecan crushed macaroons, ½ tsp. salt, ½ cup whip'd cream. Paprika.

Force the cheese through a coarse sieve and combine with the mayonnaise. Whip the cream. Add the remaining ingredients. Freeze in refrigerator tray.

QUICKEST WAY TO KNOCK A COLD

Millions Say of This Proved Way You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL: to knock a cold in a fifty, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean, aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only a few cents.

College Set's Holiday Plans Next on List

...aren't as many parties planned apparently for the "sub-deb" set this year as there ordinarily are during the holiday season, but that will not prevent the young people from having a whirl, no doubt, when they are at home from their schools and colleges for Christmas.

The Junior assembly on New Year's day and the Joseph T. Bowens' dance for their daughter, Gwendolyn, on Jan. 4, are almost the only large affairs on the calendar thus far. The Bowens' dance is to be in Lake Forest and there will be a number of dinners preceding it.

Two more girls who will make their formal bows to society this winter are Dolores and Margaret Wiley, the attractive daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Wiley of 1136 East 48th street. Mrs. Wiley will give a tea for the debutantes on Monday, Dec. 21, at the Women's Athletic club. Virginia Wiley was graduated from Ogontz last June and Margaret is a student at the Bronxville college at Bronxville N. Y. She will return on the 18th to spend the Christmas vacation with her family.

Miss Stanley to Give Dinner for Miss Armour and Fiance.

Miss Helen Stanley, who is to be a bridesmaid at the marriage next Saturday of Miss Elsa Armour and Irving Osborne Jr., will give a dinner for the bridal party tonight at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Edwin Stanley of 1530 Astor parkway. Last night Joseph C. Sadler Jr. gave a dinner at the Saddle and Cycle club for Miss Armour and Mr. Osborne. The bride-to-be and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour, leave Friday for the east to witness the Yale-Princeton game. Mr. Osborne will return home immediately after the game and be here in time for the bridal dinner which Mr. and Mrs. Armour will give Monday night at their residence, 209 Lake Shore drive. A. Watson Armour III., who is on the Princeton team, will return to Chicago with his parents and sister and be usher at the wedding.

La Cercle Francais will have an interesting meeting next Tuesday afternoon in the Fine Arts building. Miss Janet Fairbank will sing a group of French songs; her aunt, Mrs. Lord Bell, will give a reading of French poems, and Mlle. Jeanne de Rem will speak on the new opera, "Christopher Columbus."

The annual Christmas sale of the Women's Exchange will be held in the ballroom of the Blackstone next Tuesday from 9 to 5. The exchange is overflowing in toys this year, and among the articles on sale will be wonderful doll houses, Spanish, early American and modern ones; the most fascinating doll babies, and Christmas stockings of all sizes. Miss Helen Culver, Mrs. James Ward Thorne, Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. John L. Cudahy, Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, and Mrs. William P. Hodgkins are among the prominent women interested in the work of the exchange.

Dance for St. Chrysostom's Social Service on Dec. 3.

Cards are out announcing a charity bridge tea and turkey dinner for the benefit of the Women's Guild, Community center, and Camp Oronoka of St. Chrysostom's church, Thursday, Dec. 3. The sale begins at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Frank Cummings, Mrs. Bruce Bor-

Wide Variety Offered

Many society women found time yesterday to drop in for at least a few minutes at the bazaar held in St. James' Community house. Lingerie, linens, blanket covers, pillows, handkerchiefs, towels, baby articles, dolls, toys, aprons, bags, quilted articles, novelties, current books, rummage, flowers, plants, mincemeat, cakes, jelly, and everything for the smoker were on sale, and in the afternoon tea was served, and, at night a cafeteria supper. Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson, Mrs. Eames MacVeagh, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine, and Mrs. James L. Houghteling were among those in charge of the sale.

land, Miss Margaret Knapp, Mrs. William E. Parsons, and Mrs. George B. Foster are in charge of the sale and Mrs. Harold C. Smith is in charge of the sale of tickets for the dinner.

The Misses Barbara Graf, Frances Weary, Jane And Mildred Lawrence, Jeanne Jordan, and Grace Fitzmorris will model in a style show to be given Thursday evening, Dec. 3, in the ballroom of the Hotel Shoreland in connection with THE TRIBUNE Golden Cards Bridge Tournament.

In at least two of the suburbs charity balls will be given tonight, one for the Junior Infant Welfare society of Hinsdale at the Hinsdale club, and one for the Evanston Receiving home of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society at the Country club of Evanston. Mrs. W. C. Taylor is general chairman of the Hinsdale ball and Mrs. William M. Kaiser occupies the same position on the committee in charge of the Evanston one.

In town at the Opera club the annual Thanksgiving eve dance will be held tonight. Wednesday nights at the club this winter are informal with dancing, cards, and games for entertainment.

Mrs. W. F Dillingham from Honolulu to Visit Chicagoans.

Items of interest:

Mrs. Walter F. Dillingham of "La Pietra," Honolulu, will arrive on Dec. 1 to spend a week with Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed of 2439 Lake View avenue. Mrs. Dillingham, the former Louise Gaylord of Chicago, will be extensively entertained during her visit by her many relatives and friends here.

Miss Theodora Shaw, daughter of Mrs. Howard Shaw, who is at Sarah Lawrence college, spent last week in New York with Miss Frances Archbold who made her debut last Saturday at a tea dance at the Colony club given by her mother, Mrs. John F. Archbold, and her aunt, Mrs. Michael van Beuren. Miss Archbold has many friends here, having visited here last Christmas. Miss Shaw will return on Dec. 18 for the Christmas vacation.

The Woman's Guild of Christ church, Winnetka, will conduct a charity bridge tournament in the new parish house Thursday afternoon, Dec. 3. Mrs. Hill Blackett is chairman of the affair, and Mrs. Victor Elting will preside at the tea table.

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Clow Jr. have returned to Lake Forest after a stay at White Sulphur Springs.

Among those in the east to spend Thanksgiving with their children who are students in eastern schools are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence N. Goodwin, whose son, Norton, goes to Exeter, and whose other son, MacDonald, goes to Choate; and Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Crossett, whose youngest daughter, Carolyn, is at the Shipley school at Bryn Mawr. Miss Ruth Crossett went east ahead of her parents to attend the football games and the eldest daughter, Betty, is engaged in business in New York this winter.

Miss Graf, daughter of the Robert J. Grafs of 4840 Woodlawn avenue, leaves today to spend Thanksgiving in Pittsburgh as the guest of the John T. Frazers, whose daughter, Katharine, makes her debut tomorrow. Miss Graf will go on to New Haven for the Princeton-Yale game and then will go to New York for a few days before returning home.

Carter H. Harrison Sr. and his son C. H. Jr., are expected to return tomorrow from a hunting trip in northern Michigan. Their wives are hoping they will bring back at least one deer, not that they enjoy venison particularly but because they know their men will be so much happier if they have such a trophy to bring home.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McClure of Evanston, are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Nov. 13 at the Evanston hospital. The baby is to be named Priscilla McClure for her father's grandmother, the late Mrs. George H. McIlvaine of Peoria. Her mother is the former Miss Helena Modjeska Chase of New York and Omaha. Her grandmother, Mrs. Clement Chase, has arrived from her summer residence in the Catskills and will be with the McClures until after Christmas.

Capt. McCormick Resigns Command of Black Horse Troop

Capt. Chauncey McCormick, commander of the Black Horse troop, has resigned the command, it was learned yesterday. First Lieutenant Paul Butler, next in succession, is acting as troop commander. Capt. McCormick headed the troop for the last time at the regular drill meeting Monday night. He spoke briefly to the members and told them he would continue an active interest in the troop.

"It was understood that I would be in command for one year," Capt. McCormick said yesterday. "I have served two years and I was forced to resign because of business pressure."

The troop was organized in the spring of 1929 by Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, commander of the 135 division, Illinois National Guard, and was federally accepted as the headquarters troop 106th cavalry of the National Guard.

Margarit Carlisle, British Actor Married in Gotham

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Margarit Carlisle, stage actress, who returned last night from a London engagement, was married today in the Madison Avenue Baptist church to Leonard Ceeley, English actor.

Miss Carlisle gave her age as 28 and Ceeley said he was 28. They met in Chicago 18 months ago.

She was forced to terminate her London engagement when she fell down a flight of stairs a month ago. She said she planned to return to London in three weeks. However Miss Carlisle observed upon arriving: "I'm marrying an Englishman. I want to be bossed. I'm tired of making up my own mind."

U.S. Consul in Berlin Weds Relative of Von Steubens

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—(AP)—William E. Beitz, United States consul at Berlin, was married today to Miss Waltraut von Gehren, daughter of the late Admiral Lothar von Gehren, at the Protestant cathedral. Gen. Von Steuben, the bride's uncle, gave her away. Among the guests were Ambassador and Mrs. Sackett, Col. Fritz von Steuben, who was President Hoover's guest at the Yorktown commemoration, and many American and German officials.

Mexico Stops New Tariff on Movies, Sound Discs

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Suspension of higher tariffs on moving picture films, sound discs and phonograph records until April 21 next year was announced today by the finance department.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover attended the marriage this afternoon of Miss Anne Butler, daughter of Associate Justice Pierce Butler of the Supreme court and Mrs. Butler, to Edward K. Dunn, son of Mrs. C. Irwin Dunn of Baltimore. The ceremony took place in the home of the bride's parents. Msgr. Edward L. Buckey of St. Matthew's church officiated in the presence of a small company of intimate friends. Among the few additional guests invited for the ceremony were the Chief Justice and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes.

Vice President Curtis was the guest of honor at a dinner this evening given by Albert H. Denton of the United States shipping board and Mrs. Denton at the Shoreham hotel. The guests included Senator Arthur Capper, Senator and Mrs. William H. King, Assistant Secretary of the Interior and Mrs. Joseph M. Dixon, Admiral Hutchison I. Cone, member of the shipping board, and Mrs. Cone, and the Controller of the Currency and Mrs. J. W. Pole.

Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams gave a dinner this evening, the company including Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Davis S. Ingalls, Mrs. James W. Good of Chicago, widow of the former secretary of war; Rear Admiral and Mrs. Mark L. Bristol, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Henry Varnum Butler, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Thomas C. Hart, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Larimore, Rear Admiral Sexton, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Upham, Rear Admiral and Mrs. McLean, and Maj. Gen. J. T. Myers, U. S. M. C.

The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay were hosts at dinner last evening, having among their guests Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. Lamont, the South African Minister and Mrs. Louw, the Egyptian minister, the counsellor of the German embassy and Frau Leitner, the special assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. David E. Finley, Canon and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, Sir Will Mott and Lady Lewis, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, and the Commercial Secretary of the Embassy and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart.

George Lytton, president of the Hub, and Newton C. Farr, president of the Better Business bureau, yesterday demonstrated their musical talents by playing with an orchestra at the Tuesday forum's luncheon in the Central Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Lytton spoke on music and boxing, two of his hobbies, as aids to a business man's success and happiness. Ten years' contact with the Banjo club of the University club has brought him great enjoyment, he said.

Mr. Lytton, a friend of Jim Corbett, Bob Fitzsimmons, Kid McCoy, and other prizefighters, gave his version of the "fourteen count" Dempsey-Tunney fight, of which he was a judge. Boxing enables a man to control his temper and "take it squarely on the chin," said the merchant.

Berlin May Name Square After George Washington

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

1934 Eucharistic Congress Set for Capital of Argentina

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The 1934 Eucharistic congress will be held in Buenos Aires, vatican officials announced today. The exact date was not set. The decision was made by the general assembly of International Eucharistic congresses meeting in Paris and was approved later by Pope Pius XI. The holding of the 1932 congress in Dublin also was approved by the assembly and the pope.

The Bride's Boat

By Coralie Stanton and Heath Hosken

SYNOPSIS.

It was Kit Lenoure's twenty-sixth birthday. She'd worked four years as receptionist in a London family hotel and she felt herself in a groove. When an East African guest offers her a post in the Grand Afrika hotel, Seyhorst, Kenya, she gladly accepts. Theo Baille was there and Kit wanted him more than anything in the world. They'd been in love, but their engagement was broken because of his mother. Kit sails on the "Bride's Boat." Jess North is her cabin mate. Jess is going out to be married. Kit meets Lal Crowhurst, the biggest landowner about Seyhorst and a most attractive bachelor. He invites Kit to lunch.

INSTALLMENT IX.

DISTURBING GOSSIP.

Jess North, however, was brimming over with more gossip when they met in the cabin to dress for dinner.

"I've been sitting with Mrs. Prince in her stateroom," she said. "She told me a lot more about the Man in the Moon. But you must tell me about lunch first. Was it too frantically posh?" The golden eyes were greedy for information.

"It was delightful," Kit replied. "I enjoyed it immensely."

"Was the food wonderful—every luxury under the sun? Caviar—foie gras—peaches—truffles?"

"Well, there did happen to be all those things," Kit admitted, amused. "But, as a matter of fact, it was very simple—much less than we get every day."

"Who was there?"

Kit told her, but she had not caught the names.

Jess, however, knew them already. Jess found out everything. The French scientists did not interest her, but the four English people, they were the most important passengers on the ship.

"Two of them are the Marquess and Marchioness of Nightland, my dear, related to the whole peerage, and royalty as well. And the other two are Lord Percy Fenton and his sister, Lady Susan Wilde. Lady Susan is a widow and enormously rich, and she is taking out the biggest game hunting expedition ever known in Africa. Their father is the Duke of Crome. You were in luck!"

"It's about the woman who owns him."

"They were ever so nice," said Kit, smiling. She was too used to great names at the Gate House hotel to be impressed by them in Jess's snobbish sense. But they did appeal to her imagination all the same.

"Now I must tell you!" Jess turned in her chair before her mirror. There was a look of satisfaction on her round creamy face; her topaz eyes glowed with the thrill of what she was going to impart. Her neck and shoulders gleamed like pearl under their dusting of powder. She was clad only in a slip of black artificial Spanish lace, with flesh colored net straps, so that the garment seemed to cling to her delicious curves without support. In her hand she held the hairpin with a lump of lamp black that was going to over emphasize the luxuriance of her lashes. "The Man in the Moon is absolutely the limit. Mrs. Price said——"

"I say," interrupted Kit, "do you think it quite fair to go on gossiping about a man we don't really know at all?" There was some heat in her voice. She did not want to hear what Jess was going to say.

"O, don't be silly! I think we ought to know. You certainly ought to, if you're going to be pally with him. Mrs. Prince says——"

"But Mrs. Prince didn't say anything definite about Mr. Crowhurst," Kit persisted, with some sort of blind instinct. "Only that women liked him and that sort of thing."

"Don't be an idiot about this wonderful Mr. Crowhurst. I bet you're just as curious about him as I am. It seems he's been mixed up in some really nasty scandals. Of course, Dr. Cardew couldn't tell me. Married women, and all that. Hence the Man in the Moon! A naughty lady goes out and has a good time, don't you know? It gets found out. There's a lot of talk. But nothing more happens. Who is the man? Why, the Man in the Moon!"

Kit gave a little involuntary shiver of repulsion.

"I think it's so unnecessary to go on talking about it, Jess. Really, I'd rather not. It has nothing to do with us."

"Well," said Jess, and now her bell like voice dropped and purred like the low notes of an organ, "I can't help it if you like it or not, but I must tell you the last juicy bit. It's about the woman who owns him."

"The—what?" asked Kit, startled into unwilling interest.

"The woman who owns him—large capital letters, darling! It's a lovely lady who used to live in Nairobi, but has lately moved to one of his estates near the place you are going to—I can never remember the name! She has owned him for years, it seems. All the rest were only oddments—hors d'oeuvres or savouries, you know! But she was the standing dish."

"What has it got to do with us, Jess?"

"O, nothing, of course! Only, as you will probably see her, I was sure you'd like to know. Come Kit, he is interesting, isn't he?" The golden eyes were wide with innocent inquiry. "You haven't heard the most important part. She had a husband. But he is dead. And that's why he's come back after eighteen months, or, at least, Mrs. Prince says that must be one of the reasons. You see, the husband wouldn't divorce her——"

"Jess, really, we haven't any right to discuss a perfect stranger like this!" Kit's voice was low in her throat. She was one of those people who have difficulty in speaking when really moved.

"My dear, I was only suggesting that now the lady is free, Mr. Crowhurst is probably going back to marry her," said Jess, a look of injury on her face that its primness made so natural as to take in people who did not know her very well.

"Yes, of course," replied Kit. "But, anyhow, it has nothing to do with us."

"I know it hasn't—but—it is interesting, I can't help what you say. I do think, dear, perhaps you don't know it yourself, but you are apt to take up a rather superior attitude. Anyhow, I'm dying to meet the Man in the Moon. I simply am. When are you going to see him again?"

"I don't know."

"What! Do you mean you didn't make another date with him?"

"No. I didn't speak to Mr. Crowhurst alone at all. I came away with Mrs. Dunbar."

Jess stared at her, her prim little mouth puckered in unconcealed contempt.

"Well, I call that simply crazy," she said, and turned to her mirror. "If that's the way you're going through life you won't get anywhere."

"I think I heard Mr. Crowhurst say to some one that he was coming to the dance tonight," Kit volunteered. She had an odd feeling of always being in the wrong with Jess North. Perhaps she had been unwilling to expatiate on the luncheon party. After all it had been an event. And she had certainly taken in more fascinating impressions than she had imparted. She had somehow not thought that the other girl would appreciate them. That was probably being "superior," as Jess said.

"O, what a thrill!" It was Jess's favorite expression. "Then you can introduce me. Do you dance well, Kit?"

"Not too bad, I think," laughed the other girl. "I've done a lot of it."

"I've never had the chance," grumbled Jess. "Buried in a poky country village all the time! Only when I could get away to London for a few days to friends. The boys said I was wonderful, though, only wanted practice. Small bones, you know, and ever so light on my feet. Now, let me see, what frock shall I wear?"

Kit dressed in silence. Jess's talk had left a bad taste in her mouth. It was no business of hers, of course. Mrs. Dunbar's words came back to her. "That does not mean I would recommend him to every woman as a friend."

Bright Sayings of the Children

The defeated candidate for alderman was collecting his campaign cards and bringing them home to destroy. Six year old Betty found a pile of them and with a delighted smile came to her mother. "I know why daddy didn't get 'lected," she announced importantly; "he didn't sell enough tickets!" P. R.

Aniba is hard on shoes. Her father bought her a pair which her mother put away for Sunday wear only. A few Sundays later her daddy, looking at her shoes, was much surprised that they looked so new and nice. Aniba explained, "But, daddy, I kept these shoes quiet for three weeks." C. D.

Claire Dux Is Soloist with Stock Orchestra

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Two perfect items on one musical program are quite as much as any person has a right to expect. They occurred yesterday afternoon at Orchestra hall. One was when Claire Dux sang "D'amero, saro costante," from Mozart's opeera, "Il Rè Pastore," to the accompaniment of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The other was when Mr. Stock conducted the same orchestra in Beethoven's Seventh Symphony, and more particularly its second movement.

Mme. Dux is beyond question the finest Mozart singer of the world today. It is partly a matter of lovely, radiant voice, partly an expert knowledge of the Mozart style, partly, and perhaps most important of all, an infallible taste which leads her to do exactly the right thing at exactly the right instant, and never to do anything else. That, if brief, is a fairly accurate formula for good singing. In the case of Mme. Dux it means superb singing.

She appeared again, this time in Lia's aria from Debussy's "L'Enfant Prodigue." Here was another delightful performance. If one remembers the Mozart excerpt a little more vividly, it is probably because it is better music. At any rate, there is no difficulty about remembering.

As Mme. Dux is to Mozart through the medium of her voice, so is Mr. Stock to Beethoven through the medium of the orchestra. Great music may, through its greatness, be hard to ruin; on the other hand, it takes a great interpreter to bring out all that the composer put in. In fact, three elements are necessary for a fine performance—the composer, the interpreter, and the audience. Resisting all temptations to say a few things about the greatness of Beethoven, Mr. Stock and his orchestra were inspired interpreters yesterday, and the reception by the audience was as it had been for Mme. Dux, an inspiring aftermath.

Mr. Stock began with Rameau's attractive Suite in G minor in the Mottl orchestration, and closed with the familiar set of selections from "The Damnation of Faust" by Berlioz. Here it was a little less familiar because the "Rakoczy" March was so uncommonly brilliant that one suspected Mr. Stock of having touched up the music for the brasses. It is by no means the least of his merits that what he touches up in an orchestration, he never fails to improve. The march was almost a new piece.

La Vonne Field, appearing jointly with Louis Laughlin, pianist, at Kimball hall last night, has revived a form of entertainment so old that it has become new all over again. Doing what she calls Singing Pictures, she is really a chalktalker, working with colored crayons on large sheets of paper. She works deftly and quickly, talking or singing the while, using many musical symbols, sharps, flats, rests, notes, what not in her pictures, altogether making an agreeable entertainment. She was seen in "Opera Flashes," a series presenting Carmen, Mephistopheles, Brunnhilde, and a landscape of Marguerite's garden. Later she went in for Indian and southern sketches.

Mr. Laughlin is a talented pianist. He has a broad tone, plenty of technic, some definite ideas about music, and excellent poise. This appeared in the Chopin Sonata of the funeral march. His one lack would seem to be the flexibility that differentiates dance feeling from other music.

On the eve of leaving for America, Tito Schipa gave a recital at the Paris Opera house last night. News comes by cable that the house was completely sold out and that the French government had decorated him with the Legion of Honor.

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

This clever little frock shows color contrast, so popular with the grown-ups just now. It has a wrap over side closing effect—another detail of the grownups' dresses. Two shades of wool crêpe will be lovely—a light navy blue combined with pale blue, or a green tweed mixture with yellow plain woolen. For dressy occasions choose brown velvet with pastel red silk crêpe.

The pattern, 3272, comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 requires 1¾ yards of 39 inch material, with 1 yard of 35 inch contrasting.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

"Peach, All Red and Gold."

Recently our village held a Harvest Home. The three-day celebration was climaxed with a program in the town hall. One feature of this program was a large decorated horn of plenty filled with seasonable farm products and occupying the center of the stage. Several of us girls were each to recite a rhyme eulogizing a certain one of these products and then walk over to the horn and extract from it this particular product.

My rhyme was about peaches, and after reciting something that ended like this: "What doth the horn of plenty hold? Great huge peaches all red and gold," I went over to the horn and inserted my hand to withdraw a "great huge peach." After groping frantically about for some time and being unable to locate my peach, I decided it would not do to go away empty handed. And so I seized the only thing that resembled a peach—a small red plum—and held it up, as we were supposed to do, for the audience to see.

I hoped that my public would be unable to detect the substitution, but when they smiled superciliously my hopes vanished. And when our town drunkard, sitting gleefully on the edge of his chair, called out, "Sure, that's the big red peach, now let's have a look at the big gold one!" everybody laughed uproariously. Everybody but me. I didn't mean to be clowning!

Three States Offer Trophies for Show of Poultry, Rabbits

Governors of three states are offering trophies to be awarded during the annual Chicago Coliseum poultry show in which thousands of birds, pets, pigeons, rabbits and guinea pigs will be displayed Dec. 1 to 6. Gov. Emmerson has offered a silver trophy pitcher to the best display of turkeys by an Illinois grower. The governors of California and Maryland have also offered trophies.

Forty-three judges of national reputation have been obtained for the exposition, according to Manager Harvey C. Wood. These experts have been obtained from the poultry industries of 16 states to judge, in addition to poultry, special exhibits of pigeons, rabbits and pets of many kind.

One of the special displays of educational nature will be made up of eggs from some of the important poultry centers supplying Chicago with its fresh and storage supplies.

Indian Ruler Tells Rotarians About Gandhi

Mahatma Gandhi is a human being endowed with unusual political acumen rather than the inspired "holy man" of India, the maharajah of Burdwan told members of the Rotary club at their Thanksgiving dinner yesterday at the Hotel Sherman. The maharajah, a graduate of Edinburgh and Cambridge universities, was a delegate to the recent round table conferences on India in London.

Throughout his address he insisted India was not ready for complete suffrage, which has been the plea of Gandhi. Instead, the speaker advocated a dominion status and some measure of self-government.

"India's hope of raising herself to the status of England's other dominions with a responsible self-government cannot be accomplished by passive resistance on one side or the mailed fist on the other," said the maharajah. "The cry from certain of India's hotheads for complete independence is, at this time, premature."

The speaker asserted that more than two-fifths of India is composed of principalities, whose sworn allegiance to England is backed by guarantees from England's monarchs for many years. The English have assured these native rulers that their lands and subjects are to be self-governed. These Indian states, the maharajah contended, recognize no one but the British government and are not willing to give up the privileges granted to them. There are hundreds of these native states in India.

"Gandhi asks for universal suffrage for India," the maharajah said. "Can a country with 325,000,000 illiterates use the important privilege of universal suffrage with understanding? The answer is obvious. In answer to my countrymen who proclaim that India is under England's boot heel, I might say that there are about 130,000 whites in India. Is it reasonable to infer that 350,000,000 people can be kept under subjection by a minority of 130,000?"

Secret Marriage Is Seldom Secret for Long, Doris Asserts

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The girl is 20, her young man, 21. They've been keeping steady company for several years.

"Now that we are of age and want to marry," the girl says, "he is not in a position to do so. We, therefore, believe that the right thing to do is to marry secretly and keep the secret until he is financially able to have the marriage acknowledged. What do you think?"

Think? That you're just a little bit crazy to think of marrying under the circumstances described. To begin with, your marriage won't be a secret—for long. Like murder, those secret marriages always come out. Some active agent of news gathering unearths that secret and broadcasts it, because there is always an outside party or parties to the nuptial tieup.

There is one who does the marrying job. There are the witnesses, and a possible one, two, or three Paul Prys who just happen in on a bit of circumstantial evidence and who do not believe that marriages are made to be kept secret.

Then, marriages "to go" need financial oiling. They just don't get anywhere without some settled weekly income. And while the impatient young fiancée may make all manner of mental sacrifices before marriage actually confronted them, her heroism takes on a peculiarly human shade of weakness. It's nerve wracking to run a home on nothing a week or comparatively nothing.

And 20 isn't such a ripe old age Nor 21. Not an age for marrying, anyway, but for promises, for hopes for future bright prospects. And there are savings banks and other things that to encourage young people couples to gather a little nest egg for, they make the big plunge. In two years, three, you two could save a nest egg. You have any idea how even the tiniest apartment gobbles up money until you go to shop for it.

And then that nursery income throws a cloud over what should be your most romantic hour. The baby just doesn't like it, and so it grows and frowns and talks. By reason of its interest in lovers and its wants and rights in that respect represented, and what's more, you can't leave the world [your world, that is] out of your affairs.

COUTURE EVENS SCORE IN LAST TWO MINUTES

Cook Bounces Goal Over Gardiner.

The Shamrocks last night lost to the Duluth Hornets, 2 to 1, at Duluth.

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks continued undefeated in the National Hockey league tonight as they came from behind to score in the last two minutes of the third period and tie the New York Rangers, 1 to 1. It was the Blackhawks' third tie in five games to date.

Trailing from the end of the first period in a brilliantly played game, marked by speed and close checking, the Hawks threw five men into the breach in a last desperate attack and succeeded. Lola Couture scored the tying goal, but the play was made by Jerry Lowrey. The former Philadelphia wingman carried the puck down the right side of the rink and found an opening between the two defenders guarding him. He made a perfect pass from the corner of the rink and Couture, waiting by the far side of the net, flipped in the shot.

Penalty Aids Rangers.

A Chicago penalty helped give the Rangers their first period score. With Helge Bostrum off the ice, a series of long passes and a long shot by Bun Cook found the net, glancing off a stick to spoil Chuck Gardiner's chance to save.

Bostrum was injured just before the end of the period, suffering a cut tendon in his left leg, when he blocked a rush by Earl Seibert, Ranger defense player. The only other serious trouble to the Hawks was a $25 fine assessed Stew Adams for using abusive language to a referee.

The only dull session was the overtime period, when the Hawks appeared well satisfied with the tie and played purely defensive hockey. The three regular periods were fast.

Rangers Get Early Lead.

Action started immediately as the Hawks made a few menacing sallies. Roach made two brilliant saves as Abel drove straight through center for a close shot and Thompson followed up.

Abel was penalized for cross checking and Dee Jardins followed him, charged with carrying a high stick. Siebert crashed into the end boards down the left side and limped off the ice. Couture stirred things up by snatching the puck in front of the Rangers' net and missing a shot from a sharp angle.

The Hawks' tight guarding was not enough to hold off a four man drive and a series of long passes brought a goal in 17:38. Bun Cook made the final shot, a drive from the boards that bounded over Gardiner's shoulder as he went down in an attempt to save. Johnson and Boucher were given assists.

Hawks Go Scoreless.

Romnes and Gottselig missed tying the score by inches when Roach fell on the puck and slipped close to the line across the goal mouth. Gottselig claimed a goal, but was overruled at the bell.

There were several slow minutes as the second period started, but the next few plays brought a rapid-fire exchange on even terms, causing little trouble for the goalies. Gottselig and Couture made the first real threat of the period with a shot and follow after getting the puck deep in Ranger territory and Roach saved with difficulty.

Some of the fastest skating and hardest body checking of the game came in the next few minutes and in the middle of the bumping Brennan drew a penalty.

Chicago's heavy defense line made a quick end of most of the Rangers' attacks. Roach came far out to drive a puck out of a mixup in front of his net a moment before the period ended.

Gardiner Fools Rangers.

Gardiner made a spectacular play early in the third period when the Rangers flipped one down the ice and Bun Cook followed it. He started out to shoot it up to the forwards, then seeing the danger, took the rubber around behind the net.

The regulars came back to start some exciting action and Roach again shone as he stopped successive shots by Gottselig and Romnes. With the sides even, the assault continued and

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

This is the week we find out whether Chicago football fans practice what they preach.

There has been a lot of talk in recent months concerning the apparent lack of enthusiasm in the colleges about playing games for the boys in the bread line.

Tomorrow and again on Saturday the colleges kick the ball back to the folks who have been saying charity does not exist among the robed leaders of collegiate thought.

Three games will be played at Stagg field tomorrow afternoon between Western conference elevens. They involve Illinois, Iowa, Chicago, and Indiana. There are sufficient alumni and friends of these institutions residing in the metropolitan district to turn out a crowd large enough to return a substantial contribution to the poor.

There is no championship angle to the competition on the Midway, but these are old rivalries to be settled. Each game looks like a battle.

Northwestern, which would be the undisputed holder of the Big Ten title if the colleges were less charitably inclined, risks its championship against Purdue at Soldiers' field Saturday. There is nothing in the record of the Purdue squad to warrant prediction of any easy victory for the Wildcats.

All receipts above expenses from all these games will go into the governor's charity fund of the states in Western conference territory. To this amount will be added profits of the Michigan-Wisconsin game at Ann Arbor and the Ohio State-Minnesota contest at Minneapolis.

Conference universities are doing their part to assist in raising money for the unemployed. They will lose nothing if the games are not well attended and they will not profit financially if they draw capacity crowds.

In the matter of prestige Northwestern has something to lose. Michigan, Purdue, and Ohio State have something to gain. If Purdue whips the Purple and if Michigan and Ohio State win their games there will be a four way tie for the Big Ten championship.

It was decided at the meeting of athletic directors Nov. 15 that the charity games would count in the final standings. Otherwise they would lose some of their appeal and there would be a proportionate decrease in attendance.

Respecting the games to be played at Stagg field tomorrow it was voted that the winners of the Chicago-Iowa and Illinois-Indiana games would be credited with half a game. The winner of the playoff also would be credited with half a game.

In other words, the winner of the final game, having played sixty minutes, would be justified in entering the results of the game in the permanent records of the school. The other team, from the standpoint of records, would not be credited with having lost, but if it desired could list its victory in the preliminary game with a note explaining the circumstances.

Not that it makes any difference, but there will be seven conference football teams in Chicago tomorrow night. It never has happened before and it is unlikely it will occur again.

In addition to the four teams participating in the tournament at Stagg field, Ohio State will stop off on the way to Minneapolis, and Wisconsin will be here to catch their train to Ann Arbor. Northwestern, of course, will be on the ground.

DOPESTERS PICK INDIANA TO WIN CHARITY SERIES

Boys of 4 Schools Pass Up Holiday.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Many thousands of Chicagoans who are going to pass up the noon-hour turkey, the dressing, the cranberries and all the trimmings, not to mention the plum pudding, to see the Big Ten charity football carnival at Stagg field tomorrow afternoon, last night were beginning to digest the handicap figures on the four contending teams.

The more midnight oil the football handicappers burned, the more it seemed that Thanksgiving afternoon on Stagg field is going to be turned into a happy Hoosier holiday.

If the handicappers are correct in their diagnosis, Chicago is going to beat Iowa in the first game which starts at 1 o'clock. Then Indiana's Hoosiers are going to trounce the bruised and frequently mauled Illinois team in the game which gets going at about 2 o'clock. Then, according to the handicap figures which sometimes do, but more often don't, tell the truth the Indiana eleven is going to kick the stuffing out of the Maroons for the Thanksgiving championship of the Western conference.

Figures to Prevent Ties.

A championship is to be determined and that is a certainty. For if any of the 30 minute games ends in a tie an expert statistician, who will keep an accurate account of the way one team outplays another, will make a decision. The yards gained from scrimmage and from passes, and advantage in the kicking department will be totaled.

Who is to be this expert statistician who is to see all and know all at the end of the battles? An appointment to this important post had not been made last night.

But a suggestion was reported to have been made that Mrs. A. A. Stagg serve in this capacity and there was a further report that her appointment would be highly satisfactory to all the teams that compete. For years Mrs. Stagg has been spending her football afternoons in the press box wherever the Maroons were playing, keeping an accurate check and a chart on what was going on out on the playing field. These reports frequently have been scanned by many Western conference football chiefs and they marveled at their accuracy.

Hope for Crowd of 41,000.

With thousands of old grads, former students and undergraduates from the four universities in Chicago for the holiday, hope was held out last night that all the 41,000 tickets printed for the game will be sold. This will mean gross receipts of $35,000 and a pot of $30,000 for the charity fund.

If the attendance should be 20,000 which the advance sale of tickets seemed to assure last night a charity fund of about $38,000 will be realized.

All the invading teams will arrive in Chicago today and some of them may engage in short workouts at Stagg field. That Coach Stagg is taking the games seriously was indicated by the long hard drill he gave the Maroons yesterday.

J. H. Nichols of Oberlin has been named referee for the games, Maj. John Griffith, conference commissioner, announced yesterday. He will be assisted by W. D. Knight, Dartmouth, umpire; Meyer Morton, Michigan, field judge, and Lee Daniels, Loyola, head linesman.

Seven Maroons End Careers.

Seven of the Maroons will be playing their last game tomorrow. They are Capt. Horwits and Hamberg, guards; Wien and Walsh, ends; Paul Stagg, Temple and Buzzell from the back field. These fellows were worked harder than any of the others in the final stiff rehearsal.

With the passing of Paul Stagg from the ranks of the Maroons there is some sentiment. He is the youngest of Athletic Director Stagg's sons. If there is to be another Stagg's name to appear in a Maroon lineup it will have to be a grandson, a great grandson, or a great-great-grandson of the old man of the Midway.

Just how much of a show will be weaved into the Thanksgiving day charity football battles could not be

SETTLE CARNERA JUDGMENT CASE OUT OF COURT

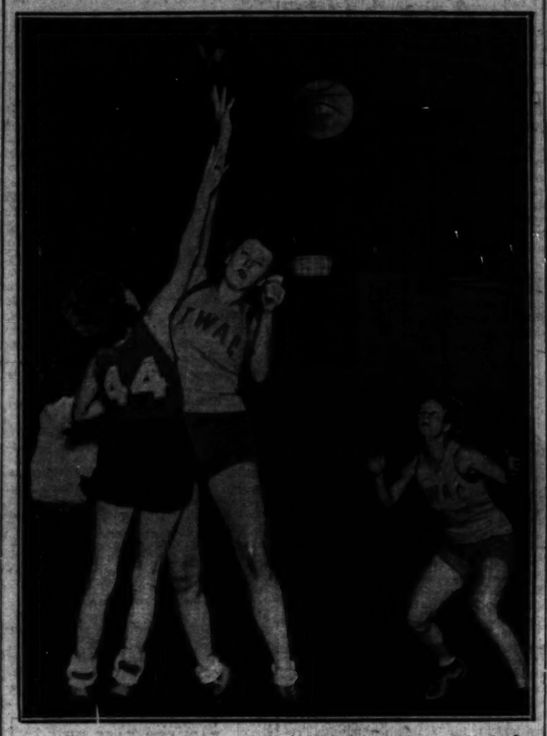
An out of court settlement in which Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight fighter, paid a "substantial part" of a $3,754 judgment against him, resulted in Judge William Lindsay in the Superior court yesterday quashing the writ of ne exeat against him.

A garnishment, which tied up the $16,000 Carnera received for his bout in the Chicago Stadium last Thursday, also was dismissed, according to Attorney Edwin Breen, who filed the suit on behalf of George A. Biemer, a Fort Wayne fight promoter.

Biemer alleged that Carnera had defaulted on an engagement to fight for him in Fort Wayne in August, 1930, entailing a large preparatory expense.

While he would not disclose the exact amount of the settlement, Attorney Green said it was "very close to the judgment obtained."

STARTING THE SEASON RIGHT



The tipoff which started the Illinois Women's Athletic club's basketball season last night is a tipoff to the big reason for the Brownies' success. Here Carolyn Peckron, the I. W. A. BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

The Illinois Women Athletic club's Brownies last night defeated the T. O. Wallace team, 15 to 2, in their first game of the basketball season. It was played at the I. W. A. C.

Blanche Gill, right guard of the Brownies, was high scorer with two baskets.

The Wallace team played a defensive game, trying to keep down the Brownies' score by playing the ball in the back court. Their two points were scored on free throws by Julia Stiuka and Daisy Williams.

Superior height was a telling factor for the Brownies. Carolyn Peckron, six foot center, scored a basket and a free throw. Dorothy Ogren, left forward, made the most difficult goal of the contest, shooting from the far end of the floor.

The Wallace lineup was composed almost entirely of new material. The Brownies had five holdovers from last year—Carolyn Peckron, Loral Hull, Dorothy Ogren, Mary Byrne, and Blanche Gill. Lineup and score:

Appendicitis Is Fatal to Western Teachers Athlete

Macomb, Ill., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—John Churchill, captain of the Western State Teachers basketball team two years ago and one of the outstanding players of the Little Nineteen conference, died here last night following an operation for appendicitis. Churchill was selected by several sports writers for the mythical Little Nineteen team two years ago.

Bresnahan, Iowa Track Coach, Will Marry Today

Tama, Ia., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Miss Dorothy Withington of Tama, and George T. Bresnahan of Iowa City, track coach at the University of Iowa, will be married tomorrow morning at Iowa City.

Two more points for I. W. A. C. Blanche Kostka drops a one handed shot through the basket unmolested by the Wallace guards. The Brownies' guarding, however, was considerably better, the Wallace five scoring only two points, on free throws. The I. W. A. C. won, 15 to 2.

LOYOLA POLICY OF 'NO FOOTBALL' CALLED SUCCESS

President Urges Ban Be Made Permanent.

Intercollegiate football, apparently has been abolished forever at Loyola university.

A year ago, the university dropped the sport as an experiment. Yesterday the Rev. Robert M. Kelley, president of the university, said he was so pleased with the results that he was certain football would never return.

"Naturally, there are a few students who still think Loyola made a mistake in discontinuing intercollegiate football," President Kelley said, "but the preponderant feeling is that we have made a wise move. Personally, I am so elated with the reaction and results that I am for its permanent abolishment here.

Gain 157 Students.

"Student registration has not fallen off, contrary to expectations. The enrollment a year ago totaled 6,760 as against 6,917 this year, a gain of 157 students. My administrative problems have been greatly eased; students have been pleased with the program of interclass and intramural sports which have been inaugurated, and the faculty advises it has found the outcome more favorable than it had hoped.

"A definite checkup on grades will not be possible until after the school year, but the board of regents recently advised that the general trend is upward as compared with those during the football era."

Football never brought big financial returns to Loyola. Hence, the university actually has saved money instead of losing it by throwing out the sport, President Kelley said. The new football stadium, built three years ago for a capacity crowd of 10,000, has been turned over to the many interclass and intramural teams.

Work is Better.

Expert coaches have been provided for teams in gymnastics, swimming, basketball, boxing, golf, tennis, and track, with facilities formerly restricted to the football squad being turned over for the general student body. Intercollegiate basketball has been made the big sport of the school and the Loyola cagers have won a national reputation.

Some students, in a questionnaire submitted by the College of Journalism, said they believed Loyola lost a fine opportunity to win good publicity like Notre Dame and Northwestern.

President Kelley added that "this may be true, but almost every one of them agrees that our work has been better in the classroom."

GUS SONNENBERG FLIPS ZBYSZKO FROM RING; WINS

If this wrestling thing keeps up at the Chicago Stadium Mr. Sidney Strotz, Nate Lewis & Co. will have to surround the ring with one of those nets which the trapeze performers bring into use in the circus.

Take last night's grapple between a lot of heavyweights, for instance, which was witnessed by 2,875 paid customers. Gus Sonnenberg of the Sennenbergs of Boston, after losing a fall to Karol Zbyszko of the Polish Zbyszkos, tossed Mr. Zbyszko out of the ring onto the concrete floor after 15 minutes of wrestling for the second fall.

Zbyszko couldn't return to the ring, so the fall was awarded to Sonnenberg. Zbyszko was carried out of the arena and because at the end of 15 minutes he was unable to return to the ring Mr. Sonnenberg was awarded the third fall and the match. Zbyszko had won the first fall with a headlock at the end of 26 minutes and 40 seconds of wrestling.

Then there was that match between Jack Sherry of New York and Fred Meyer of Chicago, both weighing well over 200 pounds. Sherry won the match after he had thrown Meyer out of the ring. The latter landed kerplunk in the press row, smashed a camera and a newspaper photographer who was about to click it, and Sherry won the match because Meyer was unable to get back into the ring.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

PASS INTERFERENCE.

RULINGS on interference with forward passes are among the most difficult which football officials are called to make. This is especially so on long passes of 30 yards or more, success or failure of which often means the turning point of the whole contest.

Three such decisions were made in the Southern California-Notre Dame game. One was a factor—an important factor—in the march for the Trojans' second touchdown. Fortunately, Southern California's two passes which put it in position for Baker's place kick and victory were completed without official ruling.

Now, the theory of pass defense is never to let the receiver of the pass get behind the defensive back, lest he sprint on unmolested to a touchdown. Obviously, if the defensive man is behind the receiver it is difficult to knock down or intercept the ball without jostling or interfering with the receiver.

Conference coaches, in their rule interpretation meetings, were averse to calling interference when the defensive player "played the ball and not the man"—the man being the receiver. Thus, if there is bumping or colliding in air, with both men watching the ball and trying to catch it, interference is seldom called. If the defender pushes his opponent with his hands, or jostles him with evident intention of making him lose the catch, it is interference.

We are told that on the Pacific coast officials give the receiver right of way, which makes defense even more difficult. Decisions against Notre Dame were made by an official from the Pacific coast. On the more important of these we could see what appeared unintentional bumping. We were too far away to see whether hands were used. The official was there for that purpose. So this comment is not intended as criticism, but simply an explanation of the hairline decisions officials are forced to make on pass interference.

It keeps the spirit gallant,
When a fellow needs a friend,
To find a worthy brother
With a willing hand to lend.
It helps to bring us closer,

And to glorify the fathers
Of that first Thanksgiving day.

Though high or low our stations
In life, it matters not—
We feel the bond of kinship
When sharing what we've got.
It warms the heart like sunshine
To spare a bit and give
Of what we have to those in need—

Ex Post Facto.

Dear Harve: Northwestern's Wildcats go out and beat every Big Ten team on their schedule and two tough ones besides—not a single soft spot when the chart was framed. Then the conference cries "April fool! You're not through; you've got to beat Purdue."

Of course, the conference voted charity games to count for the title to swell the receipts, a worthy purpose, but unfair to Northwestern. The Purple may lose. It played hard games with Nebraska, Notre Dame, and California [L. A.] before Big Ten teams got t' rough with Siwash, Podunk, et al. Outsiders regard Northwestern as champion, whatever the result Saturday.

N. U. Freshman Suffers Concussion of Brain

Robert M. Notley, 19 years old, of Tulsa, Okla., a half back on the Northwestern university freshman football team, was injured late yesterday afternoon in a scrimmage between the freshman and varsity squads in Dyche stadium. Notley, who was carrying the ball in a play, failed to rise after being tackled. He was taken to the Evanston hospital where he was said to be suffering from concussion of the brain. Notley is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

Bowie, Md., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Favorites continued to lose at the Bowie race track today, 14 in a row having failed the form players when Blind Lane won the Combat handicap, feature of the day. The Blind Play filly returned better than 10 to 1, and was one of the most neglected of the seven which went to the post.

The finish, at the end of a mile and a sixteenth, was a thrilling one, with Blind Lane just holding on to win by a nose. Royal Ruffin and Mouthpiece, running coupled in the betting, finished two, three. Waterway, messed about in the going, was fourth, and then came Thais, Khorasan, and Ormesby.

Ormesby and Waterway were the joint choices, with the entry at a slightly longer price. Blind Lane, a sulker in her two most recent efforts, turned the good natured side of her character today and whipped the more highly fancied and more consistent thoroughbreds.

She finished the mile and a sixteenth under 110 pounds in 1:47 1-5, and across the board paid $22.70, $7.50, and $5.00, with George Fields in the saddle.

Puritan Sets $3,700 High at Horse Sale

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—More than 150 potential trotting and pacing champions donned new silks today with the opening of the 87th Old Glory horse auction.

The first consignment of Ogden M. Edwards' Walnut Hall farm of Doneraile, Ky., topped the early sales. Twenty of the 83 yearlings brought $12,835, an average of $642, nearly $200 short of 1930's grand average.

A little bay colt, Puritan, also placed the Walnut Hall farm at the top of the individual sales, going to Lyman Brusie of Danbury, Conn., for $3,700. Puritan, a full brother to Guy Fletcher, 2:01, holder of the world's trotting record for his age, was sired by Guy Axworthy out of Hilda Fletcher.

Second honors of the early sales went to Calumet Daniel, a full brother of Calumet Butler, the Hambletonian winner, which went to J. D. Roquemore of Montgomery, Ala., for $3,300. Calumet Daniel, sired by Truax, was consigned by the late William Wright's Calumet farm of Lexington. Calumet Butler also will pass under the hammer during the auction in the dispersal sale of the Calumet farm's racing stable.

Speed Title Goes to Mr. Teal in Game Bird Derby

BY BOB BECKER.

How fast do game birds fly? For several years authorities have argued this question and a number of sets of figures have been issued on such birds as the canvasback, teal, quail, etc. The information below represents the average figures given by several authorities.

Before reading it one should bear in mind that many birds can fly a good deal faster than the average figures and some probably are slower. In other words, it is just as incorrect to say that all quail fly at a speed of 40 miles an hour as it is to contend that a person always walks at the same speed or that a hunting dog always runs at the same pace.

Any one who has ever watched ducks can appreciate this fact. We have seen mallards step on the gas and go at a very fast rate of speed and ten minutes later we were watching an old hen mallard barely moving around a bunch of decoys.

In the following data on the average speed of game birds, the idea is to approximate the flying rate of birds which are unmolested. If frightened with a wind behind them, nearly all our game birds can add many feet a second to their speed.

The average speed of a Bob White quail is 40 to 41 miles an hour. The prairie chicken and the ruffed grouse do have a normal rate of around 40 miles an hour.

The jacksnipe and the plover are rated a little slower when they fly long unmolested. On the other hand, such birds as the redhead, bluebill, green and bluewing teal and the canvasback are speedier than the puddler ducks. The redhead and the bluebill will fly at an average rate of 57 or 8 miles an hour but with a wind will pick up considerable speed.

Both the bluewing and the greenwing teal can average close to 65 miles an hour. Never were we more conscious of their speed than the other day when we were in a blind near Morris, Ill., and five greenwings swept by at a pace that left us gasping. According to most authorities, the canvasback has been rated as a faster bird than the teal but recent investigation of game bird speeds hands the palm to the latter as the prime speed artist of the fly ways.

The canvasback makes an average speed of about 62 miles an hour. However, it is not unusual for them to add another ten miles an hour to their speed when flying with a wind or when scared by shooting.

Purple Stakes Year's Record on Last Game

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Some mighty fine football playing will be wasted unless Northwestern defeats Purdue Saturday afternoon at Soldiers' field. Undefeated, although held to a scoreless tie by Notre Dame, Northwestern now has established a record superior to that of 1930, when it shared the Big Ten championship with Michigan.

But seven victories, five of them against Big Ten foes, one against Nebraska, the winner of the Big Six championship, and the other against the University of California, Los Angeles, which later defeated St. Mary's, conqueror of Southern California, will be forgotten unless the Wildcats whip Purdue.

Purple's Power Great.

This information is no secret, of course, and Coach Dick Hanley undoubtedly will deliver lectures on the subject between now and Friday night, when his team finishes practice for the title contest. Most fans who have followed Northwestern this year will agree that the Wildcats have shown greater power than Purdue. Northwestern has scored 100 points in five conference games, but its miserable offense against Indiana, which barely eked out a 7 to 6 victory, is the basis of underlying pessimism on the title game outcome.

On the other side of the ledger are the 76 points scored by Purdue. The Boilermakers' showing against Illinois and Wisconsin, not to mention Chicago, are offset in the minds of Purdue alumni by the more conclusive victories against Iowa and Indiana in the last two contests. This confidence is reflected in ticket sales in Indiana.

Purdue Fans Buy Fast.

Seven thousand tickets have been sent to Lafayete. Officials in charge of distribution announced yesterday that between twenty and twenty-five thousand $3 tickets have been bought for Saturday's game. All tickets between the goal lines are $3. Other tickets are priced at $2 and $1.

Northwestern and Purdue have had three Big Ten foes in common this fall. Their respective records against these teams were:

Northwestern, 39; Illinois, 6.
Purdue, 7; Illinois, 6.
Northwestern, 7; Indiana, 6.
Purdue, 19; Indiana, 6.
Northwestern, 19; Iowa, 0.
Purdue, 20; Iowa, 6.

Northwestern has had 26 points scored against it in five conference games. Purdue has granted an equal number of touchdowns, which totaled 27 points. The points registered against Northwestern were as follows: Indiana, 6; Minnesota, 14; Illinois, 6. Points against Purdue were: Wisconsin, 21; Chicago, 6.

Northwestern's supremacy in comparative scores is based on these two deductions:

Ohio State, which defeated Michigan, lost to Northwestern, 10 to 0.

Minnesota, conqueror of Wisconsin, 14 to 0, after the Badgers had beaten Purdue, 21 to 14, lost to Northwestern, 32 to 14. All of which means nothing if Northwestern cannot reach the form demonstrated against Minnesota.

Marvil, Fencl Burned.

The consensus is that Purdue's fast back field men have been responsible for its victories while Northwestern has the better line with a back field which, as a whole, is only a shade less fast than Purdue's. Maury Kent, Northwestern coach who scouted the Indiana-Purdue game Saturday, reported that the Boilermaker line is much improved over early season. Indiana was able to make only three first downs against Purdue and these only after the Boilermaker regulars had left the field.

Coach Hanley yesterday continued his policy of no body contact drills. Scrimmage, however, is announced for this afternoon.

Dal Marvil and Dick Fencl will not be in the best condition for Purdue. Marvil was confined to the university infirmary yesterday where he was treated for lime burns on the back. Fencl was in suit but he also was badly burned by the lime used at Iowa City to mark the gridiron.

PURDUE LOSES STAR

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Doxie Moore, Purdue sophomore half back, who was injured in the Iowa game and was unable to play against Indiana, will not be able to face Northwestern Saturday. He was sent to the hospital to have a cast placed on his twisted knee this afternoon.

Moore is the second regular to be declared out, for Paul Calvert, end, who was injured in the Chicago game and had expected to be in shape for the Purple game, was operated on for appendicitis.

The Boilermakers went through a drill of mid-season intensity. Numerous back field shifts were made in an effort to find a replacement for Moore. Max McLean, reserve quarter back, was shifted to a half back post, while Rodenbaugh, a reserve, also was given a shot at the position.

Johnny Farrell Weds His Partner of Golf Talkies

New York, Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Johnny Farrell, golf professional and open champion in 1928, and Catherine Theresa Hush, his partner in recent golf talkie shorts, were married today in St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church in Bronxville and left later for a golfing trip to California and Honolulu in company of Gene Sarazen and his wife.

Collegians Know Yells Are Silly

the advertising business, which is a form of cheer leading, has given his opinion that the college cheer leader is by no means as silly as he may seem in the course of his leaping and tumbling before a football crowd. Given his choice between a solemn intellect and a somewhat playful young graduate who led the cheering and busied himself with the affairs of the band in school, he would select the latter specimen as being more likely to make good in the advertising, distinguishing, however, between the familiar type of cheer leader and the common spellbinder.

Come, Come, Now.

There is no record of the exact beginning of mass cheering, but it has been traced to the seventies when intercollegiate football was just beginning and baseball was the more popular game. It occurred spontaneously, the students breaking into measured yells at baseball games with the intent, very unsporting, in the English school tradition, to confuse the opposing team, especially the pitcher. To this day there is no such thing in the English universities and Prof. Howard Savage, of the Carnegie foundation, in his studies of the sporting customers and manners of the English students found only one very mild and scarcely comparable form of concerted cheering.

This he noticed at Christ church whose students have developed a traditional call of "House, house, house." Otherwise, he reports, the noncombatant interest in games seems rather weak except in critical situations when, the English students, becoming hysterical for English students, remark, "now then, come along" and, with the passing of the crisis, turn and walk away.

KWARIANI AND DUSEK MEET AT FRONTON FRIDAY

When Kola Kwariani crawls through the ropes Friday night at the Fronton arena to meet Rudy Dusek he will be making his first start in Chicago since he and Jimmy Londos wrestled before 20,000 fans last winter in the Stadium.

Ed White, manager of Londos, arrived in Chicago yesterday, and this brought up the suspicion that Londos may appear here in the near future against the winner of the Dusek-Kwariani battle.

The Earl McCready-Wee Willie Davis match has been dropped off the program, leaving five matches in all.

Gino Garibaldi, Italy, and Milo Steinborn, Germany, meet in one of the three supporting numbers. Pat O'Shocker, Utah, and Jack Washburn, Hollywood, meet in another of the preliminaries. The other is between Fred Grobmier and Jack Zarnos.

Dopesters Pick Indiana to Win Grid Tourney

learned last night. The Maroon band will be on hand. It had not been determined if the bands from Illinois, Indiana and Iowa will make the trip. But the cheer leaders from the four middle western universities will be here and the familiar battle shouts of the great institutions, even though they are represented by lowly teams in the Big Ten championship race, will echo and reecho across the Midway throughout the afternoon.

Boys Give Holiday to Charity.

Tickets are on sale downtown at the Marshall Field and Carson Pirie Scott stores for men and at A. G. Spalding's. They can also be bought by mail or in person at the football ticket committee's offices at 5525 Ellis avenue.

And it is well that all the holiday pleasure seekers remember that these boys from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Chicago are not only fighting to keep their teams out of the Big Ten cellar, but they also will be at work on the holiday in the 100 per cent interest of charity.

MICHIGAN TO USE MANY RESERVES AGAINST BADGERS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Further indication that Michigan plans to use a large number of players against Wisconsin Saturday was seen here today when Coach Harry Kipke gave his personal attention to a drill for second string men.

All of Kipke's regulars were on hand, but such men as Auer and Samuels, tackles; La Jeunesse and Hozer, guards; Morrison, center, and Petoskey and Williamson, ends, worked only occasionally in a signal practice. The two regular flankers worked during a defense drill, but Bernard was at center, Kowalik and Cantrill at guards and Wistert and Goldsmith at tackles. Hewitt, Newman, and Fay were back of the line a large part of the afternoon, but Hudson and Heston saw only occasional service.

Kipke and his staff continued driving the squad today, probably with the thought of keeping it traveling at the pace it reached in the Minnesota game. It is no secret that Kipke is fearful of a letdown and believes Wisconsin may point toward just such a condition.

BADGERS EASE UP

Madison, Wis., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—With but one more day of practice before the Michigan charity game Wisconsin's football team did nothing except a signal drill today. Coach Thistlethwaite feels the men need no scrimmage this week. All are fit.

The varsity was reenforced by the return of Dick Haworth to left end and Doug Simmons replaced Ken Kruger at center. Cuthbert was at left tackle and Wimmer at quarter back. Otherwise the lineup was unchanged. In spite of the coldest weather this year the squad went through the drill with enthusiasm and functioned nicely. Forward passing plays were executed smoothly and Catlin and Haworth stood out in pulling down Schneller's long heaves.

Notre Dame Hall Eleven, Dodgers Await Battle

The Dodger football team of River Forest and the squad representing Howard Hall of Notre Dame today will hold final practice for their seventh annual game at the Oak Park High school field tomorrow. Proceeds will be turned over to the Chicago Foundlings' home.

Oak Park Y.M.C.A. Opens Basketball Season Tonight

The Oak Park Y. M. C. A. basketball team will open its season tonight with two practice games. A squad of 25 men has reported for practice.

MEDILL PREPS WITHDRAW FROM CITY CAGE LOOP

Medill High school of the west section, with a student body of 350, no longer is a member of the Chicago Public High School league. Basketball, the only sport on the Medill schedule, has been abandoned, it was learned yesterday.

The dropping of the sport, however, will not affect other west section teams, it was announced by A. H. Pritzlaff, secretary of the league. The league schedule, drawn several months ago, shows Medill was to play twelve games, opening on Jan. 5 against Austin.

Seek More Practice Games.

With the elimination of Medill, other west division teams now will ask for more practice games. A recent ruling of the league allows west section teams to participate in twelve league games and only ten practice contests. But league officials contemplate no revision of the schedule to replace these two dates left vacant by Medill's withdrawal.

"I don't think the west section schedule will be revised because of Medill leaving the league," said Mr. Pritzlaff last night. "I cannot say whether or not the other teams in the section will be permitted to play practice games to replace the regularly scheduled games with Medill."

Six Others in Section.

In addition to Medill, there are six teams in the west section—Marshall, Austin, Crane, Harrison Tech, McKinley, and Tuley. Crane won the heavyweight championship last year, while Harrison Tech reached the semifinals for the Illinois state title.

Basketball at Medill has been the only sport there for several years. Medill's last appearance in the semifinals for the City league title was made in 1928.

Twenty-eight members of the Crane football team, led by Coach Bill Hefland, left last night for Allentown, Pa., where the squad will meet Allentown High school tomorrow. Crane, while in the east, will travel to Shenandoah, Pa., Saturday afternoon to play Shenandoah.

Bowen of the central section will face La Salle-Peru High school eleven tomorrow, it was announced yesterday. Bowen was to have met Calumet, but the game was canceled.

Los Angeles Plans All Day Welcome for Trojans Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 24.—Angelenos will stage a veritable Armistice day celebration to welcome the home coming University of Southern California football squad tomorrow morning.

The greeting took on the aspect of a civic holiday today when the entire city council, police and fire departments, county supervisors, and the Chamber of Commerce all entered into the drawing of a program which will drag the conquerors of Notre Dame into the midst of such a welcome as only Los Angeles can stage.

Starting at 8 a. m., when the team arrives with the team's private car, the hullabaloo will include addresses at the depot, a triumphal procession to the city hall, where the mayor, as representative of the governor of California, the Rt. Rev. John J. Cantwell, bishop of the Los Angeles Catholic diocese, and President Rufus B. Klein Smid of the university will address the team.

Three radio stations will broadcast the affair. From the city hall the athletes will be paraded in autos in triumph through downtown streets which traffic has been ruled off of for the occasion. A further luncheon will be given them at the university auditorium late in the day.

Los Angeles Plans All Day Welcome for Trojans Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 24.—Southern cos will stage a veritable Armistice day celebration to welcome the home coming University of Southern California football squad tomorrow morning.

The greeting took on the aspect of a civic holiday today when the entire city council, police and fire departments, county supervisors, and the Chamber of Commerce all entered into the drawing of a program which will drag the conquerors of Notre Dame into the midst of such a welcome as only Los Angeles can stage.

Starting at 6 a. m., when the team arrives with the team's private car, the fieldhalkigo will include addresses at the depot, a triumphal procession to the city hall, where the mayor, the representatives of the governor of California, the Rt. Rev. John J. Cantwell, bishop of the Los Angeles Catholic diocese, and President Rufus Von Klein Smid of the university will welcome the team.

Three radio stations will broadcast the affair. From the city hall the athletes will be paraded in another triumph through downtown streets which traffic has been ruled off for the occasion. A further homecoming will be given them at the university auditorium late in the day.

Pa., where the squad will meet Allentown High school tomorrow. Ursinus, while in the east, will travel to Shenandoah, Pa., Saturday afternoon to play Shenandoah.

Seven of the central section will from La Salle-Peru High school's eleven tomorrow, it was announced yesterday. Bowen was to have met Calumet, but the game was canceled.

One of the regular guards on the Jasper, Ind., football team, which will meet Loyola academy tomorrow at Loyola field, is Rose Pangar, who arrived in the United States two years ago from Greece. Pangar resides in Gary, Ind.

SPEAKING OF GRID RECORDS, LOOK AT LAKE FOREST'S

Preps Have Won 20 of 21 in Three Years.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Notre Dame's great record of 25 victories and one defeat in three years is a handsome one, but there's a school up on Chicago's north shore that is right proud of the work of its football team during the same period of time. The institution in question is Lake Forest academy, and the school elevens have gone out and won themselves 20 games while losing only one during the last three seasons.

It is a very worthy list of achievements. E. B. [Speedo] Wilson, who is athletic director, football and basketball coach at the academy, will tell you, since a majority of the victories were scored over regular college freshman teams or junior college varsity elevens.

Mr. Wilson is a smiling, wiry gentleman who once played a bit of football himself, having served as quarterback on the Denison university team that came to Ohio just before the world war, and carried on the good work with his battery team in the game. He is very modest about the records of his boys, and is quick to point out that Ralph Jones, now coaching the Chicago Bears, was coach at Lake Forest when the present school was under construction. Another old timer, J. L. Wier, a star lineman at West Point a score of years ago, and now line coach at the academy, has played a big part in Lake Forest's success.

Manlius Ends String.

Wilson has coached at Lake Forest for five years now, but it's not his first appearance on the north shore, having held the same position for a year prior to the entrance of Jones during 1926 and last year Lake Forest won all seven games on its schedule, and cut its first four this year for a winning streak of 18, which was halted by the Manlius eleven of Manlius, N. Y. It then made it 20 out of 21 by defeating two strong teams, Morgan Park Military academy of Abingdon, Ill., and Illinois Military academy. It was the first year in some time that Lake Forest had played an entirely prep school schedule, and convinced Wilson that next year they will have to seek more potent opponents.

Lake Forest, 47; Concordia [Fort Wayne, Ind.], 0.
Lake Forest, 46; St. Alban's, 0.
Lake Forest, 13; Campion academy, 0.
Lake Forest, 7; Manlius, 13.
Lake Forest, 41; Illinois M. A., 13.
Lake Forest, 65; Wells M. A., 0.

During the last three years, Lake Forest has scored 701 points to its opponents' 51. Only three touchdowns have been scored against the team in that period, two of them by Manlius this year, and one by the Carroll college freshmen last year.

Team Averages 181 Pounds.

From tackle to tackle this year, the line averaged 201 pounds, and the entire team 181, figures worthy of a college team's scales. In at least three games this year, the entire squad of 35 saw action, a condition which necessitated the use of varsity players in the last two games so that they might be credited with enough points to earn letters, some of the players having played more than the regulars up to that time.

Lake Forest year after year sends forth potential stars to college teams throughout the country. Among academy alumni who have made good have been Jesse Hibbs, Southern California tackle; Dick Black, captain at Dartmouth in 1932; Paul Schuette, Wisconsin, now with the Bears; Stanley Pay and Jack Heston of Michigan; Alfred Dewodt, Jack Bales and John Bowles of Princeton; Wattie Holm, star of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team, and Herb Kopf, once captain of Washington and Jefferson and present back field coach at Columbia.

Young Harper is a nephew of Jesse Harper, Notre Dame's athletic director, and spent last summer on his uncle's ranch at Wichita training for his tackle. Of this number, Ellis, Johnson, Oakleaf, Smithies, Duer, and Pike will form the makings for next year's team.

The varsity isn't the only football team at Lake Forest, for out of an enrollment of 280, about 140 played football this year. Those who didn't make the big team pledged their allegiance to either the Orange or Black, these being the school colors, and also the two divisions of intramural athletic competition. This Orange and Black rivalry is a very keen one, according to Wilson, and is waged in eleven other sports throughout the year.

And just to correct a misunderstanding that the boys at Lake Forest are a mite older than their brethren at regular high schools, Wilson pointed out that the average age of the team is 17½ years.

COME HOME TO STADIUM ICE TOMORROW

HAWKS, RANGERS TIE; SHAMROCKS LOSE TO HORNETS

With less than three minutes to go, the Hawks opened up a five man drive that brought plenty of threats and finally tied the score in 13:24. It was a perfect pass-out. Lowrey took the puck down the right side into the corner and passed through two guarding Rangers to Couture, who was loafing by the far corner of the net, ready to flip it in. One Ranger rush turned back by Gardiner finished the action for the period and they went into overtime.

Gardiner Caught Out.

The Hawks seemed content to play for a tie in the closing minutes, and what few attacks they made were slow ones. The only exciting moment of the last three minutes came just before the bell when Gardiner was caught out of his net. But March got the puck and shot it to the far end of the rink.

Dempsey Must Answer Wife's Divorce Plea Today

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Unless attorneys for Jack Dempsey file an answer with the county clerk tomorrow answering Estelle Taylor's divorce allegation or arrange a stipulation with her attorneys to postpone the final day for filing a response, the actress will be eligible to claim her California divorce decree by default. Miss Taylor's attorneys today said they had no information as to Dempsey's intentions but would file a default in her favor Friday if no action is taken by the boxer.

Boston Bruins Overwhelm Champion Canadiens, 7-1

Boston, Mass., Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins tonight overwhelmed the Canadiens, 7 to 1, about the most humiliating defeat the Stanley cup champions have tasted in years.

The Bruins banged and battered the Frenchmen early in the opening period and slowed them down to their speed. Nothing that Cecil Hart's players attempted could click against the determined Boston defense and they went scoreless until late in the third period, when, with five forwards in action, Morenz caged the rebound on Aurel Joliat's slam at the Boston cage.

Harry Oliver put on an amazing exhibition of sharpshooting, scoring three of the Boston goals after Eddie Shore opened the scoring late in the first period. Lineup:

SHAMROCKS LOSE, 2-1

Duluth, Minn., Nov. 24.—(AP)—Duluth made a sweep of its opening series of the American Hockey league season with Chicago, defeating the Shamrocks here tonight, 2 to 1. The Hornets beat Chicago Saturday, 3 to 2.

Tonight's game was featured by excellent play by both goalies, Karakas and Turner, with the Duluth guardian giving a splendid exhibition in the last period. The Shamrocks' young custodian had an exciting middle session.

The first period was scoreless. Five minutes before the close of the second period Chicago scored, MacFayden's short shot eluding Turner. Duluth tied the score a few minutes later, Merrill and Bergl teaming to tally when Chicago was one man short. Forslund and Davis combined for a neat play to get the winning goal at 15:25 in the third period, the former firing at a corner of the cage. Lineup and summary:

MAROONS, 6; FALCONS, 1

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 24.—(AP)—The Montreal Marqons defeated the crippled Detroit Falcons, 6 to 1, in a National Hockey league game here tonight. The battle was waged on fairly even terms for the first two periods, but in the final period the Maroons broke through for four goals.

Brydson put the Maroons one up in the opening period after nearly eight minutes of scoreless play. Early in the second period Trottier made it two for the Maroons but before the period ended Ebbie Goodfellow scored for the Falcons. The third period was a rout, however, as Stewart, Siebert, Hooley Smith, and Northcott all tallied. Lineups:

MAROONS [6].		DETROIT [1].

INCREASE PLAYER LIMIT.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 24.—(AP)—President William F. Grant announced today the American Hockey league has increased the maximum player limit for each member club from 12 to 15.

The change was made, he said, in order to bring into the league several players now at liberty and to increase the league's personnel in preparation for the addition of two or more cities to the circuit next season.

Each club must have two goalies under the adopted proposals of a special committee named at the annual league meeting.

NOTRE DAME IN CHILLY DRILL FOR ARMY SKIRMISH

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—A biting wind swept Cartier field today as Notre Dame's varsity returned to practice today against Army plays expected in Saturday's game at New York.

But the deeper sting of Saturday's two point loss to Southern California seemed to make Hunk Anderson's warriors oblivious of the wintry blast as they pranced through a short but spirited drill.

Beneath their outward display, however, there could be detected a spirit of determination that should work itself to a climax by Saturday. The team reported in excellent physical shape. Marchy Schwartz didn't bear a mark from Saturday's game. Joe Kurth, fiery right tackle, whose line play featured the game, had scratches under his eyes and on his nose, but otherwise was fit. George Melinkovich, full back, who was unable to play Saturday, was in uniform but did only light work. Steve Banas was with the varsity at full back.

The team will work out again tomorrow and will leave for New York Thursday noon, arriving at Harmon Friday morning at 8 o'clock. Two hundred students will leave here tomorrow afternoon at 12:30 o'clock on a special train.

CADETS DRILL ON DEFENSE

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—While there was a full speed scrimmage on the program for the Army squad today, the varsity players saw but little action during the heavy work. They all had a hand in the signal drill and Fields. Elliott, Carver, Brown, and Herb went through a kicking rehearsal. Head Coach Sasse used his regulars sparingly as the scrubs, clad in green jerseys, continued their demonstration of Notre Dame formations. Three B squad elevens bore the brunt of the Rambler's attack. It was a purely defensive drill.

Jack Armstrong, a reserve right tackle who has been resting of late, and Norman Lankensen and Jack Lawlor, second string ends, were conspicuous by their defensive work. Senter and Lamar worked alternately in the middle of the line. MacWilliam and Vidal, both of whom were used as ball carriers against Ursinus last week were in the back field again today. The squads worked out on the south gridiron during the preliminaries, but moved in behind the curtains and continued until after dark by electric light.

LAKE, FORMER MAJOR LEAGUE MANAGER, DIES

Boston, Mass., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Frederick L. Lake, 66 years old, manager of major league and other baseball clubs, whose career lasted more than two score years, died today at New England Deaconess hospital here after several months' illness. Lake was born in East Boston.

Lake began his baseball career with the Salem Cubs in 1887, when the organized game was comparatively in its infancy. In 1891 he was signed by the Boston Braves, the National league club, but after a single season in Boston he was released to Milwaukee. Subsequently he played with Kansas City and with Toronto.

In 1906 and 1909 Lake went to the Boston Red Sox as manager but he switched to his old club, the Braves, in 1910 and continued to manage the National leaguers in 1911. A contract disagreement ended his connection there, and later he coached baseball teams at Lowell and Harvard.

Lake is survived by his widow and three daughters, all of whom are married.

CRAGINS VS. JAMES BOOSTERS.

The Cragin Bears will meet the W. B. James Boosters football team on the latter's field, 50th and Van Buren streets, tomorrow night.

BUCKEYES SEEK WAY TO OUTWIT GOPHER LINEMEN

Columbus, O., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—The Ohio State football squad today had its hardest workout of the week in preparation for the Minnesota game Saturday.

The freshmen and reserve elevens demonstrated Minnesota plays against the first team, but only a "dummy" scrimmage was ordered.

Much of the Buckeyes' chance of winning depends on the ability of the line to hold the heavy Minnesota forwards and George Hauser, former Minnesota star, now the Ohio line coach, has spent this week in drilling it against Gopher plays.

Another workout tomorrow will be the last before the game. The squad will leave for Chicago tomorrow night.

SNOW HITS GOPHERS

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Arrival of the winter's first blizzard was too much for the Minnesota football squad, and, after working out in the snowstorm for 30 minutes, it retired to the fieldhouse for a prolonged drill on signals. A 40 mile gale was blowing and the temperature was below freezing when the athletes first showed up on Northrop field. Kicking, passing and handling of the ball was so difficult that the coaches called off the outdoor session.

Because of the change in weather conditions, the ticket sale has slowed up with the possibilities that not more than 25,000 will see Saturday's game.

Promoter Cepak Calls Off Tonight's Fights

CARDINALS AND BEARS TO REVEAL GRID REPERTOIRES

The Cardinals and Bears are prepared to use everything in their repertoires tomorrow morning at Wrigley field in their annual Thanksgiving day game and from the pace that both have been setting in the last few games, there will be plenty of fireworks.

The Bears won their last three games and the Cards their last four in the National Profootball league. It will be the twelfth Thanksgiving game and their twenty-third clash in the history of the league. The kickoff will be made at 11 o'clock.

The Cardinals will have their full power for the battle but the Bears may have to go along without the services of Bronko Nagurski because of a knee injury he sustained on the eastern trip.

Joesting Ready to Start.

Nagurski's place will be filled by Herb Joesting, who was named by Coach Ralph Jones to open the game at full back. Joesting played the first half against Brooklyn as if he had always been wearing an Orange and Black uniform of the Bears.

Coach Jones also named C. O. Tackwell, who with Joesting, was acquired from the disbanded Philadelphia Yellow Jackets, to start at right end. It will be Tack's debut as well as Joesting's as a Bear before the home folks. Tack is one of the huskiest birds in the league, scaling 218 pounds.

Red Grange is in better shape than he has been for six weeks and is expected to turn in his best performance of the season. Red averaged better than 5 yards from scrimmage against the Giants and Brooklyn.

Aim to Stop Nevers.

Jesse Hibbs, who is making good in his first year with the pros, will start at right tackle in an effort to stop Ernie Nevers, who has earned the distinction of being the "Iron Man" of the league. Nevers is regarded as 50 per cent of the Cardinal offense, and the Bears realize they must stop him if they expect to win.

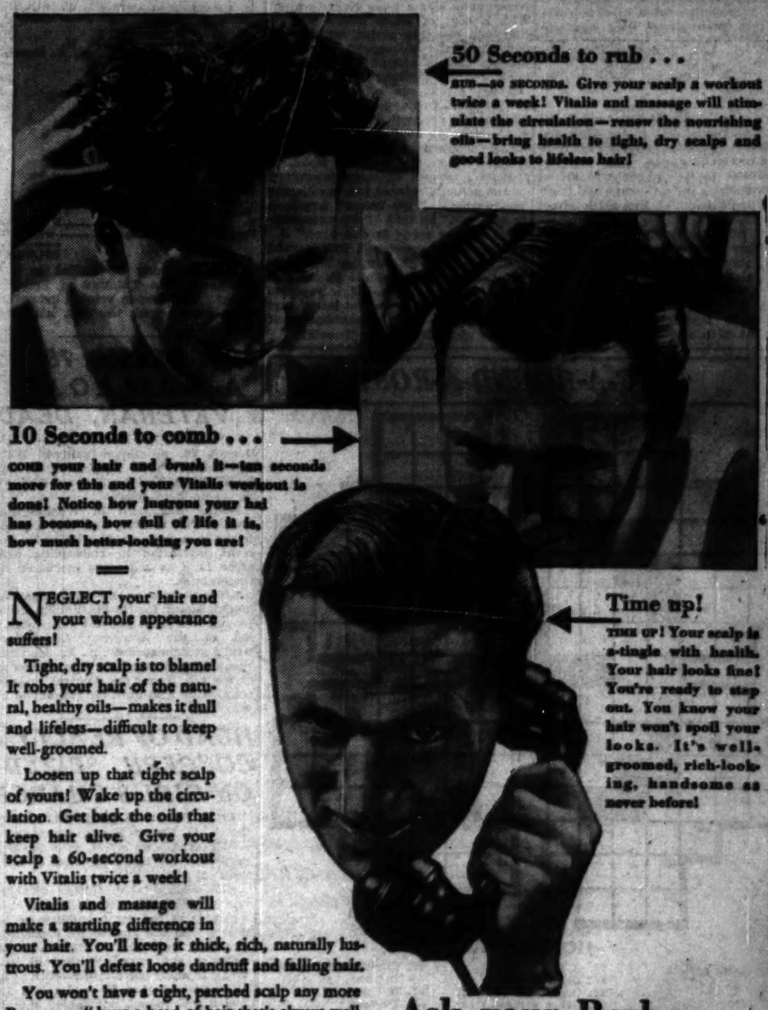
A
60-Second Workout
for handsome
HAIR!



50 Seconds to rub . . .
RUB—50 SECONDS. Give your scalp a workout twice a week! Vitalis and massage will stimulate the circulation—renew the nourishing oils—bring health to tight, dry scalps and good looks to lifeless hair!

10 Seconds to comb . . .
COMB your hair and brush it—ten seconds more for this and your Vitalis workout is done! Notice how lustrous your hair has become, how full of life it is, how much better-looking you are!

Time up!
TIME UP! Your scalp is a-tingle with health. Your hair looks fine! You're ready to step out. You know your hair won't spoil your looks. It's well-groomed, rich-looking, handsome as never before!

NEGLECT your hair and your whole appearance suffers!

Tight, dry scalp is to blame! It robs your hair of the natural, healthy oils—makes it dull and lifeless—difficult to keep well-groomed.

Loosen up that tight scalp of yours! Wake up the circulation. Get back the oils that keep hair alive. Give your scalp a 60-second workout with Vitalis twice a week!

Vitalis and massage will make a startling difference in your hair. You'll keep it thick, rich, naturally lustrous. You'll defeat loose dandruff and falling hair.

You won't have a tight, parched scalp any more But you will have a head of hair that's always well-groomed, with never a "patent-leather" look!

Begin today with the 60-second workout. And keep it up—twice a week. Your druggist and your barber both have Vitalis. It's a pure vegetable oil preparation. Get it today!

Ask your Barber . . .
Your barber gets a close-up of your hair every time you go to him. He sees what it looks like—and he knows what it needs. When he suggests Vitalis, listen to him! He's giving you sane, sound advice—and you'd better take it!

THREE KILLED WHEN TRAIN WRECKS AUTO

Fourth Critically Hurt in Crossing Crash.

Three persons were instantly killed and a fourth was seriously injured when their sedan was demolished by an Indiana Harbor Belt Line freight train at the Roosevelt road crossing in Broadview at 9:40 o'clock last night. The dead:

William H. Averyt, 44 years old, 835 South Lombard avenue, Oak Park.

The driver, Carjos Lallana, 40 years old, a Filipino living at the Gaylord home, was believed dying in the West Lake hospital, Melrose Park. His chest was crushed and his skull was thought to be fractured.

Engineer Tells of Crash.

The engineer of the train told police he saw the car going east in Roosevelt road at about 40 miles an hour and said it approached the crossing at undiminished speed, although signal lights were flashing.

Police Chief Harry Schroeder of Broadview said he believed the four in the party were returning from a Bible class in La Grange. There were three Bibles in the car.

Harold Oakes, a nephew of Mrs. Gaylord, identified the bodies in the mortuary at 201 Lake street, Maywood. His uncle, he said, was away on his engine run. The Filipino, he said, sometimes acted as chauffeur for his aunt.

Police Veteran Killed.

James F. Leckie, 72 years old, who was a member of a bucket brigade during the Chicago fire in 1871 and served at the Haymarket riot during his 25 years of police service here, died in St. Therese's hospital in Waukegan yesterday. He was injured Saturday evening when he was run down by an automobile in front of his home at 128 North Jackson street in Waukegan, where he was assistant city collector and a member of the police force.

The accident occurred as Leckie was returning to his home after having investigated a minor auto collision. The driver was Michael Hampsconlon, 570 Oak street, Waukegan.

Leckie is survived by his widow, a son, Stanley, a daughter, Mrs. Frances Vetter, and a sister, Mrs. Guy Spencer of Chicago.

Girl Killed in Collision.

Miss Elinor Holden, 15 years old, 1904 Washington boulevard, died at St. Anne's hospital last night of injuries suffered when an automobile in which she was riding collided with another at West End and Lamon avenues. Miss Emma Scheiberse, 16 years old, 1750 Polk street, was seriously injured in the same accident. Ray Martin, 815 North Francisco avenue, and Albert White, 316 North Lamon avenue, drivers of the cars, were questioned.

Virginia Warnitz, 10 years old, 11208 Langley avenue, died in the Roseland Community hospital yesterday from injuries received Sunday night when the automobile in which she was riding was demolished by a Chicago and Eastern Illinois train at the 107th street crossing.

The five Cook county deaths and one other yesterday raised the toll for Cook county since Jan. 1 to 1,154. The other victim:

William Dunn, 63 years old, 7336 South Campbell avenue. Died in the Englewood hospital after being run down at 69th and May streets. The driver was Herbert Moore, 9226 Tulley avenue, Oak Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Simon, 33 and 31 years old, 4817 North Troy street, were seriously injured yesterday afternoon when they were run down by a hit-and-run motorist at Franklin street and Jackson boulevard. The driver of the car, Miss Juanita Gonzales, 214 West Garfield boulevard, was halted by other motorists several blocks away. She was held by Central police.

NICKEL IS BIG ITEM IN FEEDING HUNGRY PUPILS

Buys Warm Meal for One Child.

Five cents may not look so big when placed alongside a dollar, but it means just the difference between lunch and fasting at noon for some boy or girl in the city schools. That is the average cost of the hot meal dispensed in the "penny lunchrooms" to children in the elementary grades. Lack of that nickel is keeping many a child both physically and mentally distressed.

Ten cents will feed two children for one day or one child for two days. Under the method employed by the Hungry School Children's fund sponsored by this newspaper it will provide one of these undernourished children with a noontime repast something like this: Glass of milk, plate of hot macaroni with tomato sauce, bread, butter, and prunes; or ot cocoa, hot vegetable chowder, bread and butter, and chocolate pudding.

Numerous variations of the menus are employed, practically always including milk in some form. Hungry youngsters are not particular what they eat, it has been noted, for there is seldom a complaint, and only occasionally is a plate left with any portion of the lunch uneaten.

STATE STREET ALL DRESSED UP FOR CARNIVAL

Thousands of office workers and early morning shoppers paused in amazement yesterday when they turned into State street at all points between Lake and Van Buren streets. The two rows of light posts which turn this shopping district into a great white way, was decorated.

In place of the stately standards were grimacing figures, reminiscent of toy land and fairy tale sketches. The predominant gesture of each figure, be it gargoyle or saint, was one of mirth. Huge jovial faces, with eyes crinkling with laughter and ruddy cheeks rolling in silent mirth, looked upon the crowds.

One of the most popular of the conceptions was a huge Negro waiter with a coat of many colors who is carrying two big steins with froth blowing to the breeze. Thirsty spectators clustered around for the steins could contain nothing but beer.

Today all fig res will be shrouded in prosaic canvas drapes. The purpose of the production is a secret. All the merchants belonging to the State street council met queries with lowered voices and cautious looks.

H. W. Reiger, executive secretary of the council, refused to even discuss the matter. "We haven't anything to say now," he said. "An announcement will be made in due time."

From other sources it was learned the council is planning a Yule tide carnival, for an indefinite length and at an unknown time. It is reported the carnival will open the latter part of next week. Definite announcement will be made Monday or Tuesday.

STOP HICCOUGHS

PASTOR VOICES COMPLAINT ON TRAIN WHISTLES

The Rev. Daniel E. Murphy, pastor of St. Cajetan's Roman Catholic church at 113th street and Artesian avenue, complained in a letter to Corporation Counsel Sexton yesterday that engineers on the Baltimore and Ohio Terminal railroad, passing three blocks from his church, use their whistles "like a small boy with a toy" on their way through Morgan Park.

The whistling, which starts at 91st street and continues for several miles, disturbs services at his church, the pastor stated. He also complained that the locomotives belch forth volumes of black smoke, to the annoyance of himself and his parishioners.

Mr. Sexton informed the clergyman that the city smoke inspector would stop the smoke nuisance, but that there is no city ordinance governing the whistling. He suggested that Father Murphy lodge an informal complaint with the Illinois commerce commission.

Forceps Found in Woman Operated On 11 Years Ago

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Eleven years ago Mrs. John S. McCord, McCordsville, underwent an abdominal operation. The wound did not heal properly, and she was compelled to wear a bandage over it many years. Recently she felt something hard under the skin near the wound. An operation was performed here today and surgeons removed a pair of artery forceps five inches long. Mrs. McCord will probably recover.

J. F. DEEMS, 76, A RAILROAD VETERAN, DEAD

Burlington, Ia., Nov. 24.—(AP)—J. F. Deems, 76, prominent railroad man and federal food administrator for Iowa during the world war, died at his home here today.

Deems was born in Washington county, Pa., in 1855, and was a mule driver in a mine at 11. Later he became interested in railroading and came here as a master mechanic in the eighties.

After service as superintendent of motive power for the Burlington lines, Deems was made general superintendent of the American Locomotive works at Schenectady, N. Y. He later became superintendent of motive power for the New York Central lines, a position he held until his retirement 13 years ago.

HEAD OF REALTY CONCERN SEIZED ON GIRL'S CHARGE

Al H. Cutter, 34 years old, head of the A. H. Cutter Realty company at 176 West Adams street, was arrested yesterday on the complaint of a 17 year old girl.

She alleged that Cutter attacked her in his rooms in the Midland club, which is in the same building as his office. She had applied for a position, she said, and when Cutter took her upstairs she supposed that he was going to show her another office. Cutter admitted that he had taken the girl to his rooms, but denied that he had attacked her, according to the police.

A hearing will be held today in Felony court.

Funeral Services Today for Fred A. Harrington

Funeral services for Fred A. Harrington, son of Capt. Ransom Harrington, who was an early settler of Geneseo, Ill., and a veteran of the Seminole and civil wars, will be held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at 316 West 63d street. Burial will be later. Mr. Harrington died on Monday of heart disease in his home at 7242 Yates avenue. He was 66 years old. Mr. Harrington is survived by his widow, Alice L., and two daughters, Mrs. E. R. Lindstrom and Mrs. W. S. Thompson.

INDICT HUNDRED ON DRY LAW.

HALT HICCOUGHS FOR A TIME, BUT PATIENT MAY DIE

Tube in Throat Aids Aurora Sufferer.

John Weber, 60 years old, who began hiccoughing eight days ago in the Copley hospital in Aurora, was reported in a critical condition last night, although he had not hiccoughed for the previous 24 hours.

The attack was stopped by placing a tube in Weber's throat. Whether the hiccoughing will be resumed when this tube is removed is problematical, according to the physician in charge of the case, Dr. A. N. Kitenplon.

If the hiccoughing is resumed, an effort will be made to paralyze the phrenic nerve by application of a drug, which in turn would act upon the diaphragm, the physician said. In case this is not successful, it will be necessary to sever a phrenic nerve, it was said.

Weber entered the hospital on Nov. 12, suffering from an internal growth, according to his wife, Mrs. Mayme Weber. On Nov. 16 he underwent one abdominal operation, and was to wait five weeks before the major part of the operation would be undertaken.

On the following day, a week ago yesterday, Weber developed hiccoughs. Since that time, Dr. Kitenplon said, he hiccoughed without cessation until Monday morning.

Weber was employed by the North Western Railway in Chicago, but has had only infrequent work in the last eight months, his wife said. They live at 725 Claim street, Aurora.

C. F. Concklin, Former Billiard Champion, Dies

Charles Fred Concklin, who was one of the foremost amateur billiard players of the country twenty years ago, died last night at his home, 815 Lake street, Oak Park, of heart disease. He was 65 years old. Mr. Concklin was at one time international 18-3 billiard champion. He was a native of Wisconsin, but had lived in Chicago since 1890. After retiring from competitive play Mr. Concklin operated a billiard hall for some years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lynn Mae Concklin.

Daughter of Ebert, Late German President, Dies

BERLIN, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Mrs. Amalie Jaenecke, only daughter of the late President Ebert of Germany and wife of Dr. Wilhelm Jaenecke, former attaché of the German foreign office, died today after a long illness. She was 39 years old. Before her father's election to the presidency she was employed as a clerk by a Berlin firm.

Chicagoan Steals Car in Iowa; in Jail Within Hour

Marshalltown, Ia., Nov. 24.—[Special.]—Peter Martin, 23, 1823 Kimball avenue, Chicago, stole a car at 2:15 today at Nevada. Before 3 o'clock he was in jail in Marshalltown and the car was restored to its owner.

BABY IS KILLED IN CARRIAGE BY A STRAY BULLET

Donald Bieschke, 2 years old, 1748 North Hermitage avenue, was killed by a stray bullet yesterday which struck him in the head as his parents were pushing his buggy along the street a few doors from their home. He died a short time later at the West North avenue hospital.

The child's father, August Bieschke, told police that he heard no shot. The baby screamed, and investigation disclosed the wound. Police believe the stray shot was fired by boys at target practice some distance away.

Another stray bullet yesterday smashed a window in an Illinois Central suburban train a few inches from the head of R. K. Herrick, 7618 Coles avenue, a salesman. This occurred as the train was passing Pershing road. Police said that hoodlums had broken several windows in passing trains there recently with bricks.

W. M. CLEMENS, JOURNALIST AND AUTHOR, IS DEAD

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—William Montgomery Clemens, 71, author and newspaper man, died suddenly today of a heart attack at his home.

Among the many books written by Clemens were biographies of Mark Twain, Theodore Roosevelt, and Admiral Dewey.

He was born Jan. 16, 1860, in Paris, Stark county, Ohio. He started his career with the Pittsburgh Leader and worked for many other papers, including the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the Los Angeles Tribune, the San Francisco Chronicle, and the New York World.

He was a member of the editorial staff of many publications, including that of the Encyclopedia Americana in 1903-'04. He founded Literary Life in Chicago in 1884 and the Genealogy magazine in New York in 1912.

RAILWAY HEADS AWAIT UNIONS' ACTION ON PAY

Labor to Air Wage Problem Dec. 8.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The managements of the major railroads of the United States will make an effort to secure wage reductions which will allow the railroad labor unions to decide whether or not to accept a reduction voluntarily. This was decided at a conference of eastern railroad presidents in New York yesterday, and it is virtually assured that railroad executives in other districts will follow suit.

Thus, the question of a voluntary reduction in wages is put up to the scheduled meeting of 1,500 representatives of the railroad union organizations in Chicago on Dec. 8. However, the eastern railroad executives at the close of their meeting yesterday indicated their attitude that a 10 per cent reduction in wages is necessary to relieve the carriers from distress. They hinted strongly that they will seek such a reduction through processes provided by the transportation act unless the Chicago conference offers a voluntary plan.

Basis for Hope.

Some hope that the unions may offer a program of voluntary reduction was inspired by the fact that officials of the Georgia and Florida railroad yesterday agreed to a 10 per cent cut in wages, effective Dec. 1. The employes are members of the railroad unions and the reduction was approved by their grand officers. However, the case of the Georgia and Florida is somewhat different from other railroads. It is in receivership and recently the receivers notified all employes that wages would be reduced 10 per cent on Nov. 1 and sought a court order empowering them to act. The railway brotherhoods filed a formal objection and asked that the case be submitted to mediation. As a result of joint conferences among the railroad's officers, union officials, and a representative of the United States board of mediation, the reduction was agreed on, although the railroad union representative asked that the outcome be kept secret until after the joint conference of railroad executives and labor representatives had concluded in New York last week.

In return for the agreement on a temporary wage cut, the receivers of the Georgia and Florida promised not to institute a move for a further reduction within a year without discussing the question again with the unions. But the receivers had threatened to stop operations of the road unless the wage cut was accepted.

The attitude of the railroad management was expressed by F. W. Lamb, secretary of the eastern presi-

Report Unusual Commercial Demand for Silver Bullion

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 24.—The combined low price and speculative attention given silver metal and the effects of the lowest price in years for manufactured silver goods, has brought unusual activity and much needed prosperity to silverware manufacturers, particularly in New England, a survey reveals.

Most of the sales of spot silver by local bullion dealers and by the American Smelting and Refining company have gone into commercial channels temporarily. Due to the unusual performances of silver on the local metal exchange, the normal movement of silver, which is outward from this country, has been reversed. There have been some imports from London, and it is known that some silver, shipped to the orient, was resold here, left on the vessel on which it was shipped and brought back again.

C. W. Handy, of the bullion firm of Handy & Harman, confirmed the unusual trade demand for the metal. It is due to the speculative interest in the metal and particularly to the low price of sterling silverware, which is attracting buyers.

Last Longer Than Usual.

Mr. Handy said that the holiday demand for silver metal is usually felt in the metal market several months before the holidays and that this year the demand has not been larger than usual, but has lasted longer than the usual time, indicating that good buying of silverware by users is continuing and that dealers are continuing to replenish their stocks.

Good business is being experienced by such concerns as International Silver company, whose sales of sterling silverware are excellent, and by Black, Starr & Frost-Gorham, Inc. The latter's plant is at Providence and the former's at Meriden. Indicating that buyers are at least aware of the possibilities of price appreciation in the metal is the decided preference for sterling product. Sterlingware is required to have 925 parts of pure silver out of 1,000 parts.

F. C. Mayo, president of Gorham, Inc., Gorham Manufacturing company, and Black, Starr & Frost-Gorham, Inc., who was here today from Providence to attend a directors' meeting, said that he found unit sales running about the same as last year, but at materially lower prices, and that the recent speculation in silver produced quite a bulge in the demand for silverware. He said that dealers were operating upon a hand-to-mouth basis and had been "playing the game pretty close to the chest."

Consumer Benefits.

The most important influence behind the enlarged demand for sterling silverware is the price cutting, in which the manufacturers have passed along to the consumer the advantages they obtained through paying less per ounce for the metal. Many buyers of manufactured silverware are of the belief that the metal is at the lowest average price it will see in some years and that now is the time to stock up on goods which have been wanted for years, but which have hitherto been too high priced.

The publicity given to the antics of the silver futures market has helped in the sale of silver goods, which in recent weeks have been actively pushed by department stores, whose ability to make low prices has helped in bringing down quotations made by other silversmith stores.

The revived trade demand has taken almost all the reduced supply of metal coming here from the mines, but there are supplies of metal to be had in various sources, so that it cannot be said that the spot supply is anything like exhausted.

BOND PRICES AGAIN DECLINE; RAILROAD ISSUES VULNERABLE

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Bonds were unable to match advances in other financial markets today and headed downward after a fair demonstration of firmness during the morning.

Railroad obligations again proved to be the market's most vulnerable spot. Boston and Maine 5s and 5½s, Baltimore and Ohio 4½s of 1933, Atlantic Coast Line 4s, Rock Island refunding 4s, Illinois Central 4¾s, New York Central refunding 5s, Nickel Plate 5½s, and Northern Pacific "B" 6s, among others, penetrated previous resistance levels.

Utilities showed up fairly well. Exceptions included the International Telephone convertible 4½s, which broke with the stock, and the same company's debenture 4½s. American Telephone listings were somewhat heavy, but Western Unions steadied.

International Match 5s met good demand, rallying around 2 points. Armour Loans firmed moderately, although there were soft spots elsewhere among the industrials. Chile Copper 5s broke 6½ points to the new low of 54. Several oil company loans, as well as an assortment of inactive specialties, were heavy.

CANADIAN LOAN REPORTED PAST HALFWAY MARK

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 24.—(AP)—More than half of the $150,000,000 national service loan of the Dominion of Canada was said by the general management committee to have been subscribed tonight.

It announced figures showing more than $80,000,000 of the bonds were sold yesterday and said reports indicated at least an additional $15,000,000 were subscribed today.

The committee denied a New York report that the proceeds would be used to meet the annual interest charges of $116,000,000 on Canada's national debt. None of the present loan, it said, would go for that purpose, since the dominion government had taken care of that liability.

The funds raised will be used primarily for unemployment relief and to assist the provinces in financing direct relief and for the national railways.

The national service loan is issued in five and ten year bonds, bearing 5 per cent interest, but sold so as to yield the investor 5.17 per cent on the five year issue and 5.13 per cent on the ten year bonds.

HEAR PRODUCERS HOLD UP FIGURES ON COPPER OUTPUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 24.—Estimates were made in the copper trade today that surplus stocks of copper increased approximately 18,000 tons during October. That would bring the total up to 497,896 tons, a new high record. No estimates of production or consumption were made.

The American bureau of metal statistics has made no report on statistics for October. The regular monthly report was due Oct. 12, but was not issued, the official explanation having been that some of the monthly figures were not yet available. It was assumed at the time that perhaps the delay was unavoidable, but that assumption no longer is tenable for the reason that although nearly two weeks have elapsed, the report still is held up.

The real reason for the failure to make a report is understood to be the refusal of certain producers to make their own statistical position known to the bureau. It is understood that those producers feel that the statistical reports in their present form leave much to be desired in that they reveal only the position of producers. They do not embrace any statistics on the position of consumers of copper. The producers want the consumers to report their stocks of the metal just as the producers do, it is said. As it is the consumer knows just how much metal the producers have on hand but they do not know how much the consumer has in stock. They feel that the information is one-sided and gives the consumers a decided advantage in the metal market. Just what will be done about it is not clear.

The market was very dull today. Copper was nominally quoted at 6½ cents a pound, but no sales were reported at that figure.

Inter. Business Machines to Pay 4th Stock Dividend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 24.—Directors of the International Business Machines corporation declared today the fourth consecutive annual stock dividend of 5 per cent in stock in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the capital stock, both payable Jan. 11 to holders of record Dec. 21.

The stock payment will add 32,493 shares to the company's outstanding capital stock, increasing the total to 703,344 shares. The company has no preferred stock outstanding.

The report of the company issued recently showed net income of $5,629,125 for the first nine months of 1931, an increase of 2.5 per cent over the corresponding total of 1930.

Directors of the Baldwin Locomotive works decided today to omit the semi-annual dividend of $3.50 a share due at this time on the preferred stock.

Takes No Action.

Directors of the Allied Chemical and Dye corporation took no action today with respect to a stock dividend on the common stock. In November last year and the year before the company voted stock dividends of 5 per cent each. Action on the regular common cash dividend of $1.50 quarterly is due for consideration at the Dec. 29 meeting.

Routine matters only were considered today at the meeting of the board of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. While the common and preferred dividends were declared at the final November meeting last year, action will not be taken on dividends for the final quarter this year until Dec. 8.

The Chesapeake and Ohio railroad declared a quarterly dividend of 62½ cents on its common stock.

The Welch Grape Juice company has announced the usual extra dividend of 25 cents a share on the common and the regular quarterly of the same amount.

Nehi Passes Dividend.

Directors of the Nehi corporation have passed the quarterly dividend of 15 cents due at this time on the common stock.

Directors of the Anglo-Persian Oil company, in which the British government has large holdings, have decided not to declare an interim dividend in view of the present condition of the oil industry, according to a dispatch from London.

Directors of the Boston Woven Hose and Rubber company voted to reduce the quarterly dividend on the common stock from $1 to 50 cents. The regular semi-annual of $3 was announced on the preferred.

CHICAGO STOCKS UP SLIGHTLY ON SEE-SAW TRADE

A dull see-saw session of professional trading on the Chicago exchange ended yesterday with stocks showing no important price changes. The better tone shown by the New York market was reflected to the extent of fractional gains in the active stocks but speculative interest was at low ebb throughout the day.

The moderate trading in Bendix stood out against the drab background of general inactivity and the slight gain chalked up for the stock was one of the features of the day's trade. This stock has been the speculative favorite in recent weeks and when market conditions allowed it has reflected the efforts of its aggressive sponsors.

Lindsay Light company common was traded in at 10 as the street heard reports that the annual report, which will show earnings in excess of 1930, when the company reported net equivalent to $1.31 a share on common. It is understood that the chemical division has enabled the company to increase its profit. Estimates place net for the year at $1.75 a share. The directors yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred. The common stock was recently placed on a 20 cents quarterly basis. Formerly the issue had paid 10 cents regularly and 5 cents extra.

New York, Nov. 24.—(AP)—American Smelting and Refining Co. has reduced the price of lead a tenth of a cent a pound to 3.85 cents a pound.

OCTOBER INCOME OF 8 RAILROADS IS $8,272,000

The first eight railroads to report October results showed a slight increase in net operating income over the previous month. The total of $8,272,000 for October compared with $7,538,000 in September, and $11,350,000 in the corresponding month of 1930.

	1931.	1930.
Erie System	$1,373,682	$1,562,850
Chicago Great Western	$66,928	$56,024

Union Pacific	4,982,585	7,461,429
New York, Ont. & W	116,805	27,551

Gross revenues for the Canadian National railways for the week ending Nov. 21, 1931, were announced yesterday as $3,937,178 compared with $4,198,286 for the similar period in 1930.

Japanese Bank Ships $11,000,000 Gold to U. S.

The Yokohama specie bank has shipped 22,500,000 yen [approximately $11,000,000] of gold to the United States. The shipment brings Japanese gold shipments to the United States since Oct. 1 to 244,000,000 yen, or nearly $120,000,000.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 24.—The share market gave a little imitation of being hoist by its own petard in the late dealings today. The sudden upturn in wheat and sterling set the nogging of shorts to bobbing and brought about a short covering flurry which forced the active list ahead for an average gain of a point or more.

Volume was small, however, the pace as lazy as ever and the exhibition fooled nobody. It was a technical affair out and out. Lookouts have been warning for days that a turnabout was inevitable on the face of the short interest built up since the market turned so doggedly downward a week or so ago. Obviously, if this interest has grown anything like as large as the wise ones say it has, the rally was long overdue. That it did not follow through nor attract a following was due solely to the fact that there was no news development of importance enough to provide any sort of basis for it. The news, indeed, was just as barren of bullish items as it has been all along. There wasn't a thing to whoop it up over.

Action in South.

Some attempt was made to hurrah a bit over word of the move by the trainmen of the Georgia and Florida railroad in voluntarily accepting a 10 per cent wage reduction "with the approval of the heads of the brotherhood," but the significance of the event seemed to need a little too much explaining for the average one-eyed trader to get heated up over it. Maybe it was a "straw in the wind," but the collapse of the negotiations between the executives and brotherhood delegates appointed to talk over a general wage cut proposal was too fresh in the mind to make the Florida "move" look really important. Nor did a rumor put in circulation during the afternoon to the effect that employes of the New York Central had agreed to accept a similar reduction

HILLMAN'S PLANS ELABORATE OAK PARK FOOD SHOP

27 AL CHASE.

Hillman's, which operate a large food shop in the loop and another uptown, yesterday signed a lease for a large branch establishment in Oak Park in the building now under construction at 1125-33 Lake street, running through to 1124-34 William street in Oak Park. Sol H. Goldberg, president of the Hump Hairpin Manufacturing company, who is erecting the building, is lessor. Leichenko & Esser are the architects.

The new Hillman suburban store, which will be the first of several similar branches, will occupy the entire basement, a store on the first floor at the southeast corner of Lake street and the arcade and a substantial part of the second floor. It will be a duplicate of the big loop store at 24 West Washington street, except, of course, it will be more modern.

Air to Be Conditioned.

A complete air conditioning system will be installed which will supply cooled and washed air in the summer and heated and cleaned air in the winter. A series of refrigerated and air controlled rooms and counters will be installed to provide the different degrees of coolness required for various foods.

In addition to the sale of food products Hillman's new Oak Park store will have a modern restaurant, a candy kitchen, soda fountain service and will have a bakery to provide fresh goods and specialties for the restaurant and for sale.

All of the walls and counters will be of tile and marble, with trim of metal. The floors will be of ornamental terrazzo and ceilings will be of ornamental plaster and metal. The long term lease with Hillman's was negotiated by George J. Skurow and Asher J. Goldine, brokers.

Honor Past Presidents.

Seventeen of the twenty-two living former presidents of the Chicago Real Estate board were guests of honor yesterday at an annual turkey dinner at the board rooms. Vice President D. Avery Kimbark, prospective president of the realty body, presided in the absence of Mark Levy. William C. Regelin, past laureate of the board, presented the seventeen former presidents to the audience, introducing each with a short history and a rhymed "inquiring reporter" interview, which brought loud applause. Hyde Perce led the singing. Guy Elbs told a few yarns and William J. Cavaney sang.

The seventeen former presidents of the realtors and the years of their terms were: William A. Bond, 1893; Henry A. Knott, 1896; Frank G. Boyne, 1906; Edward S. Judd, 1907; John F. Wallace, 1910; Callistus S. Ennis, 1914; George H. Taylor, 1915; Paul Steinbrecher, 1916; Valentine H. Burghmor, 1917; Adolph F. Kramer, 1920; John R. Magill, 1923; Harry Goldstine, 1923; S. Charles Iversen, 1925; John P. Hooker, 1927; George F. Nixon, 1928; Albert W. Swayne, 1929, and Newton C. Farr, 1930.

Secures Title.

Title to the five story fireproof building at 710 South Lincoln street was taken yesterday by the Chicago Medical school which has been occupying it for nearly a year. It was purchased from the Frances E. Willard National Temperance hospital, of which Mary A. Baldwin is president and O. L. Leonard is secretary, for a reported $150,000, subject to $50,000. The site is 88x116 feet on the south and 100 feet on the north.

According to Dr. A. Augustus O'Neill, president of the school, the institution was at 3832 Rhodes avenue, for seven years, moving to the west side a year ago. It has 300 students and maintains what he states is one of the largest free clinics in the city, caring for over 3,000 poor people last year. Dr. W. A. Dorland is dean of the school. Levinson & Levinson were attorneys for the school. Herman A. Fischer was attorney for the seller.

However, since they have been cut ome so drastically the t ill shares im- proved somewhat along with the rest of the list. They couldn't help being swept along by the same technical position that gave other departments of railroad betterment was achiev- ed. New York Central, Illinois Cen- tral, Norfolk and Western, the pick of the active group to keep well on the 100 list, made about the best showing, gaining 2¼ points. Erie Pacific came back for a point and functional betterment was achiev- ed, as did others. Atchison couldn't quite make the grade, however, and added nearly a point worse off than it did yesterday.

Motor Stocks Improve.

Motor stocks acted better, although most of them showed any disposition to run away with the show. Strength in General Motors was reflected in a good advance in Du Pont.

United States Steel was the leader among the industrials. It set off on Saturday's closing figure and on Monday found it showing a net gain of nearly 2 points. Much of the re- bounding in shares of this old mar- ket line has been attributed to bears as the circumstances it was nat- ural the issue should rebound only with a turnabout.

Others Improve.

Movement was fairly uniform in its sliding. oil, chemical, amusement and public utility groups. Allied Chemical was in fair demand all day and reversed nearly 2 points of its net loss, in spite of the failure of its directors to declare the 5 per cent cash dividend which had been de- manded by the company in 1929 and paid in 1930. The advance in silver helped Cerro de Pasco, which moved sharply along with the shares of other companies interested in sil-

Some of the more mercurial issues rose 3 to 4 points. General Railway Signal advanced 4¼ on a small turn-

Reports that Columbian Carbon had failed to earn its dividend require- ments left the stock of that corpora- tion untouched. Indeed it moved up about 1 points in defiance of the news.

WHEAT CLOSES HIGHER AFTER EARLY SLUMP

Farm Board Makes Report on Holdings.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Announcement that the federal farm board holds nearly 190,000,000 bu cash wheat which was bought at an average price of approximately 82c per bu had only a temporary effect on the market yesterday, although this amount was well in excess of recent trade estimates. The latter has been around 150,000,000 bu for some time past.

A wave of scattered liquidation developed following the issuance of the farm board figures at Washington, and the active futures dropped around 2½c from the early high, but the loss was quickly recovered and the finish was at net gains of ⅛@1c after a range of 2¼@2⅝ for the day.

All deliveries sold at a new low on the current downturn during the day, showing 13⅛@16½c under the high on Nov. 9. Stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down, with the May touching 58½c, but there was aggressive commission house buying which absorbed the surplus in the pit and later locals started to buy and found offerings light, causing a bulge to 60⅝c, with the finish at 60 to 60⅛c. December was 56⅝c, March 58⅛c, and July 59¾ to 59⅞c at the last, the latter going to a discount under May as the result of the more favorable outlook for the new crop.

Europe Buys Cash Wheat.

A marked improvement in the foreign demand for wheat with sales of around 1,500,000 bu Manitobas estimated in all positions in Winnipeg messages attracted considerable attention, especially as the Liverpool market failed to follow the downturn in North America and closed only ⅛@⅜c per bu lower with the December quoted at 58c on the basis of $4.86 for sterling. The latter market gained ⅝@1¼c on Chicago as the result of its strength, the May being kept over all the time it closed, compared with 2¾c a week ago. There was nothing in the news to account for the upturn abroad. Winnipeg was 1@1¼c higher for the day with December quoted at 63c in Canadian currency.

More favorable weather conditions were reported in Argentina and Buenos Aires closed 1@1¾c lower with December 46⅝c. The buying of wheat futures on the extreme break yesterday was regarded as due to the fact that the bad news which has been hanging over the market for some time past is now out of the way, as the actual holdings of the farm board are now known.

Official announcement that the farm board held 190,000,000 bu on Nov. 1 is regarded as explaining to some extent the lack of pressure of cash wheat on the market, as the commercial supply on that date was 244,000,000 bu, and with the 53,000,000 bu held at Canadian points there was a total of 276,000,000 bu, which after deducting the government holdings suggested only 86,000,000 bu of free wheat. As the total carryover for the country on June 30, 1931, was estimated by the department of agriculture at 319,000,000 bu, and the farm board owned 257,000,000 bu on that date, it suggested only 62,000,000 bu of free wheat in all positions at the end of the 1930-'31 season.

Buy Wheat; Sell Corn.

Buying of wheat futures against sales of corn by spreaders had considerable influence on both markets, the latter showing a heavy undertone a good part of the day and at the inside showed 1¼@1½c under the early high and 7⅛@8⅛c under the high point of the season reached on Nov. 2. Closing trades were at net losses of ⅛@¾c, with December 41¼ to 41⅝c, March 43⅜c, May 45⅝c to 45¾c, and July 47⅛c. Country offerings remain very small, while the shipping demand was slow.

A sale of 20,000 bu No. 3 white oats, presumably for export via Montreal, was reported yesterday, the first evidence of foreign business in this grain in sometime. There was also a better domestic demand, with local handlers reporting sales of 173,000 bu. Futures showed fair strength and closed unchanged to ⅛c higher, with December 30c, May 34⅝c, and July 37⅞c to 38c.

Spreading operations furnished a good part of the trade in rye, the latter grain being bought against sales of both wheat and corn, and the finish was at net gains of ⅛@¾c, with December 47⅞c, May 52⅛c, and July 53c. Nothing was heard regarding export demand. The rye crop of 20 countries in the northern hemisphere is now estimated at 177,000,000 bu less than last year.

BUTTER AND EGGS HIGHER

Despite continued bearish storage news, butter and egg futures firmed up on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, butter gaining ¼@½c and eggs ¼@¾c. Potatoes closed 1c lower to 1c higher. The weekly storage report from the 26 cities recorded an outward movement of butter nearly 3,000,000 lbs less than last year, and the four markets reported another 500,000 the reduction in the shortage. The egg news also showed a sharply lower outward movement. However, buying was active, apparently due largely to hope of reduced production as a result of colder weather. Switching from November to later months was heavy. Sales: Butter, 2,261,600 lbs; eggs, 1,332,000 dozen; potatoes, 370,000 lbs. Deliveries: Butter, 37 cars storage standards; eggs, 10 cars refrigerator standards. Prices follow:

ISSUES ORDER.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

It was the belief of wheat traders at the close yesterday that the market had been well liquidated, there being heavy selling credited to leading longs around the low prices of the day on a break of practically 15c from the recent high. The rally that followed suggested to many observers that the market had had its break for the time being and that the technical position had been improved so that a moderate upturn would be in order. However, should cables come lower today an early break would not be surprising. The point was made that should cotton and stocks continue to show improvement grains would respond.

Charters have been made at Chicago to move 900,000 bu of wheat to eastern ports, largely Buffalo. A number of boats have also been chartered at Duluth, Fort William, and Port Arthur. The season of lake navigation is rapidly drawing to a close, and freight rates from Chicago to Buffalo to 2c to go down and unload and 2½c for winter storage at Chicago, and 3c and possibly 3½c for storage from Duluth and Port Arthur to eastern lake ports.

"Barring crop failures, the final outcome of wheat prices will depend upon the export situation and on the quantities of wheat which will be disposed of abroad," says the Uhlmann Grain company. "From our latest reports English port stocks are about 19,000,000 bu larger than last year, because they accumulated wheat in the hope of a higher tariff, and storage room there is much more scarce than wheat."

Lewis G. Castle, Duluth, Minn., bank president; Paul S. Ames, Nathaniel S. Howe, John I. Witter, and Sylvan M. Barnet, all of New York City, have been elected to membership on the Chicago Board of Trade.

A wire from Lincoln, Neb., to Jackson Brothers says: "We are bidding equal to 6c over Chicago December for wheat here and cannot buy a bushel."

J. E. Bennett & Co.'s Winnipeg correspondent wires that their market is well liquidated and sales from the country very small. Exchange seems to be slowing up the export business.

Broomhall says the demand for wheat is insufficient, but there are indications that France and Italy may take larger quantities in the very near future, England and some other smaller importers are expected to continue buying liberally, but Germany is too poor to indulge in buying foreign wheat just now. Millers are not bidding and are awaiting developments.

COTTON OFFERS LIGHT; SPOTS UP 25 POINTS

Light offering of cotton for December delivery surprised the trade and brought in new buying yesterday as well as covering by shorts. Prices moved up and closed around the best of the day, with gains on futures in Chicago 12@25 points and other markets 23@27 points. Spots were up 25 points or more than $1.00 a bale. New York being $6.35, New Orleans and Galveston 6.25c, and Houston 6.15c. Liverpool closed 36@6 points net higher with spot sales of 16,000 bales. Trading was not heavy, but the market had a better tone. Cotton specialists regard the movement to cut acreage 50 per cent as likely to go through, as a majority of states have voted in favor of the movement, started by Texas, and a number of the state legislatures have approved the proposition. It will be interesting, however, to watch the extent to which the cotton planters will enforce the acreage reductions.

New York Cotton exchange service estimates world consumption during October at 1,027,000 bales, compared with 982,000 bales in September and 918,000 bales in August and 961,000 bales in October last year. Total consumption for the three months was 2,927,000 bales, compared with 3,229,000 bales last year, an increase of 11 per cent.

Thomas & McKinnon say the difference between the actual cost and present price of cotton is so great that to take anything but a bullish position on cotton as a long time proposition would be an economic mistake. Prices follow:

NOTED MOUNTS WILL COMPETE AT EXPOSITION

Horse Show Will Open on Saturday.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Entries closed yesterday for the horse show which will open Saturday night as a part of the 33d annual International Live Stock exposition in the stockyards. There will be three matinées and six evening performances of the horse show, which will draw thousands of Chicago residents and Chicago visitors to the light harness, saddle, and jumping competitions as well as polo championship games and other exhibitions.

Saturday night's show will be followed by matinée performances on Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday and evening performances each night of the exposition except Sunday, Nov. 29.

Expect Close Competition.

Keen competition is expected. Among the entries are the best animals from the stables of Mrs. A. C. Thompson, Chicago exhibitor; the Fisher brothers, auto body builders; J. M. Studebaker Jr. of South Bend; Nathan L. Jones of Salina, Kas., and Mike M. Moss of New Orleans.

Other Chicago and suburban horse fanciers who have entered animals include William E. Dee, Mr. and Mrs. Hill Blackett, Leonore Cudahy, Forest View stables, Miss Edith M. and Justin B. McCarthy, Russell Olson, Mrs. Daniel A. Orth, Samuel M. Reed, J. A. Rothschild, C. R. Shaw, Lieut. G. S. Smith, Raymond T. Smith, Harry Strauss, Miss Martha Cliffendasch, Powell Tully, Col. Edward H. Wentworth, Le Roi J. Williams, Thomas E. Wilson, Miss Jane Anderson, Mrs. W. C. Booth, Dr. C. H. Brainwell, Drakewood farms, International farms, Robert E. Cudahy, Howard Dickey, Jerry Dwyer, Richard A. and Irving S. Florsheim, C. B. Goes Jr., Miss Arline Martell, Miss Elinor Mayer, Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, Mrs. Mary C. Llewellyn's Sunset farm stables, Miss Gloria Walter, and B. H. Walter.

Hold Polo Tournaments.

In the polo game schedule the Saturday evening contest will be a final university tournament game between University of Chicago and Ohio State university players. Beginning Monday evening there will be contests each night to decide a championship between teams of the 124th field artillery, the 124th field artillery remount association, Olympia Fields, and Fort Sheridan.

Yesterday a trainload of 73 freight cars arrived from Iowa to add carlot entries to the International Fat Stock show. The total number of beeves, hogs, horses, and sheep will be around 12,000, in addition to about 5,000 samples of grain and hay.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—(AP)—Cotton goods were very quiet today. There were moderate sales of overcoatings and suitings in the woolen division. Silks were quiet. Dress goods were inactive at a new low level following changes in exchange. Rayon demand was showing a little improvement. Warm weather was still holding trade back.

—MEN—

These were just two pay checks drawn last week by two of our new men who had no previous sales experience. Forbes, the master salesman and authority on finance and conditions now, says that things with real appeal will sell, and he has recently written a wonderful article about our Company—and it's wonderful product. Believe us, we have an article that is different. It sure has appeal; it offers the only 3 reasons that make people spend money: Pleasure, investment, and necessity. Without fear of contradiction we have the highest paid sales force in the country. If you want to make money you must go where the money is being made. This is the place. Come in and see for yourself—meet the men who are making it. They are former preachers, lawyers, engineers, architects, auditors, clerks, mechanics of all kinds; and, in fact, from most all trades and professions. Also some fine specialty salesmen who have come into this business because they can make more money than in their former business.

If you are chosen an expense will be spared in training and preparing you for this business. Can use men from Chicago and surrounding towns in a radius of 75 miles. Come in and if not convinced,

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: The Bridge of Cries

The lowest priced advertising is that which produces the most per dollar expended. Chicago advertisers testify day after day and year after year to the most productive advertising in Chicago. They buy nearly as much want advertising in the Tribune as in all other Chicago newspapers combined!

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives, at reasonable rates

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1929, and our customers have enjoyed it ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

FOR EXAMPLE:

The average monthly cost of a $200 loan, repaid in 20 equal monthly payments, is $2.68. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.

FARM BOARD 177 MILLION 'IN THE RED,' IT ADMITS

Total Loss May Run to 202 Million.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Nov. 25.—(Special.)—Losses of 177 million dollars in the federal farm board's stabilization operations in wheat and cotton on the basis of Oct. 31 prices were officially admitted by Chairman James C. Stone and Carl Williams, cotton member, before the senate agricultural committee today.

Had the 189,656,156 bushels of wheat held by the Grain Stabilization corporation Oct. 31 been sold at the then prevailing prices it would have meant a loss of approximately 102 million dollars on the board's total stabilization transactions in wheat.

Had the 1,310,789 bales of cotton held by the Cotton Stabilization corporation Oct. 31 been sold at the prices of that date it would have meant a loss of approximately $75,000,000.

These estimates were submitted by Mr. Stone at the request of Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], chairman of the committee.

Face 25 Million Further Loss.

Immediately thereafter, Mr. Williams testified, under questioning by Senators Norris of Nebraska and Thomas of Oklahoma, that should the cotton cooperatives to which the board has loaned large sums be forced to sell the 3 million bales they hold, the board might expect to lose an additional $25,000,000. In this event the board's total loss through stabilization operations would reach a total of 202 millions.

As Mr. Williams had previously explained, the loans to the cotton cooperatives were granted as part of the board's attempt to stabilize cotton prices, the board having purposely chosen to divide its efforts in cotton between the stabilization corporation and the cooperatives rather than to deal entirely through a stabilization corporation, as it did in wheat.

Mr. Stone's statement to the committee explained that the losses on the 189,984,865 bushels of wheat dealt in by the board in addition to the amount now held had been charged up against the present holdings.

The Official Statement.

The statement was as follows:

"On Oct. 31, 1931, the grain stabilization corporation held 189,656,15[6] bushels of unsold wheat. Including cost, carrying and operating charges and loss on wheat sold to date, these remaining stocks represent an investment of $1.17 per bushel, or approximately 222 million dollars.

"This wheat is being sold at no over five million bushels per month [except for possible additional sales to foreign governments]. It would be impossible to sell all the holdings on any one day or in any short period without seriously breaking the price. The disposal of stabilization wheat may extend over several years in the future; if prices should rise significantly during that period the final cost of stabilization might be materially less than it would appear from an estimate based on present market prices, and there might even be a gain.

Value Shrinks to 120 Millions.

"On Oct. 31, 1931, the value of the unsold stocks owned by the stabilization corporation, computed at the market prices of that day [61⅛ cents December futures at Chicago], would be estimated at 63½ cents per bushel, or approximately 120 million dollars.

"On Oct. 31, 1931, the cotton stabilization corporation held 1,310,789 bales of cotton. Including costs, carrying and operation charges, and loss on cotton sold to date, these stocks represent an investment of about 18 cents per pound, or approximately 120 million dollars.

"This stock of cotton could not be sold in one day or in a short period without seriously depressing the price. The stock will not be sold within the crop year and not within the next crop year if acreage is materially reduced.

Futures Prices Will Tell.

"Should there be material advance in price before the sales are complete the final costs of stabilization might be much less than would appear from
